Complex Is Opposed By Village

Elk Grove Village will continue to oppose the development of a 1,336-unit planned development southwest of the village limits according to two local officials.

Village Trustee Richard McGrenera, chairman of the planning, zoning and judiciary committee and Charles Willis, village manager, said yesterday the village would probably file another objection to the proposed development but that it may not do any good.

The Cook County Board Monday unanimously approved of the 50-acre development to which the village board objected last April in a hearing before the county zoning board of appeals in the Elk Grove Village Hall.

The Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights is the owner of the tract north of Devon Avenue and east of the I-90 Expressway now under construction. To the north and east are single-family homes.

THE PARKWAY Development Co., Schiller Park, plans to build a $22 million development to include 926 one-bedroom units, 254 efficiency units, and 34 single family homes in unincorporated Elk Grove Township.

The village objects to the project because it is contrary to its comprehensive plan which calls for the development of single-family dwellings in the area.

At last spring's public hearing, Village Atty Edward Hofert said the developer did not take into consideration adequate fire protection for the project which includes several five-story elevator apartment buildings.

The village board in May filed a resolution protesting the project, contending it would be "disruptive, explosive, and that the only beneficiaries would be land speculators."

The village also maintained that the development will generate thousands of cars which will use local streets not designed for heavy traffic.

Joining with the village in its protest of the development were a group of Elk Grove Village homeowners near the proposed site.

Mrs. Mary Leindinger, of 598 Wellington Ave., led a campaign to send letters of protest to county board members.

THE HOMEOWNERS also objected to another multiple-family development next to the planned unit development, also owned by the Parkway Bank and Trust Co.

The bank owns another 27 acres which the county board approved for multiple-family dwellings last year. The village also objected to the county board's decision at that time.

The decision stood but construction has not begun as the area is in a location where sewer and water service is not easily attainable.

Elk Grove Village is able to provide service to the proposed development but is expected to refuse because it does not agree with the developer's use of the land.

Housing Probe Gets Top Priority

The chairman of the Elk Grove Village Housing Commission has placed importance on the results of a housing survey to be taken early in 1971.

Neil Cooney, the chairman, said the recommendation the commission will make to the village board regarding future housing will have much to do with the results of the survey.

Harper College in Palatine has agreed at no cost to act as a consultant, drawing up and interpreting the survey which may determine the need for low or moderate income housing.

The sample for the survey will include from 2,000 to 2,500 persons who work in the village but do not live in the village.

MOST OF THOSE to be sampled will be those who work in the industrial areas of the village. The survey is expected to be administered within the plants by company personnel.

The commission was formed last June with several purposes including one to define and establish housing needs.

It is also to determine and present to the village board a future housing program, including goals and objectives, and the formulation of a plan of implementation.

Though not finalized, the survey is presently undergoing some revisions. One question that may be included is to ask those being surveyed if they are satisfied with living where they are.

Other questions deal with a family's income, place of residence, family size, and employment.

The commission has set February as a tentative deadline for making a recommendation to the village board. However, it was conceded Tuesday that the commission is behind schedule.

IT HAS BEEN speculated that the recommendation may ask for a change in minimum lot size requirements for housing and/or for a change in density.

At least one commissioner, Edward Kemps, on Tuesday reaffirmed his stand on the housing question.

He said he had no desire to solve the problems of the South Side of Chicago.

He made clear that the people he was concerned about are those who work in the village, would like to live here, but cannot afford to do so.

Fraud Office Moves

The Elk Grove Village consumer fraud office, which has operated from the village hall, will be relocated in the new municipal complex, said Tom King, in charge of the local office.

The office, regularly open on Saturdays, will be closed Dec. 26 and Jan. 2. It will reopen on Jan. 9 and thereafter in the municipal complex, Biesterfeld Road and Wellington Avenue, from 9 to 12 a.m.

"NEARLY READY FOR a busy night . . ." Santa Claus and his helpers will visit many homes this Christmas Eve. (See more photos and story on Page 9, Section 2.)

'Nonprofitburgers'?

Teen Center Grill Turns On

Elk Grove Park District Teen Center director Bill Hughes has donned his chef's cap and opened the Teen Center kitchen for full operation this week.

The new menu includes hamburgers, 30 cents, cheeseburgers, 35 cents, popcorn, 15 cents, pop, 10 cents and French fries, 20 cents.

Double hamburgers are 40 cents and double cheeseburgers are 45 cents.

Teens have been waiting since the center opened last February for all the equipment to be purchased and installed in the kitchen. Vending machines in the main room had provided the only available food until this week.

THE KITCHEN will be in operation whenever the center is open for teen activities.

It is presently being operated by Hughes and several teenage volunteers.

Hughes said that the necessary equipment was purchased through the aid of the Elk Grove B'nai B'rith, Lodge 2202, which donated $400 and the Elk Grove Jaycees, which donated $25.

He credited Sam Kehr, manager of McDonald's in Elk Grove Township, and Norm Keller of the Pepsi Cola Co. with aiding the kitchen operation in an advisory capacity.

The hamburger buns used in the center were provided by McDonald's, Hughes said.

The daily kitchen service is not being run for a profit, he said, but as a service to the teens.

Hughes also has plans to use the kitchen facilities to provide special activities such as pancake breakfasts and spaghetti dinners.

Chemical To Be Dropped

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical, an Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent, Loft, will be discontinued next week, according to Sanford Arenberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers.

ARENBERG SAID that his firm had planned to discontinue the use of NTA before the announcement was made.

A natural soap and polyelectrolytes will be used as a substitute for the chemical and production of Loft will continue on schedule, he said.

Loft has been on the market for two months as a phosphate-free detergent. Distribution of the product is through local dairies, including Modern Dairy Co. and Arlington Milk, Inc., as well as hardware stores and franchise operations.

Arenberg said that Loft has had more than 2,500 customers in the last two months from the two Arlington Heights dairies.

Christmas Brings Brothers Together

by JIM HODL
After 47 years, two brothers were reunited in Palatine Monday. Gottfrid Wikman, 325 N. Mozart St., met his brother Edwin, who came from Sweden to visit his relatives for Christmas.

Wikman had not seen his brother since he immigrated to America in 1923. His brother, who remained in Sweden, was eight years old at the time.

"This is the best Christmas present I could have," Wikman said yesterday. "I have had no better gift in my entire life."

Wikman's brother is visiting America for two weeks to visit his relatives, most of whom he has never met. Wikman and his wife have five children, 22 grandchildren and are expecting great-grandchildren in a few years.

On Christmas Eve, Edwin and his wife Greta will have dinner at Wikman's daughter Ruth's home in Lake Mills, Wis.

EDWIN COMES FROM Alingsås, a town near Sweden's port city of Gothenburg. He is a civilian designer for a company related to the Volvo automobile company. He designs hoists, cranes, hydraulic lifts and half-track trucks.

Edwin was happy to meet his brother again too. He said he felt welcomed when he was greeted by Wikman and his wife at O'Hare Airport Monday.

Edwin's wife Greta said she was happy to meet Wikman and his wife too. This was the first time the Wikman's wives met each other or their brother-in-laws.

Edwin said he enjoyed Palatine because it was so quiet. He expressed a liking for America because of its traffic.

"Traffic here is not like in Sweden. In Sweden, the traffic is crazy and goes very fast while American traffic goes at a much more moderate and orderly pace," he said.

Wikman is a builder and a decorator and has lived in Palatine for some time.

Children's Films Set At Library

Two film programs for children will be held during the Christmas holidays at the Elk Grove Public Library.

The first one will be a story hour film program for pre-schoolers from 10 to 10:30 a.m. Dec. 29.

The movies are "The Sunday Lark," "Georgie," and "Alexander and the Cat with the Missing Headlight." The latter movie is the title of a child's book that will be told to the children before the movie.

Movies will be shown at 10 a.m. Jan. 2 for boys and girls six through 14 years old.

The films to be shown are, "A Scrap of Paper and A Piece of String," "Casey at the Bat" and "Trap Shooting with the Remington Pros." These films will total one hour.

For either program the boys and girls must pre-register at the main desk of the library, 101 Kennedy Blvd., before the day of the movies. Registration will be limited and will be accepted on a first come basis.

Pact Awarded

The Elk Grove Village Board voted Monday to award a $24,870 contract to Reimer Brothers, Inc., Elk Grove, for cleaning and reshaping 3,625 feet of open storm water drainage ditches east of Busse Road and south of Greenleaf Avenue.

The board also voted at a special meeting to approve the final subdivision plat for a tract of about 60 acres northwest of Devon Avenue and Busse Road in Centex Industrial Park.

Chrysler Corp. will locate a distribution center at the site.

Cal's Offers Free Coffee For Drivers

Free coffee will be available tonight at Cal's Roast Beef in Schaumburg, said Jim Sarris, manager.

Cal's is located at Golf and Higgins Roads.

All Cal's restaurants will be offering free coffee to drivers Christmas Eve between 4 p.m. and closing time, he added.

Officials of the Cal's chain of restaurants are making an effort to become more than just a business in the communities in which they operate by offering free coffee during the Christmas Eve peak traffic period.

They suggest that road weary motorists stop for free coffee, a change of environment and that motorists stretch their legs to offset fatigue, drowsiness and highway hypnosis.

The "drink for the road" should be a cup of free coffee rather than a more spirited beverage, they add.

Schools Are Closed

Although Dist. 59 schools are closed until Jan. 4 the district administration center and service center will be open during the holidays.

Both centers will be open until noon today and will open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., next Monday through Wednesday. They will be open until noon New Year's Eve.

The administration center is located at 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., and the service center is at 2525 S. Clearbrook Dr., both in Arlington Heights.

Ready For A Christmas Dog?

by BRAD BREKKE

If you're looking for a special kind of gift, a Christmas puppy who won't be any bother.

Who won't need to be fed.

Who won't need to be fed.

Who won't have an accident or two on your kitchen floor.

Who won't need attention.

Who won't need to be let outside on cold winter mornings.

BUY A STUFFED ONE!

But if you're ready for the responsibility of owning a dog, Christmas is a fine time to begin.

There are lots of cuddly, little fellows at this time of year just looking for a home. Warm, friendly pups with bright eyes, full bellies, wet noses, good appetites and wagging tails.

You just have to find them. But there are many places to look.

ONE SUCH PLACE is Kay's Animal Shelter in Arlington Heights.

The shelter, which is open from 1 to 5 p.m. on weekdays, usually has 35 to 40 dogs on hand to choose from. They are all types and all breeds, purebred, crossbred and mongrels.

If you select a Christmas puppy from the shelter, you must sign a contract in which you agree to take care of the animal for the rest of its life. If it is a female, you must agree to have her spayed if she hasn't been already.

There is a nominal donation fee asked for sheltering the animal and it varies according to the breed, beginning at $10.

A spokesman for Kay's said their most popular dogs are medium-sized mixed breeds.

"THEY TEND TO be less nervous than purebreds and are more desirable for families that have small children and just want a dog," she said.

"Christmas isn't the best time of year for adoptions. Spring and summer are better for us, it seems, because the dogs can be out more and are easier to house-break then."

"We have everything here from pups to grown dogs, mixed breeds to setters, shepherds, boxers and beagles. The dogs come from local homes where they cannot stay, for one reason or another."

"Some people have allergies, some move to new homes out-of-state and some move to apartments where no pets are allowed."

"We have a good turnover in puppies here."

"One word of advice though; if you're giving a puppy for Christmas, it's best to give it a little before Christmas. There's so much excitement during the day anyway, that it may be too hard on the dog."

ANOTHER PLACE to look is in pet shops. There are several in the Northwest suburbs that specialize in puppies.

Take Puppy Palace, for instance, located in the Northpoint Shopping Center on Rand Road in Arlington Heights.

They have a wide selection of breeds to choose from and the prices for AKC (American Kennel Club) registered pups range from $89 to $350. Dogs are sold with a 10-year guarantee and there are no mixed breeds for sale here.

Puppy Palace reports that this Christmas their most popular dogs have been Schnauzers, Poodles and Cocker Spaniels.

A spokesman for the shop said sales of puppies this Christmas have vastly improved over last year.

"People can buy dogs now and we'll hold them until Christmas Eve, if they like. We've had several persons come in early and order special breeds to be sure we had one for them at Christmas."

"PUPPIES AND KIDS play a lot and because most of our business is with families, it's important the buyer realizes that puppies need a lot of rest. If it's going to be a gift, it might be a little better if the pup could be given ahead of time, so he'll make the adjustment to his new home by Christmas Day."

He said Christmas is one of their busiest seasons, the other being spring.

"It's no harder to housebreak a dog in the winter than in the spring. You first have to paper train him and we have books and kits for that," he said.

Puppy Palace sells most of its dogs as pets, rather than as guard or gun dogs.

"WE WILL HELP a family make a choice regarding temperament, size, breed and color. Some of our customers have owned dogs before or have decided on a certain breed, though, and when they come in they have something specific in mind," he said.

Another pet shop specializing in puppies is the Decker Pet Shop on Dempster Street in Park Ridge.

They have a large selection of puppies, all breeds, and report that this year their most popular animals have been Poodles, Basset Hounds, Huskies, Alaskan Malamutes and St. Bernards.

They said there was an even split in suburbanites between large dogs and medium-sized dogs.

Prices for their pups run from $49 to $100, all are AKC and sold with a guarantee.

They sell mostly to families and urge too that if the pup is to be a present, it is best to give it before Christmas.

"CHRISTMAS AND fall are our best seasons, although we do a good business all year. This is really a non-season business. If you buy a dog now, we'll hold it for you until the 24th," said the owner of the shop.

"Winter is a good time to buy a dog. The family operates a little closer because they are inside more of the time."

"We'll get a last minute rush from now until Christmas and then after Christmas too. Boys get money as presents and come here to buy a dog or a turtle or some kind of pet," he said.

This pet shop will sell you any kind of animal, within reason, even a baby elephant. Cost: $3,000 FOB. You must ship it home from Africa yourself.

They advertise it for the man who has everything.

"But we haven't had many calls for elephants lately," he said.

IF YOU'D rather, browse through the classified ad section of your local newspaper and you'll find a wide variety of pets and prices, perhaps just what you're looking for.

Most of the ads are from private breeders who are trying to sell a litter of pups they have raised from birth. They have both purebreds and mixed variety.

If you have already decided on what kind of dog you want, find out where the nearest kennel is that specializes in that type and go visit it. The dogs there are usually better than average specimens because the kennel owner's reputation depends on the quality of his dogs and the care he gives them. Also, you can choose from a litter and maybe even get to see the puppy's sire and dam, which will give you a pretty good idea how he will turn out.

THERE ARE, however, some simple rules to follow when buying a pooch.

—Buy from a reputable dealer, pet shop or kennel.

—Don't get pressured into buying a dog you don't want. A dog is an investment and will be around a good many years.

—Don't buy a dog out of sympathy because he looks sad or sick.

—Don't bargain with the dealer for a price. It's costing him money to care for and feed the animal.

—Don't buy a poor specimen. Get the best you can afford. You get what you pay for.

—Don't buy a puppy on impulse or you may regret it.

—If he has a pedigree, be sure you get papers to prove it. Find out if he has been wormed and has his puppy shots.

—If you can, have a veterinarian examine the dog before the final sale to be sure it is healthy.

People Pollution Is Spoiling Parks

by JOHN LEIGHTY
United Press International
Roughing it in the West is presenting "people problems" that may turn off some of the wide open spaces to visitors unless steps are taken — by people themselves as well as authorities.
From Yellowstone's geysers to the waterfalls of Yosemite, from the rugged peaks of the Tetons to the deep crevices of the Grand Canyon, park systems throughout the West are feeling the strains of popularity. Or as one ranger wryly put it, "we're suffering from people pollution."

Western recreational areas bulged with summer tourists ranging from trailer-hauling retired couples to hitchhiking young people. In California's state park system, most camping reservations had to be made in advance and many disappointed travelers were turned away at the gate.
In the serene setting of Yosemite National Park in central California a calm July 4th weekend was shattered when 175 youths were arrested following a rock-throwing confrontation with park rangers. After the violent weekend, Yosemite suffered its worst tourist season in years. The number of visitors dropped. Youngsters were often turned away at the gate for a variety of reasons. Some older persons feared the park was being overrun by hippies.

BUT MOST FACILITIES reported less trouble with people than with people's paraphernalia — automobiles, bikes, trailers and boats — and with the expected side effects of littering, sewage problems and property destruction.

Yosemite took the unprecedented step of closing part of its valley floor to automobile traffic. The national park service hopes to preserve the valley by eventually closing the entire 10-square mile area to traffic. Trams will operate for sightseers.

"It's not people crowding our parks," said U.S. Park Service Director George Hartzog Jr., at a ceremony blocking a section of roadway. "It's the paraphernalia of the people, mainly automobiles." In Oregon, parks began to limit trails to light motorcycles in order to protect land. Some national forest areas near the Deschutes and Bend regions had to be closed to overnight camping because of sanitation and pollution problems.

One Portland, Ore., forester said: "Our facilities just cannot keep up with the demand. We are behind in our region — Washington and Oregon — in providing camp grounds, toilets and drinking water."

AT WASHINGTON'S Mount Ranier this summer, large weekend crowds from Seattle jammed the campgrounds, but facilities were generally adequate during week days.

In Arizona, 18,000 persons a day visited the Grand Canyon this summer to gaze from the dusty south rim at the multicolored beauty of ice age art — that is, when they could find parking space. Hiking down a trail into the canyon's bowels toward the tiny, winding Colorado River, one could scarcely imagine that at the bottom of the seven-mile hike there would be signs of pollution. But, 6,000 persons a year now take boat trips through the towering canyons and there are increasing litter and sewage problems along the river banks.

Litter is more than a problem, it is a major environmental threat. One Arizona park official said some of the lakes along the Salt River have "solid bottoms of beer cans."

A Utah official gave two frightening examples of how litter endangers wildlife. 1— soda and beer tab-tops thrown in rivers attract fish which swallow them and die, and 2— deer are attracted by the chemicals of discarded Polaroid film and eat them and die.

Claims Courts Will Uphold Regulations

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — School principals who stick by their guns when students challenge their regulations in court will find judges upholding their school rules, says a leading school solicitor.

William Fearon, past president of the Pennsylvania School Board Solicitors Association, challenges the widely held view that recent court decisions have eliminated school's powers over student dress and speech.

Fearon, at a Pennsylvania School Boards convention here, said his studies have convinced him courts will uphold a school principal who "stands by his regulations," even if the judge thinks the rules are wrong.

He cited a federal case in the South where a school district prohibited students from wearing beards.

"The courts thought this rule was nonsense, but the judges would not substitute their judgment for the school board's," Fearon said.

Softening Of Money Expected

The suburban consumer may not feel the effects of the latest drop in the prime interest rate for several weeks, but the move does confirm a general softening in the cost of money.

Major Chicago banks and others across the country dropped their prime interest rates Tuesday from 7 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent. This is the rate charged by a bank to its most credit worthy customers, usually large corporations.

The reaction of Northwest suburban bankers to prime rate cuts is generally mixed, since the "country banks" may not have enough borrowers qualified for the prime interest rate to justify a change. Two Arlington Heights bankers expressed this view.

"WE DROPPED OUR prime interest rate from 7 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent," but without too much fanfare," said Fritz Wolf, president of the Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights and Northwest Trust and Savings Bank. "This has a limited effect for suburban and Chicago banks, because there are just a few borrowers who are immediately affected. If it affects other interest rates, it will take several weeks."

Harold C. Harvey, president of the new North Point State Bank in Arlington Heights, said his institution is not affected by the prime interest cuts. He expects other interest rates to drop as a result of prime interest rate slashes this week.

"There is a time lag on other interest rates being affected by the prime rate," said Harvey. "Probably commercial rates will drop, but it's doubtful that consumer and mortgage rates will drop for some time. It's obvious that the cost of money is going down, but it will be after the first of the year or in the spring before other rates are dropped."

Tuesday's lowering in the prime rate was led off by Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, followed by the Bank of America in San Francisco and other large banks. Slack demand for business loans was the reason generally given for the rate cuts.

Seek Homes For Teachers

Mr. and Mrs. David Bone, 363 N. Morris Dr., Palatine, are helping a Chicago organization secure housing on New Year's Day for teachers from several foreign countries.

Mrs. Janet Bone said she and her husband are members of International Visitors Center which programs home hospitality for foreign businessmen and teachers.

She is asking residents of the Northwest suburbs to help the center in this effort.

The center is located in Chicago and sponsored by the federal Health, Education and Welfare Dept.

This New Year's, math, science and vocational education teachers will be in need of holiday housing.

The teachers are from India, Italy, Liberia, Nepal, Hong Kong, Thailand, Costa Rica and Brazil, Mrs. Bone said. All the visitors speak fluent English.

"We are looking to place them in area homes on Jan. 1 only, and would appreciate any volunteers wishing to offer their hospitality," she added.

The center is headed by Mrs. Marie Goldstein who can be contacted at DE 2-5876. Her office is located at 116 S. Michigan Ave.

HANUKKAH — The Feast of Lights — is now being celebrated by Jews all over the world. Candles are lit every night for eight nights to commemorate a miracle which happened over 2,000 years ago in Palestine.

Rabbi Jay Karzen of Maine Township Jewish Congregation in Des Plaines lights the traditional eight branch Menorah. Paul Frankel, 12, and Richard Berk, 12, both of Des Plaines, look on.

Jews Celebrate Feast Of Lights

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

In Palestine more than two thousand years ago the Hanukkah story goes, a band of religious freedom fighters triumphed over the mighty Syrian Roman empire's armies and won back their right to worship God in their own way in their own temple.

An edict had come down from the king, explained Rabbi Jay Karzen of the Maine Township Jewish Congregation in Des Plaines, that the only place of worship the Jews in Palestine had was to be destroyed. So the temple was taken over and idols were placed inside and the House of God was desecrated.

But there was a group of zealots, according to Rabbi Karzen, who would not accept this religious genocide. "They formed an underground movement called the Maccabees. Their leader was a man named Judah who guided them in war and they won back their temple."

The Jews were then faced with rededicating their temple. "Hanukkah means rededication," the Rabbi explained on the first day of the holiday Tuesday night. "This holiday celebrates that rededication. Now, according to tradition, there is an eternal light which must always be lit in the House of God. It's a symbol of God's everpresence — it reminds us that God is always home. This light was destroyed by the enemy and the Jews had to rekindle it in order to rededicate their temple."

But they had only one jug of undefiled oil. The oil could last only one day and it would take eight days for the rabbis to make new oil.

"THE QUESTION was," Rabbi Karzen continued, "whether to immediately kindle the oil knowing it wouldn't last long enough to insure the continual burning of the lamp or to wait until they made new oil. They wanted to show God they were anxious to rededicate their temple so they chose to burn the oil."

A great miracle happened then and the oil lasted for eight days and the light became eternal. "Now we celebrate that miracle by lighting one candle each night for eight nights to show an additional miracle was added each night the oil lasted."

The miracle which is often overlooked, the Rabbi continued, "is that this little group of Maccabees defeated a huge and powerful army. But we don't celebrate this because the Jewish concept is not to glorify war. Death and killing are repugnant to us so we never celebrate it."

Hanukkah is the Feast of Light — a holiday of religious freedom. Proof that a minority — like the Maccabees — could be right.

And tonight once again as they have done for thousands of years, Jews all over the world will light a candle in commemoration of the miracles of Hanukkah.

War 'Games' Continue

by RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

VIENNA (UPI)—A "battle of the communiqués" this autumn has raised, once again, the tense issue of Romania's independence from the rest of the Soviet bloc.

Romania and her allies say that Romanian troops took full part in maneuvers by the Warsaw Pact—the Communist NATO—in East Germany in October.

Romania says it did no such thing. The Romanians maintain they sent a few officers—and that's all.

Bemused observers here can only conclude that somebody is lying. Yet the issue is important, because it could tell how far a Soviet bloc nation can go in asserting its freedom to act independently of the bloc.

THE LAST Warsaw Pact maneuvers in Romania itself took place in 1962. In 1964 and 1967, Romanian troops joined Soviet and Bulgarian units in maneuvers in Bulgaria and, in 1969, the same nations held exercises in Russia.

But Warsaw Pact maneuvers are held several times yearly, and Romania has boycotted most of them. Moreover, she resisted holding any more maneuvers on her soil and even went to the extent of passing a law saying parliament had to specifically approve the presence of any foreign troops there.

The law followed the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia—in which Romania did not take part. Soviet troops left Romania in 1968 and no Romanian wants them back.

Romania has campaigned for Warsaw

Pact reforms, including a rotating leadership to eliminate the permanent Soviet rule of the alliance. At the same time, she has urged an end to all military blocs and, earlier this year, submitted a resolution to this effect to disarmament conferences in Geneva.

ALL THIS appeared to be coming to an end in the spring, when disastrous floods swept Romania. The country seemed so badly damaged that only heavy Soviet aid—with strings attached—could repair it.

The aid did not arrive. A Soviet-Romanian "friendship treaty" signed in July called for the two nations to take "every measure necessary" to strengthen the Warsaw Pact, but Romanians said privately that this was just so much wordage.

Hence, it came as a surprise when the governments and press of Russia, Czechoslovakia and East Germany talked about "Romanian troops and mobile infantry units" taking part in the October East German maneuvers. It was quickly concluded that Romania's isolation from all-bloc maneuvers had ended.

But the Romanians denied this, both officially and through their own press. Scanteia, the official Communist party newspaper, said that "representing our country, the general staff of a division is taking part."

THIS MEANS officers armed with maps and swagger sticks—not soldiers armed with weapons.

Seven Communist nations took part in the maneuvers and six sent their defense ship ministers. Only Romania sent its deputy defense minister, Col. Gen. Ion Gheorghe.

On the one hand, Russia and its allies appeared happy that Romania was taking part at all and played it up. On the other, Romania seemed embarrassed at its presence and played it down.

No western observers were allowed near the maneuvers. In the Soviet bloc's most recent war games, the only loser appeared to be the truth.

Students Qualify On Merit Tests

Ten Wheeling High School students have received letters of commendation honoring them for high performance on the 1970 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, principal Thomas Shirley has announced.

The 10 students who were commended are Vicki A. Darnbrough, Robert P. Fabish, Sharron L. Nagel, Deborah F. Rohrer, Lynne Ann Steinman, Christine Stortz, Alan G. Syfert, Gary E. Vanyek, Michael G. Vasilou and Karen S. Wexler.

The local students are among 35,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper 2 per cent of those taking the test who expect to be graduated from high school in 1971.

The Wheeling students rank just below the 14,750 semifinalists announced in September by the National Merit Scholar

Danger On The Road: Unscrupulous Travel Agents

by RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT
A recent issue of a leading U.S. newspaper inadvertently sounded a note of caution to those about to engage the services of a travel agent.
While one section of the Sunday edition described an effort to upgrade the quality of service by requiring agents to pass an exam similar to that given CPAs, another page was advertising franchised travel agency locations to one and all, with "no professional experience required."

As most travelers learn — some to their sorrow — there can be a vast difference in skills among agents. The business is easy to enter but difficult to master. It's not hard for an unwary client to become a victim of incompetence or, occasionally, of fraud.

A booklet published by the Better Business Bureau provides a list of tips on avoiding the most common problems:
IS HE AN AGENT? — Thousands of would-be travelers have been bilked by characters whose only connection with the travel business is the speed with which they disappear with their clients' money.

Legitimate travel agents are approved by various "conferences." Approvals are granted only after the agent has proved financial responsibility and a knowledge of the field.

Common conferences include Air Travel Conference (ATC), International Air Transport Association (IATA), Trans Atlantic Passenger Steamship Conference (TAPSC), and the Rail Travel Passenger Agency (RTPA).

The best bet on an agent's legitimacy comes with membership in ASTA, the American Society of Travel Agents.

SERVICE CHARGES — Agents can't survive on commissions alone. Neither railroads, nor some hotels, even pay commissions, so an agent must charge for such efforts. Also, the work of planning detailed tours is seldom covered adequately by the commissions produced, so here again you should expect to pay for such efforts.

TOUR ARRANGEMENTS — Package tours make up a big part of the travel agent's business — and generate most of his problems. Tours come in every conceivable shape, size and form, and misunderstandings are easy to come by.

Be sure you know exactly what hotels you will be booked into, what meals are furnished, and whether tips are included. In your enthusiasm, don't forget to ask about refund possibilities if you find later that you must cancel out.

CHARTER FLIGHTS — Charters are a common source of difficulty and thus bear watching. Charter flights have been a favorite area for fraud, but even legitimate ones can go astray. Remember that a charter group is actually renting the plane for its own use. If too few people sign up, the price may have to rise or the flight be canceled.

There is no perfect way to find the perfect agent, but you ought to try. The recommendation of satisfied clients is apt to be your best guide. So inquire around but don't ask for the impossible —

The Doctor Says:

A Case Of The Squeezed Tummy

by LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have hiatal hernia. Can you tell me exactly what it is?

Dear Reader — There are several different types of hiatal hernia. Rarely is a person born with a large hole in the diaphragm that permits the stomach and sometimes other abdominal organs to slide into the chest.

The most common hernia, however, is caused by an enlargement of the normal ringlike opening in the diaphragm where the esophagus (the long muscular tube between the throat and stomach) opens into the stomach. This permits a portion of the stomach, at its junction with the esophagus, to herniate above the diaphragm into the chest. This type of hernia is very common in middle-aged or older people and can be shown by special X-ray studies.

Recurrent pregnancies and abdominal obesity are common factors that contribute to squeezing a portion of the stomach through the normal hole in the diaphragm.

Fortunately, most hiatal hernias do not cause symptoms. When symptoms occur they are usually caused by a "reflux" of gastric juices and acids into the lower esophagus. The esophagus normally does not have acid in it and is closed off from the stomach acid and digestive juices by a valve mechanism at the diaphragm. The hernia prevents this normal valve action in some cases, causing the stomach contents to be squirted back into the lower esophagus. This results in chemical irritation and heartburn usually at the lower end of the breast bone.

Mild heartburn from this cause is aggravated by heavy meals, bending over or lying down. It is relieved by sitting up or standing. Usually, the difficulty can be relieved by enough of any antacid like those used for ulcers, or baking soda, milk or bland food. All of these act by neutralizing the stomach acid.

As the condition worsens the pain becomes more severe. Then coffee, alcohol, cigarettes, spicy foods and acid foods like fruit juice all irritate the inflamed esophagus. Eventually, the lower end of the esophagus may become scarred and contracted, causing difficulty in swallowing all solid food.

Hiatal hernia can also cause dull pain behind the breast bone after eating. This may last a few minutes or an hour. Pain may radiate into the shoulders, arms and jaw, resembling the pain from heart disease. There may or may not be belching (which can also occur with heart pain). In some cases bleeding occurs from the inflamed lower esophagus.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I've heard one doctor and read several others who said a highball or two are the cheapest tranquilizers available. Do you concur or is even a small daily intake a detriment to a healthy heart function?

Dear Reader — Alcohol is a sedative and if one needs a sedative it is useful for this purpose. The difficulty is that continued use of alcohol leads to a habit and the habit, plus the need for being tranquilized, often leads to an alcohol problem. If a person needs a tranquilizer every day, it is time to find out why —

Appoint County Police Chief

A 44-year-old Chicago police captain has been named by Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod as Chief of the Sheriff's Police.

The post, formerly held by John E. Kistner, an appointee of former Sheriff Joseph I. Woods, went to Edmund F. Dobbs of Chicago, Elrod announced Friday. Dobbs will begin duties immediately.

In announcing the appointment, Elrod described Dobbs as "a professional law enforcement officer who has the quality and ability that is needed to fill the sensitive position of Chief of the Sheriff's Police."

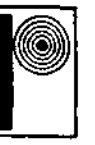

A NATIVE CHICAGOAN, Dobbs was educated in city public schools and holds a masters degree in public administration from the Illinois Institute of Technology.

His law enforcement career began in 1953 with his appointment to the Chicago

Police Department. During his 17 years on the department, he served in a variety of assignments ranging from loop traffic control to the intelligence division. Dobbs was promoted to detective in 1961 and subsequently was assigned to the 4th area homicide division.

Later assignments in his career included supervisor of the 10th district patrol division, an area supervisor in the detective division and commanding officer of the intelligence division's criminal unit. Since September he has been assigned to the patrol division's task force.

SANTA'S DILEMMA — One might guess that Santa would have a problem finding little Johnny's house as his sleigh hovers over the sub-division clusters in the Northwest suburban area. How can one man in a sleigh, at night, flying without headlights, find one chimney? And what if there is a snow storm?

Watch Holiday Driving

Alcohol Number 1 Problem

Northwest suburban police chiefs today warned motorists that the holiday season puts us face to face with the nation's number one traffic problem — alcohol and driving.

"Traditional parties, drinking and winter weather are already pushing our accident curve upward," the chief commented, and he was emphatic about counter-measures his department is taking.

"We're out with all the manpower we can muster to protect everyone from the dangerous thinking that anyone can over-indulge and then slide behind the wheel of a car.

Research information circulated by the International Association of Chiefs of Police indicates that alcohol is a factor in as many as half of our traffic accidents. "The Driver's Guide to Drinking," published by the National Safety Council, states:

"THE OCCASIONS for drinking are endless. So are the chances for accidents on the highway. You can help solve the No. 1 highway problem if you:

- Understand alcohol and what it does.
- Understand what alcohol does to you.
- Know your limitations and stay within them."

"Contrary to popular belief, alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant," it was pointed out.

The NSC report supports this view of the effects of alcohol:

"Alcohol slows reflexes, impairs coordination, reduces visual acuity. It dulls normal caution. Concentration becomes difficult. You can't think as clearly, as quickly or as rationally as you usually do. And you can't act as fast."

Put a person in this condition behind the wheel of a car, add winter's poor visibility and inadequate traction, and you multiply beyond all reason the chances of a tragic crash, it was pointed out.

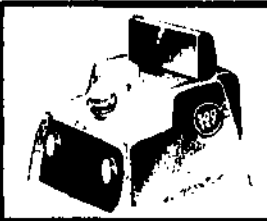

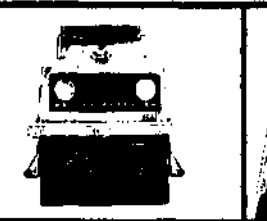

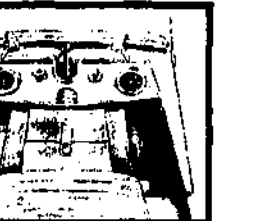

HOW MUCH A person can drink varies, according to experts. Alcohol build-up in the blood depends on: (1) the amount of alcohol (number and strength of drinks); (2) time elapsed since drinking began; (3) body weight; and (4) quantity and kind of food in the stomach.

The chief's noted that black coffee, cold showers, fresh air or other folklore remedies won't help. Time is the only answer — time for your body to dispose of the alcohol.

"And after several drinks, that time may be several hours before it's safe to drive again," the chiefs said.

Win at Bridge

by OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

The Wassail Bowl had been flowing merrily at the club. After all it was Christmas Eve. One last rubber game was in progress and the few kibitzers were watching happily as old man Z, who had been coaxed into one last rubber, reached a customary three no-trump.

We say "customary" because Z felt that every hand might be his last and he might as well wind up in no-trump.

Z won the second heart and entered dummy with the ace of spades in order to lead a diamond. East played the six-spot and Z the nine while one of the kibitzers struck a few bars on the club piano and the other kibitzers burst into a chorus of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town."

Z and North joined in the merriment and even the unfortunate West could not help a Christmas smile. Only East remained outside the merry circle. He suspected that he was the Santa Claus they were singing about, but he just couldn't see what present he had given the declarer.

It shouldn't be hard for you readers to see what he had done. Once he played the six of diamonds South was going to make his no-trump game plus overtricks. Had he jumped up with the king South could not come to more than eight tricks.

Second hand low is good general policy but this is one time when East had nothing to gain by holding back his king of diamonds. It couldn't do him any good later. It would have been worth its weight in gold if plunked right on the table.

Typical Parr Specials Set

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack Parr, the masterful entertainer-journalist, has long been pursued by all the commercial television networks to do more than his claimed annual specials.

Now, for the first time since making himself regrettably scarce, he has devised a unique and typically Parr series format that would allow him to do five or six specials a year, for an indefinite period.

The series title is "Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner," and constant-traveler Parr would be globetrotting again by having offbeat — and sometimes famous — dining companions for unique get-togethers at the three different meals in different geographic locations.

ON THE PHONE from his home in Bronxville, N.Y., Parr was full of enthusiasm. He thought there might even be a series in the format of another special he recently finished: "Some of My Best Friends Are," which deals with what he describes as British eccentrics — Robert Morley, Peter Ustinov, Victor Spinetti, some colonial types and Malcolm Muggeridge, who fascinates him because "he's become very religious. It's so strange from this man who was such a wild guy."

Another show on Parr's mind would be a sort of "How To" guide about common human situations. For example, one segment might deal with how to avoid legal entrapments. Another might concern how, when traveling, one should go through customs, pointing out "the innocent little dumb things we shouldn't have done, but do."

ABC-TV's Los Angeles — Milwaukee Monday night pro basketball game, the first sportscast to replace the network's prime time pro football contests, did pretty well in the spot, overnight ratings in New York, which is admittedly a pro basketball hotbed. ABC-TV was frankly trying out the pro basketball as a possible future series replacement for the pro football when the gridiron season runs out in coming years.

The Los Angeles — Milwaukee game held even with "Mayberry R.F.D." trounced the Doris Day series, was beaten by Carol Burnett by a solid but not disgraceful margin and, after being outpointed by NBC-TV's movie in the first hour, pulled just about even with it in the second. The point is that most ABC-TV series wouldn't do any better — or as well.

The Way We See It

The Season of Hope

Christmas has as many meanings as there are people who observe it.

For Christians, it is an important spiritual experience, celebrating the birth of God's Son and His greatest gift to man.

Even in non-Christian homes, around the world, it is a time when hope can be born again.

It's a magic time for children. They have a beautiful religious message to learn, happy carols to sing, perhaps a family custom to practice, possibly the year's first real snowfall to remember for a lifetime.

For little ones, even parents seem less stern and more understanding. The world turns into a wonderland of lights, tinsel and garlands.

Christmas even has its own smells, of wet galoshes and heavy topcoats and crowds in department stores, of incense and new paint and new clothes and toys. Of Christmas trees and holly and special flowers of Christmas.

Imagination glows as bright as the eyes of a toddler seeing Santa for the first time. The patron saint of the holiday finds time, somehow, to talk with a hundred million children. Somehow he keeps their requests straight and gets their toys delivered in a few hours that are the most wondrous night of all.

The joy of giving is also part of the experience children will carry into adulthood and give their children. The first unsupervised Christmas shopping trip is a memory that will live into old age.

Even the mass, commercial appeal of Christmas giving has not diminished the deeper significance of the holiday.

Christmas is a time when strangers greet each other instead of passing in silence. Many people contribute time, labor and money to help others enjoy a richer holiday. The poor are regarded, for a few days at least, as fellow humans in need of generosity rather than social problems or relievers.

Even boundaries of race and national pride can be crossed more easily. Nations at war sometimes find heart to stop killing for a few hours or days.

Christmas cheers man and challenges him to raise his sights above everyday concerns and objectives. No day, no single event in the history of man, provides the foundation for so many dreams, traditions, hopes.

The ills that weaken man's character — greed, suspicion, vanity, jealousy — confront a wave of better sentiment. It is a time when man can show his strong side, which he too often thinks is his weak side, without fear of scorn.

The problems of the world don't go away at Christmastime, but they seem more manageable. And hope, which man buries during his bleaker hours, shines more brightly than the Christmas star.

Palatine Today

Downtown Is Battleground

by MARTHA KOPER

All it takes is the last Saturday before Christmas in downtown Palatine to know the whole area should be turned into a mall closed to traffic.

It's a frustrating experience to sit in your car at a corner and wait for 10 minutes only to move to the next corner and wait for 20 minutes.

I stopped humming Christmas carols only a second after a red Buick cut me off at the corner of Slade and Brockway. Just a minute later that holiday smile left my face when I slammed on the brakes to avoid a young woman who ran in front of my car after she was apparently tired of waiting to cross the street.

When I finally made it into the line of southbound traffic on Brockway there was another 10 minute wait while each auto took its turn at the four-way stop at Palatine Road and Brockway. It was a miracle I made it with the eastbound traffic on Palatine Road and I was feeling pretty bold.

So bold that I turned left onto Bothwell and found myself in the same mess I had just escaped.

Martha Koper

All this for a parking place so I could go Christmas shopping. It wasn't worth it.

I decided there must be other places in the area which would not make me feel like I had just come off the battlefield. "What's so great about shopping in Palatine anyway?" I asked and fought my way out of town to a less chaotic place.

As I left downtown I wondered how many other people were experiencing the same frustrations I had and just gave up the idea of shopping in Palatine.

There must have been a lot of them, and it's too bad. There are a number of nice places to shop in town. But nobody is that much of a masochist to fight the unnecessary.

Local officials have been aware for a long time that major traffic improvements are needed in the downtown area, but they haven't done anything about it.

There was a lengthy and detailed study made in 1967 with several concrete recommendations for alleviating the congestion. None of them have been implemented yet.

Another group is studying the possibility of turning the central business district into a mall, but several groups are opposed to the concept. Some downtown merchants feel they'll lose business if shoppers cannot park right up in front of the store.

Last Saturday, there was no way I could park in front of a store, and I didn't really care as long as I could find a parking place somewhere.

A slogan has been mentioned by several groups in town: Palatine is a real hometown. Sometimes, you can really get that feeling too, but not on the last Saturday before Christmas.

The Fence Post

Philanthropist For A Day

Philanthropy means "effort to promote the happiness of mankind, literally, love of man." I know the definition, because I had to look up the word to spell it. I always thought you had to be a millionaire to be philanthropic, but Dec. 8, I had something almost as important as money, I had "coupon power," backed by so many sympathetic strangers, I lost count.

After my plea for General Mills, Betty Crocker coupons in the Fence Post on Nov. 8, they poured in from all over the Northwest suburbs Dec. 8 through the cooperation of K Mart in Wheeling, I picked out $130 worth (the value of the coupons) of dolls, trucks, clays, books, you name it. I think I bought one of every toy they sold under a dollar, and then some. It took me two hours to fill to overflowing the four carts I hovered over. The check-out girl had to keep taking sub totals, so I wouldn't go over my limit, which would have been easy to do, when I thought of all the forgotten neglected people at our mental institutions I even had the opportunity to buy gifts for older residents, suspenders, wallets, etc. I'm sure there are many older people who are forgotten at Christmastime, and let's face it, everyone likes to get presents, no matter what age we are.

Vern, a volunteer driver for the Jack Mabley drive, came to pick up the toys crammed into 23 cartons. I ran out of cartons, so I put all of the stuffed animals into Palatine garbage sacks, and labeled them all over, so they wouldn't be thrown out for trash. Vern will take them to the National Tea Warehouse, and from there, they will go to the various schools and hospitals in time for Christmas.

Even though a delightful feature story written by Jim Hodi was delayed by the news of the railroad strike, it appeared in time to motivate more people into bringing more gifts. Several organizations, too numerous to mention had small drives of their own, and then brought the contributions over here.

Almost everyone promised to keep saving the coupons for next year and if they do, what a lot of smiles we can put on a lot of faces. Many women too, also said they would continue to knit the large size caps for the mongoloid children. There is always a need for more, they get lost so easily, and these children are more susceptible to catching colds. If anyone would like a copy of the easy directions, I still have some and will be glad to mail them to you.

I wish the leader of the Bluebird or Camp Fire Girls that came over here Sunday afternoon from Wood Dale, would contact me. Maybe the eyes on some of the toys her group made were a little crooked, the group's heart was in the right place.

To the man who donated a dozen clown flashlights, among many other lovely items, I found a dark haired angel, who supplied the batteries. Between the both of you, you supplied the ward of immobile teen boys unable to do much more than wave their hands, with some light diversion.

How can I thank everyone for helping me, except through the Fence Post again. I read and re-read the touching notes enclosed from Girl Scouts, grandmas, all kinds of wonderful people. So don't ever tell me there is no Santa Claus, no Christmas Spirit, no love of fellow man. I know better.

So to these people, Jim Hodi, Pat Ahern, the people from K Mart, anyone and everyone who pitched in and helped, I just must say simply "thanks much." I KNOW you will all have a better Christmas. I know we did.

As a member of the Wesleyan Service Guild of Palatine First United Methodist Church, I wish to thank you for the excellent publicity given our "Thirteenth Annual Holiday Fair" in your paper.

The article for "The Holiday Shopper," the picture in Suburban Living, and Pat Ahern's comments — all helped to make it the most successful bazaar we have had.

Some Secret Wishes for Christmas

by CRAIG GAARE

In a department store in San Francisco, the management has hired a Santa Claus, with a big top, who listens to Christmas wishes from adults.

According to newspaper reports, the idea has been successful and everyone from college co-eds to longshoremen have whispered their secret Christmas wishes into Santa's ear. What if a Santa for adults came to Buffalo Grove?

THE CHRISTMAS lists he would get would probably be something like this:

"Dear Santa, my name is Harold Smith. I am chief of police for Buffalo Grove. I have been a good boy and would like the village to hire a dog catcher so my men wouldn't have to chase dogs that run loose in the village. I would also like the village to conduct a traffic survey soon so my men can issue speeding tickets that will hold up in court. But most of all, I would like a 30 year-old midget with long hair who looks like he is 17 to help me arrest drug users."

"Dear Santa, my name is Donald Thompson. I am the village president for Buffalo Grove. Contrary to what you might have heard, I, too, have tried to be a good boy. I would like Buffalo Creek to stop flooding so the people don't get mad and will vote for me if I decide to run in the next election. I would also like the plan commission to mind their own business and let the village board make the decisions on annexations."

"Dear Santa, my name is Gary Armstrong. I am a village trustee. I have tried to be a good boy, but sometimes it is hard when you try to be a good boy at the same time for the village president and my wife, who is on the park board. For Christmas I would like you to give me some land to give to my wife so she can use it for a park instead of buying that expensive sewerage treatment plant land."

"Dear Santa, my name is Richard Raysa. I am the village attorney for Buffalo Grove. I have been a good boy and have tried to tell village officials how to be a good boy. My fee for that will be one-third of all the presents you give to them. I'm sure we can negotiate an arrangement."

were writing "letters to Santa," their lists might look something like this:

From Don Rudd, chairman of the Dist. 54 board committee on building and sites — A new elementary school, built, wrapped and tied with a bow, from every major housing developer with plans for property in the school district. His P. S. might include a no-strings cash contribution.

"Dear Santa, my name is Wallace Berth. I am chairman of the village plan commission. I have tried to be a good boy, but sometimes the village board doesn't think so. For Christmas I would like industry to come and build in our industrial area instead of everyone asking for zoning variations and trying to build so many apartments."

"Dear Santa, my name is William Kiddle. I am president of the Buffalo Grove Park District. I have tried to be a good boy but it is hard when you don't have any money to run the park district on. I would like a large stocking full of money, in $1,000 bills, please."

"Dear Santa, my name is Craig Gaare. I am a reporter. I have tried to be a good boy too. For Christmas I would like you not to give the village officials anything they ask for, because if you do, then I won't have anything to write about and will be out of a job."

tion of $150 for the school district per housing unit in each development.

From Hoffman Estates Fire Protection Dist. — A shiny new fire hall, with no bonds to pay, no referendums to hold and no questions to answer.

From Jack Callison, treasurer of the fire protection district — Money from heaven, or any other source, to jingle in district coffers, with no loan interest rate and no repayment schedule.

From the Schaumburg Police Dept. — A year's supply of traffic tickets, all written out with the lucky recipient's name and address.

From the Hoffman Estates Police Dept. — A dog catcher.

From Richard Baker, Hanover Park mayor — An invitation to negotiating meetings between Dist. 54 and land developers from his village.

From Fred Downey, Hoffman Estates Mayor — A telephone, with an automatic answering device to tell unfriendly callers he's out to lunch.

From Robert Atcher, Schaumburg mayor — Early completion of Woodfield Mall.

From drivers in the township — An end to the Golf Rd. mess.

From Schaumburg Republicans — A clean sweep in April village elections.

From Dist. 54 principals — Mothers who show up at noon time for their lunch supervision duties.

While the list could be longer, our public figures should be able to complete it themselves. There is just one thing to add, and this from The Herald staff.

The paper's wish is for nothing but good news coming out of our communities in the coming year. While we see the folly of looking for miracles, we also know wishes sometimes come true. And if Santa is listening, he might leave that one gift for us.

'There Was A Small Tree, With Ten Apples...'

GEORGE F. SINDELAR

For 52 years, George F. Sindelar has carried in his heart a Christmas memory which gives him both joy and sadness. Sindelar, of 1905 N. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights, was a member of the 9th Division which remained in Germany following the World War I Armistice in November, 1918. The occupation force was on the march through the Christmas season, moving from Stenny France to Hitler Germany.

When we stopped for a night's rest, there would be one or two or three of us placed in one home, according to how much room there was," Sindelar wrote recently.

It was in these homes, among those who had been enemies weeks before, that Sindelar encountered "real heartbreaks and also the humility and the love of people."

The first home in Germany where Sindelar and his companions stayed was occupied only by an elderly lady who had lost her husband, two sons and a brother in four years of fighting.

SHE TOLD THE soldiers her diet consisted of potatoes once a day and a few ounces of meat on Sunday. For three years she had used burned wheat for coffee.

However, hanging in the kitchen was a small ham — which the woman offered to Sindelar and the others.

In a village called Waxweiler four of the men were placed in a home with an elderly couple and two daughters. The family had lost three of its four sons in the war, yet they gave up their beds for the American soldiers and slept on the kitchen floor.

The men were in the home six days.

On a Sunday morning, Sindelar looked out the window and saw a priest approaching, carrying something which looked like a diploma.

"WHEN HE ENTERED the home, both father and mother fell on their knees and their eyes filled with tears," said Sindelar. The priest unrolled the "diploma," a picture of an angel placing a wreath on a soldier's grave.

It was a notice that the family's fourth son had been killed.

On Christmas Eve, Sindelar and nine companions were billeted in the home of an elderly woman. She had lost her husband and son.

The weather was cold and dreary. Sindelar recalled "It did not seem like Christmas Eve — everything so barren, so lost, so sad — no sign of a Christmas tree or gifts."

But when they awoke on Christmas "There in the middle of the room was a small decorated tree with ten apples hanging on it — one for each of us."

That Christmas day the ten soldiers — ten Catholics — put up a service. They attended the only available service Christmas in a Catholic church about two miles away.

The church was in a valley and Sindelar said it was "a wonderful sight. People from all directions walking over the hills to church."

But when the men entered the church they found the congregation was almost all women dressed in black. "We saw only about four men and they were crippled," he said.

Mrs. Marilyn Splansky

Sisterhood President Excels As A Cook

by BILLY BAUMBER

The Joseph Splansky of Palatine enjoys good food but dining out for Joe Marilyn and their three children — Sandra 12, Cheryl 10 and Roy 7 — became too expensive. "So I learned to cook," said Marilyn.

And learn she did — well too. Marilyn now rates as an excellent ethnic cook as her well-fed husband testifies.

Joe plays a perfect neighborhood Santa Claus in his red suit and white whiskers, joked Marilyn.

Oriental food is the family's first choice. To prepare food with an authentic Chinese flavor, Mrs. Splansky uses a wok, a small round-bottomed cooking pot resembling a bowl which radiates heat quickly. First cooking is the secret of Oriental food, she advised. "It takes an hour to cut up the food and five minutes to cook it."

The Splanskys also like Italian food but as members of Beth Tikvah Temple in Hoffman Estates, they are most familiar with Jewish dishes. Food and wine are an important part of religious holidays as well as the Jewish sabbath, which begins at sundown Friday. Marilyn explained:

LIGHTING AND BLESSING the sabbath candles in the menorah, a seven-branched candelabrum, opens the Jewish sabbath. Because she currently is learning Hebrew in an adult education class taught by Rabbi Hillel Gamoran, Mrs. Splansky recites the blessing in Hebrew. Then Joe or their son Roy, blesses the wine. Occasionally Marilyn will make challah, a braided loaf of bread, which is blessed next, then cut up and eaten. But she usually buys it at Deminick's — "and it's very good." Dinner follows.

The sabbath meal begins with chicken soup and matzo balls. Marilyn always makes this appetizer. The sabbath main course may consist of roast brisket of beef, chicken or steak, served with potatoes or noodle kugel, a Splansky favorite. Broiled noodles, mixed with eggs, raisins, sugar and cinnamon, are put into a buttered casserole and baked. To complete the meal, Marilyn serves a vegetable and dessert.

SPECIAL FOODS are enjoyed on almost every Jewish holiday, said Marilyn. For example, at Chanukah (the holiday, currently being observed), the treat is latkes, a special potato pancake. To insure a sweet or good year, those of the Jewish faith eat apples and honey the night before Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year. Tzimmes, a carrot, potato and meat main dish, is eaten with dried fruits and a round loaf of bread on New Year's Day. On the holiest of Jewish holidays, Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, all the faithful must fast for 24 hours, Mrs. Splansky said.

Ethnic cooking is only one of Marilyn Splansky's interests. Currently she is president of Beth Tikvah's Sisterhood, a post she will hold through May of 1972.

Marilyn believes knowing someone and understanding how he is different is what makes for successful living. Even families practicing the same basic religious faith follow different customs, she noted. "We have always lived as the only Jewish family in the neighborhood and have never had any problems."

THIS ECLUMENICAL philosophy is espoused by the Beth Tikvah Sisterhood. Devoted to Jewish and humanitarian causes, its members also support interfaith education and social action. They are part of the larger National Federation of Temple Sisterhood (Reform Judaism) and worldwide, there are 635 sisterhoods with 110,000 members, Marilyn said.

Beth Tikvah Sisterhood promotes primarily the welfare of the Beth Tikvah congregation and religious schools. Some of its working goals are providing room mothers, arranging parties for the children on religious holidays, furnishing refreshments for Oneg Shabbat (a social time following sabbath services).

The members also encourage Jewish children to attend summer camp by providing monetary scholarships; they entertain children at Little City in Palatine and Jewish patients at Elgin State Hospital and they donate funds to Ben Shimon Children's Village in Israel.

"WE ALSO SUPPORT youth projects and contribute to the training of rabbis," said Mrs. Splansky.

As a community service, the sisterhood records textbooks for the blind and this fall donated two carloads of food to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Marilyn's own contributions to temple and community are many, but perhaps the most unusual is a tablecloth. Made of white linen napkins joined with zigzag stitch, the cloth was a fund-raising project. Charging each temple family from $2.50 to $4, enterprising Marilyn embroidered in blue the names of all contributing families onto the tablecloth. Centered in the front overhang she fashioned a Star of David and the names of Rabbi Gamoran and his family.

The cloth is used frequently at shabbats and sisterhood meetings. And often the good food that sits upon the tablecloth comes from Mrs. Splansky too.

TABLECLOTH USED at social hour following sabbath services at Beth Tikvah Temple in Hoffman Estates was embroidered by Mrs. Marilyn Splansky with names of congregation families.

SUBURBAN LIVING

A Merry Christmas 1970

M—is for the music of Christmas, the madding crowds at their shopping, the magical spell of the season especially for the children, for the merriment of families and friends together. "Tis merry when gentle folks meet." Anthony Brewer, 1647.

E—is for the Eve of Christmas, the eagerness of tiny folks searching around the tree at all strange hours to see what was in Santa's pack, for the time as St. Luke tells it when the angels brought "good tidings of great joy . . . for unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

R—is for Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, who now is as much of a classic of Christmas as Jingle Bells and "tidings of comfort and joy," for the rosy red cheeks of the little children, for reverence of the child born in a manger nearly 2000 years ago. "Reverence, that angel of the world." Shakespeare, 1599.

R—is for the rewards of each day fulfilled, for the richness of a nation that shares its largesse with the world, for the personal riches of health, hearth and family. "Riches are not from an abundance of worldly goods, but from a contented mind." Mohammed, circa 630 A.D.

Y—is for the young in heart who look on each Christmas with renewed spirit, for the yearnings still for the peace on earth spoken of by the heavenly hosts' joyful singing, for the yule log, even if it no longer burns but is only a symbol in today's home. "Yule is come, and yule is gone, and we have feasted well . . ." Michael Denham's Proverbs.

C—is for the carolers, the special carning for others, the day itself called Christmas. "I heard the bells on Christmas day, their old familiar carols play, and wild and sweet the words repeat of peace on earth, goodwill to men." Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1864.

H—is for the happy hearts of many, the heavy hearts of others with members of the family gone, and unfortunately too, for the highway toll, but for a holy day celebrated in Christendom and throughout the world by other faiths. "How many observe Christ's birthday! How few his precepts! O! 'Tis easier to keep holidays than Commandments." Benjamin Franklin, 1751.

R—is for the relatives remembered with gifts and cards, for reunions, for the Christmas rose that flowers during this season, for the reason and sanity that must be victorious if the world is to be saved from extinction. "Reason is a light that God has kindled in the soul." Aristotle, 300 B.C.

I—is for the new ice skates, for the imagination of those whose skills turn our store windows and streets into incredible fantasies, for the inn in Bethlehem. She wrapped him in "swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn."

S—is for the shepherds who watched their clocks that night, for the sights and sounds of the holiday rush, and for Santa Claus of course. "Not believe in Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies. . . Thank God! He lives and he lives forever." Frank Church, editorial in the New York Sun, in 1897, answering a letter from Virginia O'Hanlon, age 8, asking, "Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

T—is for the Three Wise Men, for the tables of the house loaded with the traditional fixings, for the story of Tiny Tim and Scrooge, for the tree with twinkling lights and tinsel. "A tree is a nobler object than a prince in his coronation robes." Alexander Pope, 1727.

M—is for moderation at yuletide celebrations, for the special joy of the midnight services. "'Tis the watching hour of night." John Keats, 1818.

A—is for old acquaintances ne'er forgot, for the agelessness of the New Testament story, for the angels rejoicing at the birth of a lowly babe whose spirit forever would influence the world. "By every man at birth a Spirit stands, a guide of virtue for life's mysteries." Menander wrote the words 300 years before Christ.

S—is for the carol now known and sung around the world, one which had its beginnings in 1818 in the tiny village of Oberndorf, Austria. Joseph Mohr, a parish priest, and Franz Gruber, a teacher, wrote the simple hymn for a midnight mass. . . "Silent night, holy night, all is dark, save the light . . ."

EXHIBITING PIECES OF tie-dyed material she picked up while studying art in Africa, Mrs. Maud Wahlman of Deerfield lectured to a class of textile design at Harper College. "Tie-dyeing in Africa is much more controlled, much more precise," she told the students.

Tie-Dyeing: Way Of Life On African Continent

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Tie-dyeing is a natural way of life in Nigeria.

"Tons of hand tie-dyed material are on the market there," said Maud Wahlman of Deerfield, who spent two and a half months in Africa on a grant from Northwestern University.

Traveling across the continent to study Yoruba pottery (Mrs. Wahlman is working toward a doctorate degree in African art), she took time out to look into tie-dyeing, an avid interest of hers. Upon her return she spoke before a class in textile design at Harper College.

"Tie-dyeing in Africa is much more controlled. It is not haphazard," she said. "We dye underwear. They dye formal clothes and then later embroider them," she continued.

MRS. WAHLMAN EXPLAINED further than the precision of dyeing is caused by expert folding. "Sometimes they also stitch the material together beforehand by machine," she said.

"Most women grow up learning how to dye," said Mrs. Wahlman, whose husband accompanied her on the trip to Africa to take pictures.

"It's a way of making money. In Nigeria, the wife must support the children."

Tie-dyeing originated as a means to renovate old faded material that still could be worn.

"And the men," said Mrs. Wahlman, "wear just as colorful things as the women. They use subtle combinations of color, however, bright but certainly not garish."

MRS. WAHLMAN explained that while the market in Africa is filled with tie-dyed material, none of it is ever exported abroad.

"There isn't a steady market," said Mrs. Wahlman. "Shipment dates are unreliable."

Batiking also is done in Africa, but by dipping a wooden block into hot wax and then stamping the design on the material.

An adire starch resist method, much like batiking, is used where the material is then always dyed in indigo.

The reason for the sudden revival in this country of tie-dyeing and other forms of textile design Mrs. Wahlman feels is that people are tired of things turned out by machines, mass produced and all alike.

"Everyone is searching for individuality," she said. "In Africa, one never sees anyone wearing the same kind of material."

Furniture Trend To Modern

by CLARA DEGAN

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mediterranean furniture, the massive, dark, heavy and carved blend from several countries, held the spotlight of style in 1970 for the third consecutive year.

A combination of styles from Spain, Portugal, Italy, France, Mexico, Brazil, Peru and other countries, Mediterranean dominated the furniture market from the time of its inception. It entered fashion on the heels of Spanish furniture, which was even more massive and even darker.

Next, furniture makers say, modern will be the style.

Chicago's Furniture Mart, the furniture store for furniture stores, says the trend for the year ahead is "very strongly modern."

"IT'S BEEN HEAVILY Mediterranean for so many years" that the change won't show in the stores immediately, the spokesman said. Stores are still well-stocked with Mediterranean and will sell out their stocks before modern hits the display rooms.

Modern design actually dates to the 1920s when the Bauhaus school began to design furniture that is now considered classic.

Clean lines. Straight or curved. Tailored. That's how the Mart describes "modern." Appearance range from chunky and square to the nebulous.

It's the cube and tables. The bean-bag sofa and chair. "Self-shaping" occasional chairs. Some look like back-breakers but are, in fact, designed with the help of orthopedists for both comfort and health.

EARLY AMERICAN and French Provincial, fashions which predate Mediterranean in their current favor, will continue to be popular, according to the Mart.

Both frequently are mixed with antiques. Or their owners hope they will "pass" for antiques.

French Provincial, in particular, is used for accent. It provides a bright touch in rooms which have a great deal of Mediterranean or modern furniture.

Velvets remained the strong fabric in 1970 and they probably will continue as strong in 1971, the Mart said. Floral prints also are holding on in popularity.

Synthetics and vinyls — with their easy adaptation to Mediterranean as well as modern — remain well-used and well-liked covers.

BUT FAKE FURS may have had a one-year stand. Their use in 1971 is in doubt, the Mart said.

In 1970, black and white combinations were exceeding popular. The Mart spokesman said they will go right into the new year.

Red, white and blue combinations seem to be another trend at the Mart.

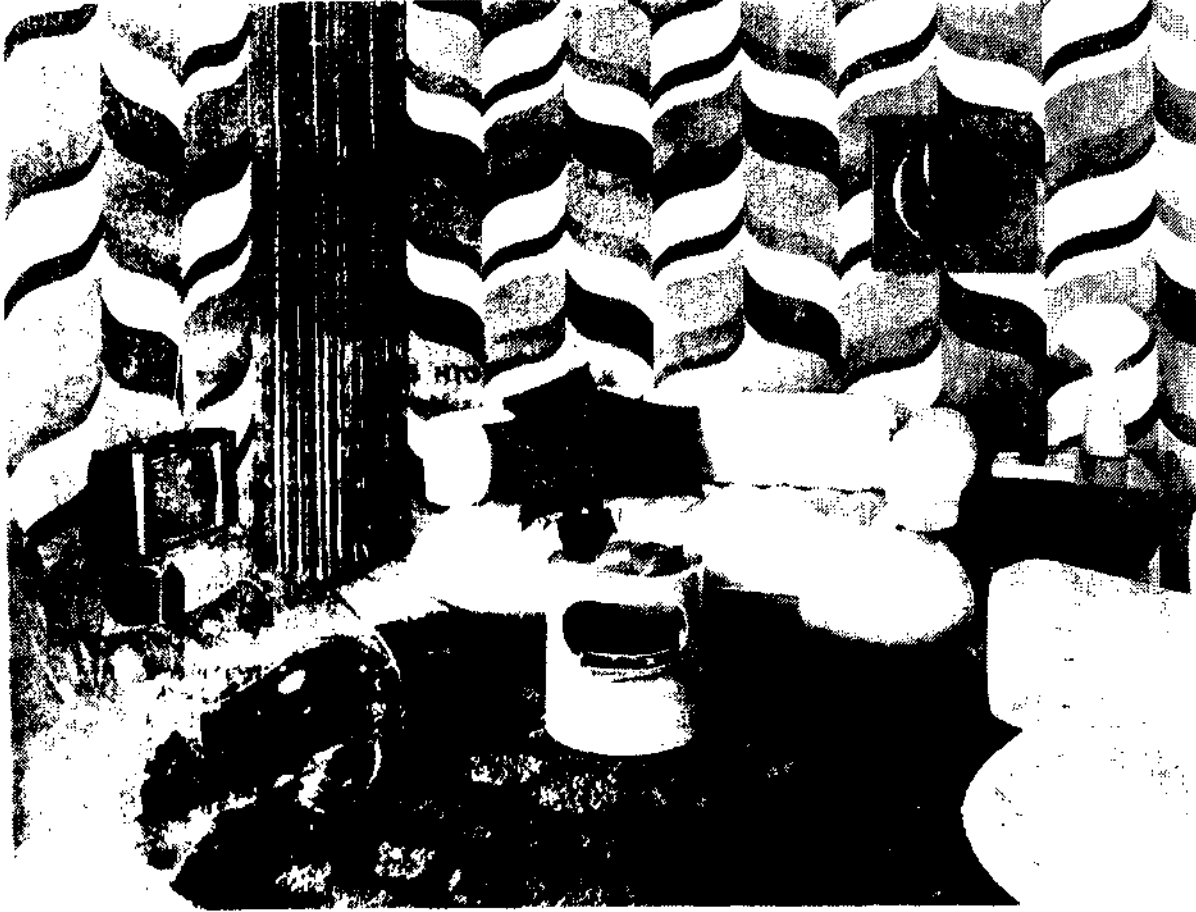

Colors of the U.S. flag were picked up by clothing designers and were the mainstay of the styles starting with the summer. Furniture makers pick up the clothing colors for the following furniture season.

"Polymers" is the term furniture people use for what laymen call "plastics."

Polymeric materials — which don't always look like plastic — have been around since wood began to become scarce and expensive. Furniture makers plan to keep using them.

FRUITWOODS, WALNUT, teak, ash and other kinds of woods are duplicated in the polymers. The process — which involves molding from actual wood — results in a product with the grain of the wood. Even the shade and patina can be reproduced in the process.

Bronze and brass are some of the other materials being reproduced with polymers.

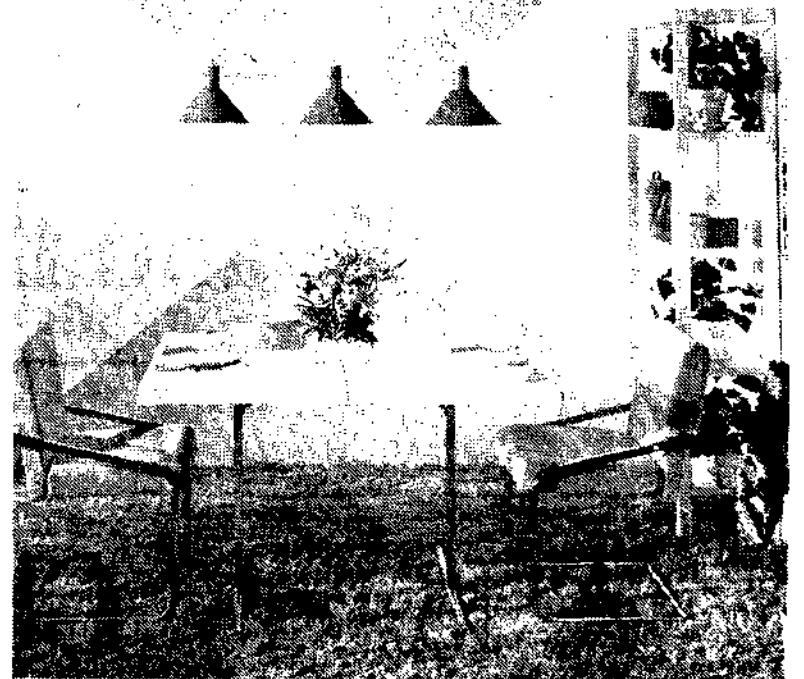

MANMADE MATERIALS continue to infiltrate the furniture world. Quasar plastic inflatable furniture is imported from France. TV table is of lucite as are the ashtrays. Tables and wall decoration are of plastic, too. Wallcovering, United-DeSoto's "Hullo" pattern, comes in three bold color combinations.

An Anniversary 'Reunion'

When John and Lydia Eich of Mount Prospect celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Friday at Henrich's O'Hare Inn, it was a grand reunion for several members of the original wedding party.

Ruth Evans, a niece who came from San Gabriel, Calif., was the 7-year-old flower girl at the Dec. 18, 1920 wedding. Mrs. Lillian Singer, Mrs. Eich's sister who was a bridesmaid, came from Pompano Beach, Fla., to join the celebration. The maid of honor and best man, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Peterson of Pompano Beach, Fla., were there too.

About 100 guests turned out to wish the couple golden wedding greetings at an afternoon open house at the Inn. A dinner for the immediate family of 23 capped the evening's festivities.

The Eichs remember their day as a big wedding in St. Luke's Church, Chicago. Mr. Eich, 76, is a Chicago native; his wife was born in Danzig, Germany in 1886. The couple lived in Arlington Heights from 1936 to 1950 and have lived in Mount Prospect since 1952, alternating the seasons in Pompano Beach.

Mr. Eich is a former Chicago Realtor who retired in 1948. The couple has 11 grandchildren. They live with their daughter, Mrs. Eunice Granzin in Mount Prospect. The Eichs also have a daughter in Palatine, Mrs. Lois Burrow, and a son in Glenview, Robert H. Eich.

GUESS MY NUMBER

by Marilyn Hallman

Fool your friends with your number know-how! Ask someone to write a three-digit number, then reverse it, and finally to subtract the smaller number from the larger. For example:

297

Ask him the last digit of his answer. You can then tell him the whole answer! (Trick: The middle digit will always be 9. The first and last digits always total 9. So, if you know the last one you can figure out the first one.)

THE PADDOCK BILLBOARD

Fine Art: Incentive To Save

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Banks are imitating gas stations in attracting new customers. Except, instead of glasses, redeemable coupons, free Sunday newspapers and plastic dishes, they offer larger, more desirable items such as television sets, ladies' wigs, electric blankets and sets of silver service. It all depends on what you're in the market for as to where you'll do your banking.

Now even fine art is coming to those who put their money into a financial institution.

The Palatine Savings and Loan has on hand a selection of original oils. Still lifes, street and winter scenes and portraits, too, are all represented. The prices are more than reasonable, but the cost includes more than the tag on the frame.

THE PAINTINGS ARE only available to customers of the bank who deposit $200 or more in a savings account. Everytime an additional $200 changes hands, another picture may be purchased ranging in price, according to size, from $14 to $45. This also includes the hand-carved frames.

No two oils are alike. "If a woman likes a painting and goes home to get her husband, it may be gone when she returns," said Betty Bostrand, secretary.

"Of course, we continually get new ones in," she added, "and we will change frames for a customer to suit the decor of the home."

Thus far, the response to the "deposit and get a painting program" has been excellent. More than one hundred people in the past two weeks have walked out of the Savings and Loan with original oils under their arm. And for each painting they buy, they receive one framed miniature free.

THERE ARE NO definite plans as to how long the art fair will continue. Paintings will be available at least through January, and if the amount of purchases continue at the same pace, there is an excellent chance they will remain on hand through February, said Mrs. Bostrand.

Meanwhile, the Palatine Savings and Loan has picked up several new accounts, several new avid savers.

Key Club For Men

The formation of a club to be known as the "Executives Key Club," has been announced by Sam Maglares, owner of the Navarone Restaurant in Elk Grove Village.

Members of the Key Club will be able to enjoy buffet luncheons for $2, purchase meats at cost, participate in golf outings, and be eligible for special tours at reduced rates.

An unusual aspect of the key club is a weekly fashion show for men.

Membership in the Executives Key Club is by application only, said Maglares. Additional information is available through 439-5740.

To Perform With Bozo

Two area residents, Mrs. William Raasch of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Robert Loehrer of Prospect Heights, will appear on "Bozo's Circus" tomorrow. The show is televised on Channel 9 beginning at noon.

The two women are known for "Snook's and Laurie's children parties," which they handle in private homes. On TV, they will perform in a Christmas skit.

Fireplace Fancy

Add distinction to a plain fireplace by framing it with tongue-and-groove resawn wood siding, trimmed with moldings. Treat the brick opening area with heat-resistant paint.

Shades Are Handy

Fixing up your bedroom? Window shades have great decorative potential. A plain shade makes a handy bulletin board that will expand to keep up with a growing collection of memos, photos and souvenirs.

You can also easily make a "fancy" shade to hide an open storage space or to dress up an uninteresting bookcase. Choose a plain fabric shade in a color that compliments your room. Add your own clever design ideas, using iron-on tape, decals or fabric paints.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Each New Year's Eve, sentimental disc jockeys spin the best song platters from the year's offerings. Movie critics rerun in print the best flicks. Who says the Potting Shed can't offer a last round-up of gardening tips before the old year is put out to pasture? (Everybody wants to get into the act.)

My favorite tips lifted from these inches of type have been culled from many of the year's adventures: It was a very good year for fungus gardens, wild gardens, dish gardens, for sprouting beans, picking cranberries and wild rice.

It was a buggy year — with bagworm, webworm, cottony maple scale invading our trees. And how can we forget the year of the praying mantis?

It was a bumper year for advocates of the orchid, peony and trillium.

It was a year that spawned not only mushrooms but the following tips:

A SERRATED GRAPEFRUIT spoon makes a good hand tool for digging stray dandelions in the lawn (in season).

A good way to repel hornets or bees swarming around the patio in search of a nesting spot is to light the charcoal grill.

Best way to store dahlias for the winter, the showfolk tell, is to dip them in melted paraffin.

To avoid water dripping down your arms when trying to water a hanging basket or high-level house plant, drop ice cubes into the pot instead of using a sprinkling can.

Oldie but goodie: You can tell a plant in a clay pot needs water when you tap it with a metal spoon. If it makes a hollow sound, it's dry — a flat sound and it's satisfied.

A VENERABLE OLD gardener said, "If you want to grow really good cucumbers, sprinkle them at noon with warm water." (Cucumbers reel at the shock of cold water splashed on their leaves.)

A rusted-out wheelbarrow makes a splendid seedbed. Use the same treatment as for flats but give more frequent waterings. Wheel to planting site when seedlings are ready for transplanting in the spring.

For growers of rhododendron and azaleas out of their native soils, give these acid-loving plants an occasional boost with a solution of two tablespoons of vinegar to a quart of water, in addition to a soil additive of oak leaf mold, pine needles and peat moss at planting time.

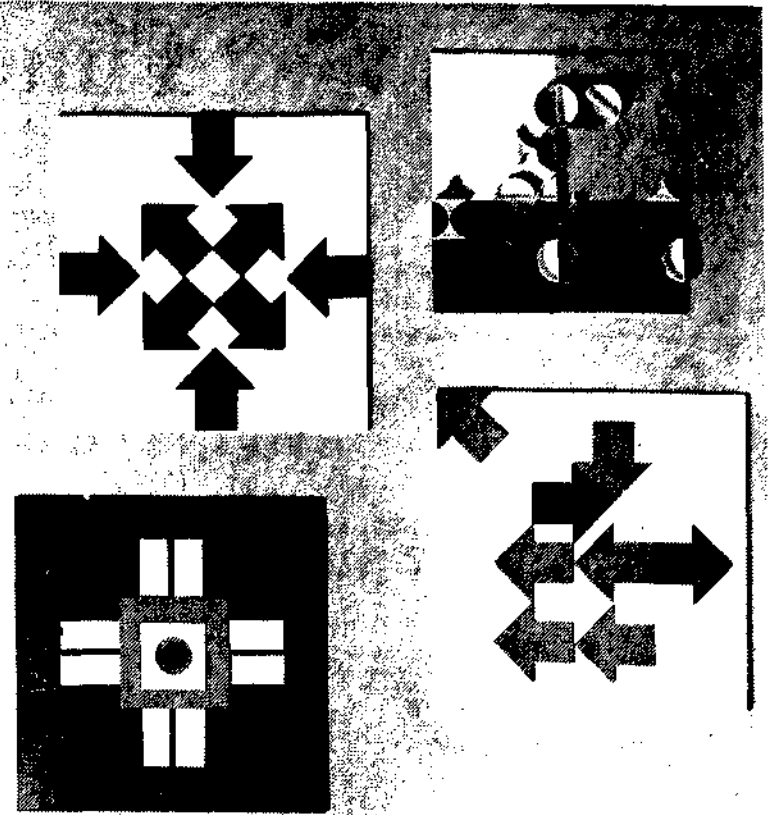

If grass stains are a problem, rubbing alcohol removes them from cotton and colorfast material.

A PINCH OF DRY Sevin the size of a corsage pin head mixed in the soil will kiss goodbye aphids and springtails on house plants.

Look for night light as a possible culprit if mums did not set buds in the fall. Mums are sensitive to yard lights, street lights, neons or nearby window lights. Next year avoid planting where mums will receive night light.

Good makeshift terrarium tools: fondue forks, dowel rods, barbecue forks, skewers, turkey basters, long cotton swabs (for cleaning glass), tongs, dandelion diggers, plastic ice cream spoons, eyelash curlers, Windex bottles, shrimpers.

My gardening wish for the New Year is to find a really effective (and safe) ant control. Chlordane, dieldrin, DDT are out, cucumber peels, don't work, salt is ineffective, spiders don't get them all, and selling your home seems extreme. Let's hear some suggestions from the readers!

"ART HAPPENINGS," a new collection of do-it-yourself home art, includes four wall hangings consisting of a metal backing panel and a variety of magnetized bright colored shapes. The pieces can be arranged to one's own individual taste. Available at The Designer Shop, Arlington Heights.

Stitch A Picture

You can be artistic with your sewing machine and create a wall-hanging that's handsome enough to give as a gift.

The basic design is done with free-motion machine stitching which requires no attachments, reports the National Cotton Council. Strips of cotton bias tape and fluffy pompons made from thread complete the unusual wall-hanging.

To make the hanging as pictured, cut two 20 by 20-inch rectangles from cotton homespun. Across the top of these pieces, cut out four 2 by 3-inch sections evenly spaced. These will form loops for the rod.

On right side of one fabric piece, sketch flower arrangement design. The bowl and flower leaves are outlined and shaded with free-motion stitching.

To adjust your machine for free-stitching, set stitch regulator in neutral position, remove pressure foot and lower feed dog. Clamp fabric in an embroidery hoop, centering the design to be stitched in the hoop.

EACH TIME you begin to stitch, draw bobbin thread through the fabric. Hold thread ends, lower pressure bar and needle into the fabric, and then stitch slowly at an even rate while moving hoop back and forth. Coordinate machine speed with movement of the hoop. This method allows stitching to be made in any direction — in straight or curved lines.

Flower stems are made from single-fold cotton bias tape. Simply fold tape in half, wrong sides together and baste or pin into position. Blind-stitch stems to fabric.

Flower petals also are made from single-fold bias tape. For each petal, cut an inch and a half strip of tape and press bottom fold out flat. Hold tape horizontally, wrong side towards you, and overlap folded edges to form a cone. Gather bottom raw edges and secure stitches. Arrange five petals at end of each stem to form flower, and sew in place.

The flower pompon centers are made from cotton mercerized thread. One small spool will make two centers.

BEFORE MAKING pompons, cut about 40 inches of thread from spool and fold in half repeatedly for ties. Then slash spool lengthwise with a razor blade, cutting through all layers of thread. Remove thread from spool in one complete section and tie securely one-half inch from each end. Cut between ties, fluff threads, and sew in center of flowers.

Complete wall-hanging by facing the two fabric pieces. Place right sides together and stitch a half-inch seam around edges, leaving a six-inch opening on one side. Turn to right side through opening and press. Slip-stitch opening closed. Form rod loops by folding down extensions at top edge and hand-stitching in place.

Science Works To Control Aging

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Through face lifts, special diets, youth pills and jogging, contemporary humans attempt to hold back the hands of time.

Their stop gap measures don't put them on the road to the fabled fountain of youth sought by Ponce de Leon, but such a trail might be found through research on aging.

The goal of such research, say scientists involved, would be to control factors involved in aging processes — making it possible for humans to live out an extended life span of 200 or 300 years, their bodies maintained all the while in a youthful state.

Awakening humans to that possible pay-off in expanded research on aging is one goal of the Prometheus project.

founded by Dr. Geraki Feinberg, Professor of Physics at Columbia University.

IT'S A LONG WAY from rats to man but Dr. Feinberg likes to tell of research that showed how to double a rodent's life span.

From a very early age a group of rats was fed half the normal quantity of an adequate diet. Why it happened isn't known exactly, but for some reason, rats in that group lived twice as long as they were expected to.

The Prometheus Project was formed last year to acquaint the non-scientific community with scientific advancement and with the rapidity of change so that mankind may shape and control its future. Control over aging is one of the changes anticipated around the turn of the century, or sooner.

DR. FEINBERG PUT it all down in a book, "The Prometheus Project" (Doubleday). As a result, Prometheus Project groups have formed in Chicago, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, London, and in Geneva, Switzerland. At the moment, Dr. Feinberg estimates chapters are being formed in some two dozen other cities throughout the world.

Discussing the advantage of control over aging, Dr. Feinberg said: "At present the accumulated experience of a long lifetime is usually wasted because of the death of the individual who bears it. If the active lifespan were increased manyfold, it is likely that simply working longer with the benefit of his experience would lead an individual to new heights of creative achievement. Imagine what Beethoven or Newton might have accomplished had they been able to retain their full abilities for hundreds of years."

OF COURSE, CONTROL over aging would alleviate the fear of death.

"I would guess that the elimination of this constant fear on everyone's mental horizon would act as a tremendous liberating force on the human mind," Dr. Feinberg said.

"It would result in people much better balanced psychologically than we are at present."

Keep Clutter Down With Fresh-up Box

A fresh-up box for your school locker or desk drawer helps keep clutter down — keeps all your grooming accessories neat and tidy.

To make a box with handy compartments, glue small cardboard boxes side by side. Use long narrow ones for brush and comb; square ones to hold makeup items.

A fresh-up box makes a wonderful gift for a friend when you cover it with gaily printed, adhesive-backed paper. You might even slip her favorite lipstick or fragrance into one of the compartments to make your gift extra-special.

Cute Cuff Link Ideas

The French-cuffed soft ruffled blouses fashion-conscious girls favor today call for cuff links in a romantic mood.

Here are some tricks for making your own. Look for out-of-the-ordinary shank buttons with enameled designs or filigree patterns. Link two together, about 1/4 inch apart, using doubled extra-strong button or carpet thread. Strengthen the thread link between the buttons by winding more thread over it, then knot the ends.

Another cute cuff link idea is to thread narrow embroidered ribbon through the shank of a pretty button. Insert button in underside of cuff and bring ribbon through to outer side of cuff. Then tie a perky bow.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Do you know what English peas are? They are on my bland diet and I can't find them in the grocery. —Elsie Chalmers.

Fairly large peas are called English peas.

Dear Dorothy: On cold nights, I tumble the children's pajamas in the warm dryer for a few minutes. It not only suggests bedtime, but they seem to enjoy putting on toasty-warm night clothes. —Mrs. Wm. A.

Served a cup of hot tea at my daughter's home. I was surprised by the unusual but most pleasant taste. All she had done was to pour the hot tea over a piece of fresh orange peel.

If anyone ever wanted a prime example of the importance of regular physical checkups, I'm a classic case. Six and a half years ago the annual exam resulted in swift surgery for a breast malignancy. To say I was scared silly is understatement. The big surprise is to suddenly learn how many woman friends have undergone the same experience and who reassure you and offer both counsel and help. Anyway, this year getting ready to move from house to apartment, I was tempted to put off the regular examination for a while until things settled down. Good thing I went ahead and made the appointment on schedule. For once again, the x-rays showed something new and suspicious. A little scared, sure, but not silly. Second time around the worry is whether it's primary (meaning not connected with the old one) and how far it might have gone. Happily, it was a primary, it was now, and I went through this surgery with much less strain. Two months later, I'm perky and argumentative as ever. But back to the moral, which is obvious. Women need regular medical checking even more than their menfolk — and they need to do their rechecking right on schedule.

Dear Dorothy: Do you know what I can do to renew my fireplace andirons which have gotten rusty? —Maurine R.

Scrub them with No. 3 steel wool and kerosene. When clean, apply stove blacking.

Dear Dorothy: Glanced at some frosting recipes which use whipped cream or sour cream as the base and wondered how long this type of frosting keeps. Also where should it be stored? —Carol Stahl.

Any cake with a frosting made of a dairy product should be stored in the refrigerator. How long the frostings will keep depends on variables such as how often the refrigerator is opened, how cold, etc.

Dear Dorothy: Saw something in your column some time ago about plants being influenced in their growth by music and thought it was just another one of those "things" which someone had made up. Then I saw a program on TV of the difference between the effects of symphonic music and "rock" on plants. The conditions of both experiments were identical except for the type of music. The plants growing with the symphonic background were flourishing. The plants with the hard-rock background were withering up. In fact, they were showing abnormalities. What do you think of that? —Betty Milner.

That those of us who recoil from "hard rock" and "acid rock" are protecting not only our sanity but our health as well.

Dear Dorothy: Which keeps better in the refrigerator — whole shelled nuts, or nut pieces? —Lillian M.

Whole shelled nuts. (Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

'What To My Wondering Eyes Should Appear...'

by JERRY THOMAS

"I remember, so long ago, hanging my stocking in the orphanage school room and wondering . . . is there a Santa Claus?"

Homer Fogerty, no longer a boy, reminisced about his childhood in a Philadelphia orphanage.

As he talked his fingers deftly glued a luxuriant silvery beard to his chin. "It's got to be tight, they pull you know," he said.

"I know the answer to that question today. It's one reason I decided to become one of Santa Claus's helpers," said Fogerty.

FOGERTY. HIS wife Betty and six children Greg, 23, Lenny 18, Norman 15, Jim 12, Lauri 9, and Dawn 8, have lived at 1415 W. Kingston Lane in Schaumburg for eight years.

"The little ones on the block think Santa lives here too," said Fogerty.

As he covered his cool black hair with a wig of long grey locks, his voice began to deepen, his cheeks puffed and Fog-erty started to slip into his Santa Claus role without seeming to realize it.

"That little boy in the orphanage was never disappointed, when Christmas morning dawned," said Fogerty.

"I REMEMBER too, the excitement of running through the cold yard from the dormitory to the school room — closed and secret — and when the doors were flung open seeing that tree and my stocking — bulgin," said Fogerty.

"Hoo, that was the time I knew and believed that Santa Claus must have many helpers to find even me," he said.

"As I got older and had children of my own I became one of those helpers," he added.

Fogerty pulled on a white shirt over his tattooed arms, and flipped his long locks out of the collar. Eyes dancing he called to his wife, "Mother, care to see if Santa's beard tickles?"

Dancing around the room Fogerty (or was it Santa Claus?) pulled on his red velvet jacket and white fur tasseled hat.

Cocking it over his right eye he winked, threw the tassel to the side and waved goodbye.

"LOTS OF GOOD little boys and girls to visit today Mother, see you soon," he said.

"Be good now."

"Bye Santa, I will," the promise came naturally from this reporter.

"I know how you feel," laughed Mrs. Fogerty. "Homer has been a Santa's helper for so many years, I believe he's Santa too when he's all dressed up."

Lauri and Dawn know Daddy is one of Santa's helpers and are proud of the fact.

"It all started when Greg, now 23, was about 2. Homer all dressed up in a red up his gifts and came in and surprised up his gifts and come in and surprise his son as Santa," said Mrs. Fogerty.

"THE NEIGHBORS caught sight of him and three hours later 'Santa' was still visiting with all the children in the block.

It's been like that every Christmas since then, said Mrs. Fogerty.

Homer takes his vacation in December so he can play Santa all month. He works as an optical technician by day and holds a part time job at Bantam Book Company "to help with expenses," said Mrs. Fogerty.

He's an old Navy man and lost his hearing in one ear in the African invasion.

"It's all he's ever wished for at Christmas time, that he could hear the children's voices better when they whisper in his ear," said Betty.

"But you know, I believe someone hears children's wishes even if the voices are small," she said.

Santa's helper, ready to go.

Someone will pull it.

It tickles little girls.

FAMILY ROOM IS featured in the Westport model at the Knightsbridge development in Schaumburg. The three-bedroom house is one of four models on display at the project, by HFS Engineering and Construction Co., Inc. Buyers may choose among several basic home designs or change the floor plans to suit their needs.

Builder Modifies Design

The model home floor plan that proves to be a good seller is likely to carry on for years as part of a large builder's standard selection of styles.

Kaufman and Broad, the largest single-family home builder in the Chicago market, has modified one of its basic town house floor plans and now features it, with minor variations, in four of its Chicago area communities. Parts of Provincetown in the south suburbs, Colony of Beaconside in the southwest, Brandywine west, and Barrington Square northwest.

Royal Faubion, vice president of marketing and sales for the Chicago Division of Kaufman and Broad, said that a sound floor plan is one of the less obvious features of a model to the home seeker but has one of the greatest influences on sales.

Surveys are conducted to determine the design preferences of purchasers, according to Faubion. When salesmen conduct potential purchasers through model homes, they notice what people like and also note any adverse comments to be investigated by the home builder as to their validity and their effect upon the popularity of their product.

If a sufficiently high proportion of visitors to the models pinpoint a feature that might adversely affect their decision to buy the home, then these are reviewed and, where possible, refined when the floor plan is next reproduced in a new model home, he said.

The modifications at the four communities include differences in measurements, relocation of appliances and of exterior elevations. Prices of the town houses vary according to the number of these modifications and upon the particular location of the community.

Faubion said that the company also stresses the importance of interior furnishing of their model homes. "Very few people have the ability to look at a floor plan or tour through an empty house and visualize what it would be like if it were furnished," he said. "By decorating our model homes with a 'lived-in' decor, we are able to show people exactly how their home furnishings can be located within the floor plan."

Gloucester House, at Barrington Square in Hoffman Estates, is a basic town house design, modified to fit against the hillside. Here, it is featured as a three-bedroom home, priced at $28,990 with a three-story front elevation and two-story rear elevation, while the front entry has been relocated to one floor below to the grade level. The adaptation of the basic design also allows for a garage to be incorporated in the basement level.

Second Of Five Sectors Opened

The Hoffman Rosner Corp. opened the Highlands section, the second of five neighborhoods to be built in its Westlake project in Bloomingdale.

In the Highlands, where 243 homes will be built, 11 models are available, ranging in price from $29,950 to $43,500, including fully improved sites, according to Gene Kaplan, sales manager for Westlake. The first homes to be built there will be ready for early 1971 delivery.

The new neighborhood is in the northern section of Westlake, adjacent to the Dujardin elementary school. Kaplan explained that Westlake is a planned community to consist of 2,631 units, including approximately 846 single-family homes, 523 condominium townhomes, 1,030 garden type apartment units and 210 apartment units in a mid-rise building. Five separate neighborhoods have been set aside for single family homes, Kaplan said.

"Including the exterior variations available with each model, Westlake offers a total of 31 different architectural designs," Kaplan said.

Standard features of all Hoffman Rosner kitchens in Westlake include Crown gas ranges with eye-level double ovens, range hoods and fans, Westinghouse dishwashers, plastic laminate countertops and kitchen cabinets.

Other features include wood double-hung and casement windows with built-in storms and screens, carpeting, full insulation, gutters and downspouts, reinforced concrete driveway, gas furnace and water heater, plus stained woodwork throughout interiors, and fully improved, graded and seeded sites.

Optional extras for all models are sink disposer, self-cleaning ovens and air conditioning. Additional options in individual models are beamed ceilings and fireplaces.

The 500-acre Westlake community is located in the southeast quarter of Bloomingdale, north of Army Trail Rd., and east of Bloomingdale Rd. Model homes at Westlake are open to the public daily from 10 a.m. to dusk.

Foresee Demise Of Speculation

An apparent leveling off of inflation to normal levels combined with continued government support for new construction, especially in the residential sector, promise a busy year for mortgage bankers in 1971, said Laurence H. Cleland, senior vice president, mortgage division, Baird & Warner, Inc.

He also sees a continuing uptrend in conventional financing. At the end of 11 1/2 months in 1970, Baird & Warner's mortgage division reported volume in excess of $97 million, surpassing the company's record dollar volume by more than 100 per cent for all of 1969.

A substantial portion of this increase was attributed by Cleland to continued acceleration of FHA-insured mortgages. He expects no change in this pattern for 1971 but expects improvements in other forms of real estate financing.

"The tight money situation of 1970, especially the high interest rates, put a real squeeze on the insurance industry to provide low cost loans to policy holders. But with the drop in interest rates, insurance policy borrowing appears to be decreasing. This should free up insurance funds for more conventional financing," Cleland said.

Cleland said equity participation by large firms and funds will remain as a basic aspect of real estate financing but that "kickers" are losing popularity.

The kicker — or an additional yield to the lender in the form of a pre-established percentage of sales or rental income — has a less certain future, because the experience of many leading institutions has been that auditing the sales and rental income has been a "horrendous" experience for many firms, even on annual basis, he said.

Two aspects of construction activity which may flatten out in 1971, in Cleland's judgment, are the smaller neighborhood shopping centers and speculative apartment buildings. He said inflation, particularly labor costs, could raise construction costs to a level where they would exceed the economic value of the property.

In contrast, support for well-planned residential properties and major regional shopping centers will not be deterred, Cleland said.

Commercial and industrial properties which are leased in advance should do better than speculative properties, he said. This includes stores built for major merchandisers as well as warehouse and manufacturing buildings.

Builders Report Yearly Activity

The Builders' Association of Chicago (BAC) recently presented its annual report for 1970.

It was a year which opened with the contractor facing the combination of inflation and recession, tight money, stringent credit, declining business, rising unemployment and the prospect of negotiations with six basic building trades unions, the report said.

BAC, as the negotiating arm of more than 170 general contractors in the metropolitan area, sustained costly and prolonged strikes by Operating Engineers and Cement Masons.

Two developments spawned by the rising costs of labor were the formation of the Chicago Construction Users Council and the creation by the BAC of an Area-Wide Bargaining Committee, according to the report. The Construction Users Council is made up of major industrial and commercial users of construction who have pledged organized support to combat labor excesses. To steer long-range study of labor negotiations, a committee was formed to investigate area-wide bargaining.

The association rededicated itself to supporting pre-apprentice and apprentice training programs and to bring more minority workers into the construction industry. New committees were formed during the year to implement the pledge made by the association to recruit, train, and employ minorities pursuant to the conclusion of the Chicago Plan.

One was the Human Relations and Manpower Committee. Another was the Black Subcontractor Liaison Committee which, in November launched a 12-week management training seminar for minority subcontractors.

Together with other AGC chapters in Illinois, the association became a part of the Legislative Committee of the AGC Council of Illinois designed to spearhead legislative activities in Springfield.

The association initiated its first day-long convention, to consolidate contractor support in Cook, DuPage and Lake counties. The BAC also announced an intensification of efforts to recruit additional members in Lake and DuPage counties.

BAC also announced plans to launch a broad-spectrum Builders' Industrial Promotion Fund to stimulate industry growth. This fund, which the BAC said it hopes will be operational in 1972, will be used to promote the growth of all facets of the construction industry in the metropolitan area.

The fund, which will be financed by employer contributions, will expand activities including: education and manpower training; materials and methods research; market development and protection; industry relations; public relations and public education; collection and distribution of information concerning the industry; safety; legislative review and action; industry procedures and affairs; building code standards; equal opportunity programs; and insurance.

Sounding A Cheery Note

The improvement in estimated third quarter corporate profits to an annual rate of $16 billion before taxes was large, it had been commonly expected, says the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its monthly review Business Conditions.

The report of higher profits sounds a cheery note in a generally somber view of recent statistics on employment, improvement in retail sales, factory output and new orders.

Rising corporate profits usually are a sign of a healthy economy. In fact, since the improved profits for third quarter, and increases in employment, factory output and new orders, the prospect for a better third quarter profits is good. The third quarter profits of the 100 largest corporations were up 11 percent from the second quarter.

Profits probably will decline in the fourth quarter because of the General Motors strike but a basic recovery appears to be underway, the report said. Allowing for seasonal trends, many non-manufacturing firms reported higher profits in the third quarter than in the second quarter.

For 1970 as a whole, corporate profits before taxes may be down 9 percent. But the decline in profits in 1970 will not be as severe. Larger profits have been reported for many individual firms and for important industry groups. In many such cases, however, the rise in profits has been less than the rise in sales.

Increases in profits this year have been concentrated in non-cyclical industries, emphasizing consumer goods and services, the report said. These include producers of foods, beverages, drugs, services, electric power and gas utilities, and retailers. Industries with sharp declines in profits include railroads, trucking, airlines and producers of textiles, rubber, paper, chemicals, building materials, steel, autos and aerospace equipment.

Surveys of corporate financial officers taken in late 1969 and early 1970 revealed a widespread view that profits would be higher this year than last, said the bank. To the extent that expected profit gains for 1970 reflected best estimates, rather than desirable goals, corporate management were deeply shocked by actual results as the year unfolded, the bank said. Attempts to raise prices to bolster profits were not always successful. In fact, supply and demand pressures forced price declines for some commodities, especially lumber and nonferrous metals.

Programs to reduce unnecessary or marginal expenses have been pushed vigorously in 1970. Painful reductions in work staffs have been necessary. Certain capital expenditure programs have been postponed or canceled. Inventories have been paid to reduce carrying costs.

Most analysts anticipate a substantial rise in corporate profits in 1971 — 5 to 20 percent or more, the bank said. Increases in business activity, gains in productivity, cost reduction programs, and possibly lower interest rates will all play a part. Most important would be the increase in total activity, permitting overhead costs to be spread over a larger volume of total activity.

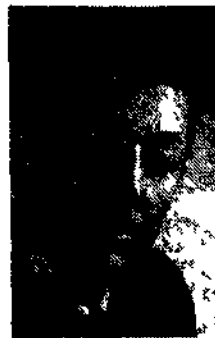

Reasonable earnings on equity investments are essential if private enterprise is to attract a sufficient volume of funds and perform adequately the task of providing more and better goods and services for the entire nation, the bank said. Profit margins on sales or net worth in 1970 were the lowest since before World War II. Even a 20 percent rise in corporate profits next year would only partly restore the decline of recent years.

Higher profits would renew business confidence and might reverse the current downturn in plant and equipment spending. Most important, a vigorous, sustained upturn in corporate profits would provide a much-needed antidote to the widespread pessimism produced by the quasi recession of 1970.

Predict Upturn By Next Spring

This year has been one of economic uncertainty, according to a recent report by Edward Zale, president of the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

Zale said high interest rates and rising building costs, coupled with a softer rental market, have curtailed apartment construction. He does not foresee an upturn in the industry in the next three to four months.

EDWARD ZALE

"We are looking for the first change to take place sometime during the spring of 1971," said Zale. "It is our expectation that the anti-inflation policies of the Federal Reserve Board will take hold by then with some reduction in long term interest rates and a resulting renewal of activity in apartment construction. A predicted upturn in general business activity should also have a healthy effect on the rental market."

Zale said the rising cost of construction, plus rising taxes and wage increases to maintenance personnel, are causes of increased rentals.

"In 1970, we saw the development of a phenomenon sometimes called 'consumerism,'" said Zale. "For the apartment industry, the consumer is the tenant." Zale said that where there is an indication of changes in laws dealing with tenant-landlord relationships, care must be used not to disrupt the economic balance of the industry, or investment dollars will leave the industry.

Walgreen Report Of Record Sales

Walgreen Drug Stores recently reported an annual sales and earnings for the year ended Sept. 30.

Sales in 1970 reached a record $74,920,994 over the 1969 level of $72,886,157. Net earnings for the year were $9,402,429 compared to $12,112,787 in 1969. Net earnings per common share were $1.18 compared to $1.91 last year.

Walgreen reported that the number of stores at the close of this period is 613 compared to 588 the previous year.

Improved profits for 1971 were predicted by Charles R. Walgreen Jr., board chairman, and Charles R. Walgreen III, president.

Following a 1970 earnings low point during our January-February-March second quarter, profits recovered in our third and fourth quarters, showing progressively narrowing differences versus 1969, they said.

The Walgreen report featured for the first time a release of separate sales figures for the Globe department store chain the company acquired in 1963. It showed the division produced $114,750,000 in sales, 15 percent of the company total.

The company opened 37 Walgreen Drug Stores (including seven Super Centers) while closing 23 marginal units and replacing 6 Walgreen also opened 2 restaurants, 10 Corkys and 5 Globe department stores.

In related news, the drug chain announced that vice president Murrel R. Kephart has been nominated to fill a vacancy on the board of directors. The opening was created by the announcement that Casey E. LaFranchetta, a retired company vice president, would not stand for re-election. He will continue as a consultant.

Walgreens also announced purchase of a 26-acre tract of land in Des Plaines, Illinois at Touhy Ave. and Lee St. on which it intends to build a new headquarters building. It probably will be at least five years before this headquarters move is made, the company said.

Smith Will Suffer Loss Industry Is In Profit Squeeze

A. O. Smith Corp. will suffer a loss in the fourth quarter, dropping earnings for all of 1970 substantially below 1969 record levels, reported L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer.

The company has a facility in Arlington Heights. Smith said the fourth quarter loss was a direct result of the United Auto Workers strike against General Motors. A. O. Smith manufactures automobile and truck frames for GM, and GM is the company's largest customer.

The loss in the fourth quarter will amount to approximately 87 cents a share, compared to a profit of $1.57 per share in the fourth quarter of 1969.

For the year as a whole, Smith estimated earnings will be $2.60 per share or more. In 1969, A. O. Smith earned a record $3.84 per share.

Other losses were suffered by the A. O. Smith Corp. Of Texas, a 50 per cent-owned affiliate; a swing in interest income versus interest expense between 1970 and 1969; and new model start-up costs in the automotive division.

Sales for the year should top $400 million for the first time in the company's history, Smith said. In 1969, A. O. Smith had sales of $354.5 million.

For the fourth quarter, sales should exceed $75 million, compared to $94.3 million in the fourth quarter of 1969, he said.

A. O. Smith, with its subsidiaries, is a diversified manufacturer of auto and truck frames, electric motors, electrical controls, meter systems, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, water heating equipment, elevators, pumping and irrigation systems and other products.

Reflecting the general slowdown in the economy, the color television and stereo industry is caught in a severe sales and profit squeeze, according to TMA Co. in Wheeling.

The company, which manufactures and sells direct to dealers color TV, black & white TV and stereo consoles, lost $1,673,212 in its fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1970 on sales of $6,132,297. TMA's annual report containing its audited financial statement for such fiscal year soon will be mailed to the TMA stockholders and debenture holders.

TMA did not meet and believes it does not now meet the net working capital requirement of the indenture relating to TMA's 6 1/2 per cent convertible subordinated debentures due 1982, because of the loss. The indenture requires that TMA maintain a net working capital of at least $2,500,000. At August 31, 1970, TMA's net working capital was $1,960,423. The company said the current assets available are adequate to operate at the present level of sales and production.

The company has recalled all of its employees laid off during the 13 week Chicago area truck strike and lockout which ended in July. Since that time the company increased its total work force from 190 to 256 employees as production and sales have increased in each month since July.

TMA is current in all sinking fund and interest payment requirements of the debentures.

Under the indenture, if TMA does not meet the net working capital requirement within sixty days after receipt of notice from the trustee or the holders of 1 per cent of the principal amount of the debentures requiring it to do so, then the trustee or such debentureholders may declare the debentures to be immediately due and payable. No such notice has been received to date.

TMA plans to ask its debentureholders to waive the non-compliance and its consequences and to change the minimum net working capital requirement of the indenture to $1,000,000.

The waiver requires approval by the holders of more than 50 per cent in principal amount of the $1,750,000 outstanding debentures and the change in the indenture requires approval by the holders of 2/3 of the outstanding debentures.

Most recently, Slater has been serving as an associate advertising director and midwest manager of Field & Stream. He has been midwest manager since 1957.

Slate Edison Debt Offering

Commonwealth Edison Co. recently announced regular quarterly dividend as well as a debt offering for next year.

Commonwealth Edison Co. declared a quarterly dividend of $2.36 a share on its 9.44 per cent cumulative prior preferred stock; a quarterly dividend of 35-5/8 cents a share on its $1.425 convertible preferred stock; and a quarterly dividend of 55 cents a share on its common stock, all payable Feb. 1, 1971, to stockholders of record at 5 p.m. Dec. 31. Chairman J. Harris Ward made the announcement. He said quarterly dividends have been paid on the common stock without interruption since 1890.

Ward announced that Commonwealth Edison Co.'s previously announced $100 million debt offering on Jan. 7 will be first mortgage bonds.

He said the maturity date of the new bonds will be fixed by telegraphic notice to prospective bidding groups at least 65 hours before the bidding time. The maturity date selected will be from two to 30 years and the new bonds will be non-callable if their term is five years or less. Otherwise, they will be non-refundable at a lower interest cost for five years from date of issue.

The proposed bond offering, which is subject to satisfactory market conditions, is covered in a registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission today and a petition filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

May your Christmas and New Year glisten, gleam and glow with seasonal joy.

Thank you for the pleasure of serving you.

We anticipate your continued confidence.

Sales Dominated State Tax Tally

Sales taxes continue to produce more state tax revenue than any other levy, said Commerce Clearing House.

General sales and gross receipts taxes were the best state tax revenue source in 34 states, including Illinois, in fiscal 1970. Income taxes produced the most tax revenue in 14 states; motor fuels taxes led in New Hampshire and the severance tax on natural resources topped the list in Louisiana.

Five states that collected more than $2 billion apiece accounted for 40 per cent of total state tax collections. These were New York, which received $6.117 billion, California with $5.496 billion, Illinois, $2.369 billion, Pennsylvania, $2.778 billion, and Michigan, $2.345 billion. Just under a fourth of the total state tax revenue went to New York and California.

Eleven other states — Texas, Ohio, Florida, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, New Jersey, North Carolina, Maryland, Washington, Minnesota and Indiana — collected more than $1 billion each in state taxes, according to the CCH review of Census Bureau data.

Total state tax collections jumped to $47.9 billion in fiscal 1970 — a 14.2 per cent leap from the $41.9 billion tallied the prior year. All major sources of state tax revenue showed increases over the previous period.

Revenue from general sales and gross receipts taxes rose by 13.5 per cent to $14.1 billion and accounted for 29.5 per cent of all state tax revenues. Income tax revenues rose by 20.7 per cent to $12.9 billion. Income taxes contributed 27 per cent of the total state tax collection, a larger share than ever before. Motor fuels tax revenues climbed by 11 per cent to $6.3 billion, but their percentage contribution to total state tax revenues declined.

In several states there were increases or decreases in the relative importance of the best revenue producing taxes, CCH noted. The Delaware income tax produced more revenue in fiscal 1970, but it produced a smaller proportional share of total revenue because of an increase in the corporate franchise tax rates.

With Illinois' new income tax, the sales tax produced only 35 per cent of total tax revenue; sales tax revenue in fiscal 1969 was 51 per cent of the total. An increase of the New Jersey sales tax rate from 3 to 5 per cent was in effect during the last third of fiscal 1970; the sales tax contributed 27 per cent of tax revenue against 22 per cent in fiscal 1969.

The Pennsylvania sales tax contributed a smaller share of total tax revenue, partly because of an increase in the corporate income tax rate. In South Carolina, a sales tax rate increase was in effect during only one month of fiscal 1969 but during all of fiscal 1970; in the two successive years, the sales tax contributed 30 and 35 per cent, respectively, of all tax revenues.

Wisconsin's sales tax rate increase and a broadening of the sales tax base reduced the income tax's proportional contribution to tax revenue from 52 to 45 per cent, CCH said.

Thirty-eight states boosted their collections by 10 per cent or more. Illinois recorded the greatest gain in collections, 48.8 per cent. Connecticut (37.0), Delaware (24.6), Maine (31.2), Maryland (25.4), Mississippi (21.3), Nebraska (20.2), Pennsylvania (22.6), South Dakota (22.7), Utah (23.7), Vermont (34.0) and Wisconsin (22.2) also hiked collections more than 20 per cent.

Five states — California, Idaho, Michigan, Virginia and Washington — had percentage increases of less than 6 per cent compared with three in 1969, 11 in 1968 and 19 in 1967, CCH reported.

Finance Study Of Recycling

Chemetron Corp. is asking the assistance of students at four colleges and universities in studies of recycling as possible solutions to industrial pollution, the company recently announced.

The Chicago firm has made small financial grants to each institution to support these efforts. Chemetron has offices of its Votator division in Des Plaines, as well as facilities in Elk Grove Village.

"We are trying to enlist the brainpower and enthusiasm of students who may well make a fruitful contribution to the body of knowledge in solving one of America's most urgent domestic problems," said Chemetron's president, John P. Gallagher. They range from the undergraduate through the post-doctoral levels.

"We are anxious to examine what they will suggest as fundamental theories of recycling, or whether they even think using pollutants as a resource is the key to pollution control," Gallagher said.

Chemetron is supporting a new credit course at Augustana College, Rock Island, which will bring together students from various disciplines to consider the pollution control-recycling question.

At Harvard Business School, students in a Creative Marketing Strategy course will be asked to work toward exposing the business logic of reusing materials rather than "insulting the environment" through discard.

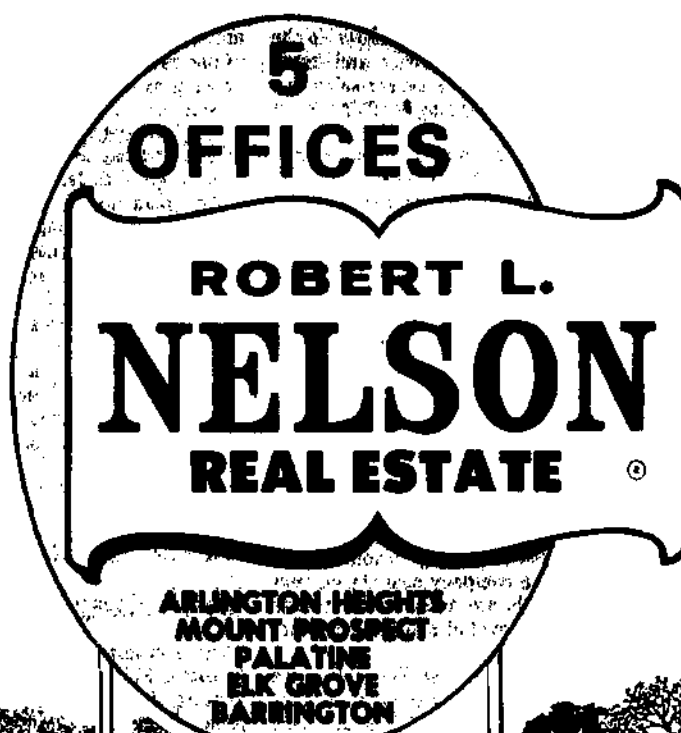

A new course called Recycle is being introduced at the University of Rhode Island and is backed by a student group known as HEED. It may include a systems examination of the Kingston area, with the purpose of identifying the interconnected effects of present methods of handling used materials and the possibilities of improvement by recycling.

A pre-doctoral and post-doctoral seminar at the University of California at Davis will seek to work out a fundamental theory of recycling.

Chemetron is a leading producer of industrial and medical gases and equipment, chemicals and metal products and process equipment.

Illinois Laws Are Tough On Drinking Drivers

The number of Illinois motorists convicted on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol in dangerous drugs promises to become the highest in Illinois history, the Illinois State Bar Assn. (ISBA) reported. The previous high was set in 1969 when 13,961 persons were convicted.

The association said the number of drivers convicted each year of having had "one too many for the road" has climbed steadily during the past decade, according to records kept by the Secretary of State's office in Springfield. There have been only a few convictions for driving under the influence of dangerous drugs.

Under state law, conviction on a "DWI" (driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or dangerous drugs) results in the automatic revocation of the person's license by the Secretary of State. Normally, the bar group stated, the person whose license is revoked must wait one year before applying for another driver's license.

The number of "DWI" convictions has steadily risen each year since 1963 when there were 1,995 convictions. In 1964 there was a sharp increase to 8,094 and the trend continues.

In hardship cases, the ISBA said, the person whose license is revoked may qualify for a restricted permit which would allow him to operate a motor vehicle between his residence and place of employment.

THE ISBA ADDED there is no guarantee that a new license will be issued upon application after the one-year waiting period, since the applicant may be rejected if his trustworthiness in the driver's seat is still a matter of doubt.

By law, a person is presumed to be under the influence of alcohol if he has 0.10 per cent or more by weight of alcohol in his blood. A person of average weight will normally reach that level after consuming two strong alcoholic drinks or three not-so-strong drinks during a one-hour period. A thin person will reach the "influence" level sooner.

The percentage of alcohol in a person's blood can be determined by chemical analysis of his blood, breath, urine or saliva.

Under current law, a test for blood alcohol content may not be given without a person's consent. If a driver refuses to take the test, neither the fact of his refusal nor results of any test taken over his objection can be used as evidence against him in court.

If a person consents to a chemical test, the results must be made available to him or his attorney. If a test shows that a person had less than 0.05 per cent by weight of alcohol in his blood, he is presumed to be sober. If the level is between 0.05 and 0.10 per cent, there is no presumption one way or the other. However, this fact may be considered with other competent evidence in determining whether the person was under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The Lighter Side

Talk Show A Defense Against Revolution?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Perhaps you have noticed that violence by campus radicals and other militants appears to have diminished this fall. And perhaps you have been wondering why.

If so, I invite your attention to the steady proliferation of television "talk" shows.

Television news coverage has occasionally been accused of causing violence, the theory being that demonstrators tend to become more frenetic when the cameras are turned their way.

This may be true, but any violence attributable to network newsmen certainly is more than offset by the talk shows, which have become America's first line of defense against revolution.

IN ILLUSION of this point, let us say that a terrorist group called the "Meteorologists" plans to bomb a plant that makes frozen onion rings served in military mess halls.

The blasting party assembles at the appointed hour and awaits the arrival of their leader, Sam Boombang. After they have been standing around for 30 minutes or so, a runner arrives with a message.

"The operation has been scrubbed for tonight," he reports.

"What's the matter?" someone asks.

"Did somebody tip off the pigs?"

"No," the runner replies. "Boombang is appearing on the David Susskind Show."

This does not mean, of course, that a certain amount of terrorism doesn't take place. But think how much greater it would be if television didn't keep most of the radical leaders tied up on talk shows.

If you check the dates on recent bombings, I think you will find that all of them occurred on nights when David Frost failed to interview the leader of some extremist group.

THE NUMBER of radical activists who are inactivated by Dick Cavett and Johnny Carson is far greater than the sum of their radical guests.

If a revolutionist is booked for the Meiv Griffin show, his loyal followers naturally watch the program. As do the leaders and members of other militant factions.

Consequently, a single guest shot on a network talk show can effectively neutralize the entire terrorist apparatus in this country.

Putting this situation in historical perspective, we can see that if David Susskind had been Cuban, Fidel Castro would never have gotten out of the Maestra Mountains.

Withholding Not A Must

This column, answering questions on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

Q—A FOLLOW at the place where I work after school says I can stop income tax withholding on my pay if I want to. Is that right?

A—Yes, you may stop income tax withholding on your earnings if you owed no Federal income tax last year and expect to owe none this year. This is done by completing Form W-4-E and giving it to your employer. If you earn less than $1725 this year you won't have to pay tax.

Q—THE $70 payment I sent in several weeks ago was not deducted from the tax bill you sent me. What should I do?

A—Reduce the bill by the amount of your last payment and pay the difference. Return the bill with your payment and note on it the amount of your previous payment, the date paid and where it was sent. What might have happened is that the bill was issued before your payment had been processed and credited to your account.

Sometimes, however, payments are received that cannot be credited because there is insufficient information to identify the payment. This happens when the payment is received without an accompanying bill or notice and the payment is not identified by the taxpayer's social security number.

If the payment carries a social security number then it can be readily identified and credited to the taxpayer's account.

Q—MY NEIGHBORS tell me I can sell my house and not pay any tax on the profit since I'm over 65. Can I really do that?

A—Yes, all or part of the profits from the sale of the home may be tax free if you are 65 or over before the date of the sale and owned and used the house as your principal residence for at least five of the last eight years.

When these conditions are met, all the profit is tax free when the adjusted sales price is $20,000 or less. When the price is above that, only a proportionate part of the profit is taxable.

For details in this and other benefits for taxpayers 65 and over, send a post card to your district office and ask for a free copy of Publication 554, Tax Benefits for Older Americans.

Q—I'M THINKING of buying some shares of stock. Is there any advantage of putting the account in my wife's name as well as my own?

A—There are many considerations to be taken into account. From a Federal tax standpoint, the owner of stock is entitled to exclude up to $100 in ordinary dividends from his income. If the stock is jointly owned, then each could receive up to $100 in dividends tax free.

William G. Roberts

Roberts Promoted Automatic Electric

Promotion of William G. Roberts, field audit supervisor, to head the exempt organization group in the Chicago IRS District Office, was announced by E. P. Trainor, District Director.

The Chicago District, comprised of the 26 counties of northern Illinois, has been designated as a key district in tax-exempt organization work.

Roberts began his IRS career in 1956 as Internal Revenue Agent in Chicago. After a series of increasingly responsible positions, he was advanced to the review staff in 1969 and group supervisor in field audit in 1969.

Roberts is a graduate of DePaul University where he received degrees of bachelor of science of commerce and master in business administration.

A member of the St. Mark Lutheran Church, he is active in youth work serving on several program committees. Roberts is married and lives at 308 S. Pine St., Mount Prospect.

Promoted By Ekco

Ekco Housewares Co. has announced the appointment of Jack Theobald of 201 S. Albert, Mount Prospect as advertising and public relations manager. He will report to Robert S. Stein, director of advertising and sales promotion.

In his new capacity, Theobald will take on the additional responsibility of public relations manager for the Franklin Park based company. Theobald will continue working in national, trade and consumer advertising as advertising manager.

Theobald has been with the Ekco Advertising Department for sixteen years, and has handled a variety of advertising functions.

He has been prominent in community work in Mount Prospect and in Elk Grove Township. Theobald has been publicity director for the Elk Grove Township Republican Organization. He handled the publicity of the October 29th Nixon rally held at Prospect High School.

Credit Records Going National

You've just moved to another city and you apply for credit to make an important purchase.

The store may turn you down because it says it can't obtain enough information about your credit record from your former location. To avoid this problem in an increasingly mobile, credit-oriented society, your credit record is gradually going national. Family Banker, money-management customer newsletter of Continental Bank, Chicago, reports the move is designed to help both consumers and merchants enjoy an efficient credit system.

Computerized files and data-transmission networks are being developed among the nation's 2,500 local credit bureaus so that accurate, up-to-date information on consumer credit records will be available anywhere, quickly.

"Only about four per cent of today's credit users fall grossly behind in repayments," said the newsletter. "Only one per cent try to avoid repayment altogether. These numbers would undoubtedly be much higher without a rapid, efficient credit-checking system."

Individuals today have no national "credit rating," because there is no common standard for granting credit, the bank says. Bureaus simply pass along information on jobs, incomes, past uses of credit and repayment habits. How these facts are applied varies widely, the bank said.

The best way to keep a good record, the bank said, is to pay bills promptly. Check bills to make sure you know when they are due. If you are ever denied credit, find out why. Errors can be corrected, the bank said.

Northwest Returns Home Sunday

Travelers, Grand Rapids Collide

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

So much for the losing streak. That's just painful history. It's time to start making up for those frustrating weekends. Bolstered by the addition of two players, optimistic after a thrilling victory, the Northwest Travelers now await, with confidence, their most demanding weekend of the 1970-71 season.

A trip to Grand Rapids, Mich., Saturday.

Travelers Set Merchants Night

Sunday will be Merchants Night at the Northwest Travelers professional basketball game with Grand Rapids, Mich. Prizes will be presented to several youngsters as a part of the special evening. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. Sunday and the tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Prospect High School gymnasium.

day and a home game with these same Tackers on Sunday face the Travelers as they continue their swing through the arduous Continental Basketball Association schedule.

Prior to that 123-122 heart-stopper over Peoria last Sunday, a victory that checked a six-game losing streak, this weekend doubleheader with Grand Rapids was looked upon as a king-sized headache in the schedule.

It's a four-hour trip — one way — and the trip seems so much longer when you're bouncing around at the bottom of the league ladder with no apparent chance to initiate a climb.

That all changed Sunday evening in one half of basketball.

Today, the Travelers are optimistic. They're confident about the schedule ahead. They know what faces them but they feel they can play with anybody in this league — and beat anybody.

Northwest has needed some maneuverability in its lineup, a stronger bench, eight or nine players who could move in and out without altering the effectiveness of the attack.

The addition of 6-foot-10 Paul Ruffner and 6-foot-7 A. W. Holt from the Chicago Bulls supplied that vital depth. Both performers looked good Sunday against Peoria. Both should start this Saturday and Sunday against Grand Rapids.

The acquisition of these two basketball standouts comes at just the right time because Northwest will be without the services of 6-foot-8 Mel Bell until Jan. 1. Bell, who is in Houston, Tex., is averaging 25 a game and will be missed.

Holt will move into that forward slot this weekend, and this jumping-jack who played at Jackson (Miss.) State has all the tools. He can score, rebound, and he pulled off some defensive moves ala Bill Russell in that win over Peoria.

Holt was an honorable mention All-American at Jackson State. He tried out with the Dallas Chaparrals of the ABA and then played with the Scranton Miners of the Eastern League last season.

A. W. joined the Bulls as a free agent for rookie camp and was invited back to the veteran camp where he earned a spot on the roster with his strong rebounding, leaping ability and overall desire and hustle. He popped in 18 in his debut with the Travelers last Sunday.

Ruffner, a fine shooter and strong board man, fired in 32 points for Northwest in his first appearance. Paul was the No. 2 draftee of the Bulls behind guard Jimmy Collins after a spectacular career at Brigham Young University.

The 22-year-old native of Downey, Calif., led the Provo, Utah based Cougars in rebounding during his junior and senior seasons and averaged 17.7 in scoring. He had a career high of 43 points.

Ruffner enrolled at Brigham Young as a transfer from Cerritos Jr. College in California, where he paced the team to a state JC title and earned a berth on the JC team in the Olympic trials.

Holt and Ruffner both live in Rolling Meadows.

With these additions, and some consistent play from Bell, Sev Brown, Eddie Modestas, Dennis Dickens, Charley Tucker and the rest of the Northwest cast, the Travelers will be a team to watch over the final 13 games in the CBA season.

They're expecting a rugged assignment Saturday in Grand Rapids. "It's a tough place to play in, and win in," says Tucker, the flashy Traveler guard who is working on an advanced degree at Michigan State University.

"You don't get much of a break there. You have to play a tremendous game, get out in front and just hold on."

Grand Rapids, off-and-on this winter, closed fast in the 1969-70 season and finished with a 13-7 record for second place.

Don Edwards, a 6-1 guard and No. 2 scorer in the CBA last season with a 27.7 mark, is averaging better than 30 a game this time around. He's quick, with all the moves.

The Tackers also feature player-coach Willie Jones (6-3) at guard, a former star at Northwestern University who was with the Detroit Pistons for five years, and 6-foot-5 Willie Bond, a 23.1 scorer in CBA play last winter.

Added from that 1969-70 club were 6-3 Tom Dykstra, Little All-American from Wheaton (Ill.) College; Roy Haywood (6-4), older brother of ABA star Spencer; and Floyd McMillon (6-9), all-conference three years at Missouri State and brother to Shelly McMillon, ex-DuSable High and NBA cager.

Others on the Grand Rapids roster are Al Vandermeer (6-5), a fierce rebounder who played at Alma (Mich.) College; Dave Nelson (6-7), all-conference four years at Central Michigan with all the school scoring records; Clifford Williams (6-3), who has NBA experience with the Detroit Pistons; Joe Johnson (6-4) from Parsons College; and Ted Hillary (6-3), most valuable player in NCAA regional play while performing for St. Joseph (Ind.) College.

Falcons, Lions In Tourney Play

Two high school basketball teams will get a jump on the rest of the Herald area teams by getting into holiday tournament action Saturday night.

St. Viator will be at the Notre Dame Tournament and Forest View will be at the Fox Valley Tournament.

The Falcons will be receiving a strong test in going up against once beaten McHenry at 7:00. The Lions will have an equally tough time of it when they take on Luther South at 7:00.

Should the Lions win, they would play again on Tuesday at 7:30 against the winner of the Lane Tech-Marian Catholic game. If the Lions lose their opener, they would play the loser of the latter contest at 6:00 Monday.

If the Falcons get by their opener, they would take on the winner of the Batavia-Benet Academy game at 8:30 on Tuesday. If they lose the first game, they would play the loser of the latter game on Tuesday at 7:00.

The other area teams go into tourney action on Monday. See Monday sports for details.

Prospect Takes Lead In Wrestling Tourney

Prospect rolled out the mats Tuesday for round one of their big two day holiday wrestling tournament. The seven visiting teams, including Mid Suburban League cohort Forest View, figured to stymie the Knights' bid for a second straight crown.

But after the opening night matches, Prospect returned to defend their title with 10 semi-finalists and 31 pace-setting points.

Maine South was a close second with 27 points and eight grapplers left in the running while Forest View and Rockford East were still within striking range with 26 points and nine and six boys left, respectively.

York, with 18 points and Downers Grove North with 15, both returned with five semifinalists. Niles West had 13 points and four left while Lake Park brought three points and one boy back for the semi-final, final and consolation rounds Wednesday.

The Knights, in losing just two of the 12 matches, traded head-to-head decisions to contending Forest View. The Falcons got the best of it at 106 points when Mike March decisioned Knight Al Weber, 9-5.

Mickey Gebert evened the score for Prospect at 155 by nipping Falcon Randy Traub, 7-5. Gebert's victory was the third of six straight wins by the Knights to close out the competition.

Bob Fischer got the streak going with an 8-5 win at 138 and Scott Szala followed with a 4-0 shutout before Gebert turned the same trick.

Jeff Sorenson, Rich Brower and Paul Beck all won big — Sorenson advancing on a pin.

Steve Brice, Prospect's 98-pound entry opened the evening by clinging to a slim

1-0 margin to gain the semis before Ron Cherwin was an automatic winner by drawing a bye in the first round. Bill Verde at 119 took just 1:32 to pin his opponent and John Laver walloped his competition from Downers, 9-0 before the Knight win streak began.

The Falcons sent 96-pound Steve Eggedal into the semis via a pin at 1:32 and March and Dan Pirron, a 9-5 victor advanced Forest View in all three of the opening classes.

Falcon Rob Caltagirone passed his first test at 132 by sticking his Downers' foe in 4:45 before Gordy Moore (9-2) and Mark Bowe (4:45 pin) gave Forest View another string of three consecutive triumphs.

Complete details will be in Monday sports.

The Cardinals of Coach Greg Benes registered a pair of seconds with Tom Rice at 132 and Tom Patterson at 155. Then came John Norton (185) and Dave Weber (119) with thirds and Bill Riece (heavyweight) with a fourth.

CHRISTMAS IS just for kids. That's what some people say, but don't you believe it.

It's about time that some adults get in on the gift receiving, especially a few good sports who have been handing out "gifts" all year long. Now it's their turn to be the benefactor. Here are some Christmas wishes that I'm sending out to sports announcers, players and coaches. Maybe they won't make the receivers jolly, but it could make sports fans more cheery during the upcoming seasons.

ANNOUNCERS:

Jack Brickhouse — that he says less for a change.

Bill Frink — that he says something for a change.

Bill Berg — that he uses a noun other than "and there" when he's speaking.

Wendell Smith and Lou Boudreau — that they learn how to speak.

Vince Lloyd — that he learns to save emotional outbursts for pennant winning performances.

Jack Drees — that he shows some emotion to prove that he's still alive.

Howard Cosell — that he starts a school, Cosell College, which could teach these announcers how to do their jobs.

PLAYERS:

Ron Santo — that he makes a phone call to Brooks Robinson for advice on how to act like a super star.

Tommy McCraw — that he asks to be traded and get his wish.

Ernie Banks — that he decides to retire before he embarrasses himself and begins learning how to manage.

Billy Williams — that he gets mad just once; it could spark a pennant.

Walter Williams — that he be given a starting job.

Jerry Sloan — that he be given a thorough examination to determine if his skin and bones really have rubber in them.

Tom Boerwinket — that he stays away from holiday goodies and turn some fat into muscle.

Bobby Hull — that he sees Joe Pepitone about a blond rug.

Dick Gordon — that he lets his hair grow a little longer, have point applied in the right spots and become the only player in the NFL who won't need a helmet.

Dick Butkus — that he admits he's part animal.

Tommy John — that he becomes the super star he's supposed to have been all these years.

Fergie Jenkins — that he talks more about team play and less about his personal records.

COACHES:

Jim Valek — that he be hired by the Champaign News-Gazette and work on the sports staff.

Jim Dooley — that he go back to doing what he knows best: taking an assistantship either in coaching or with a college philosophy department.

Leo Durocher — that he becomes a coach somewhere else and leave managing to someone more capable.

Don Gutteridge — that he continues to have success at whatever he's doing so that he'll never come back to Chicago.

SO THERE you have it. If I missed anyone of your favorites, don't dismay. I'll take care of them next Christmas.

Hinsdale Shows Strength

Ten of the better gymnastics teams in the state entered in the Maine East Invitational meet and all observers were asking the same question — does Hinsdale Central have the quality to successfully defend the state championship it won a year ago.

The Maine East Invitational proved that Hinsdale Central will have to be favored once again.

The defending champions won the meet with 47.25 points while Evanston took second with 45.35.

Elk Grove was third, Waukegan fourth, Arlington fifth, Prospect sixth, Wheeling seventh, Niles West eighth, Maine South ninth and Maine East 10th.

Each team entered just one gymnast in each event. Therefore, depth did not come into the scoring picture.

Hinsdale Central and Evanston dominated most of the first places except two.

Al Mitsos of Elk Grove captured first place on the trampoline while teammate James Malmehall was first on the still rings.

Arlington's top performer was Bobby Wilson who took second place on the horizontal bar.

Prospect's top performer was Guy Courtney who finished third in free floor exercise.

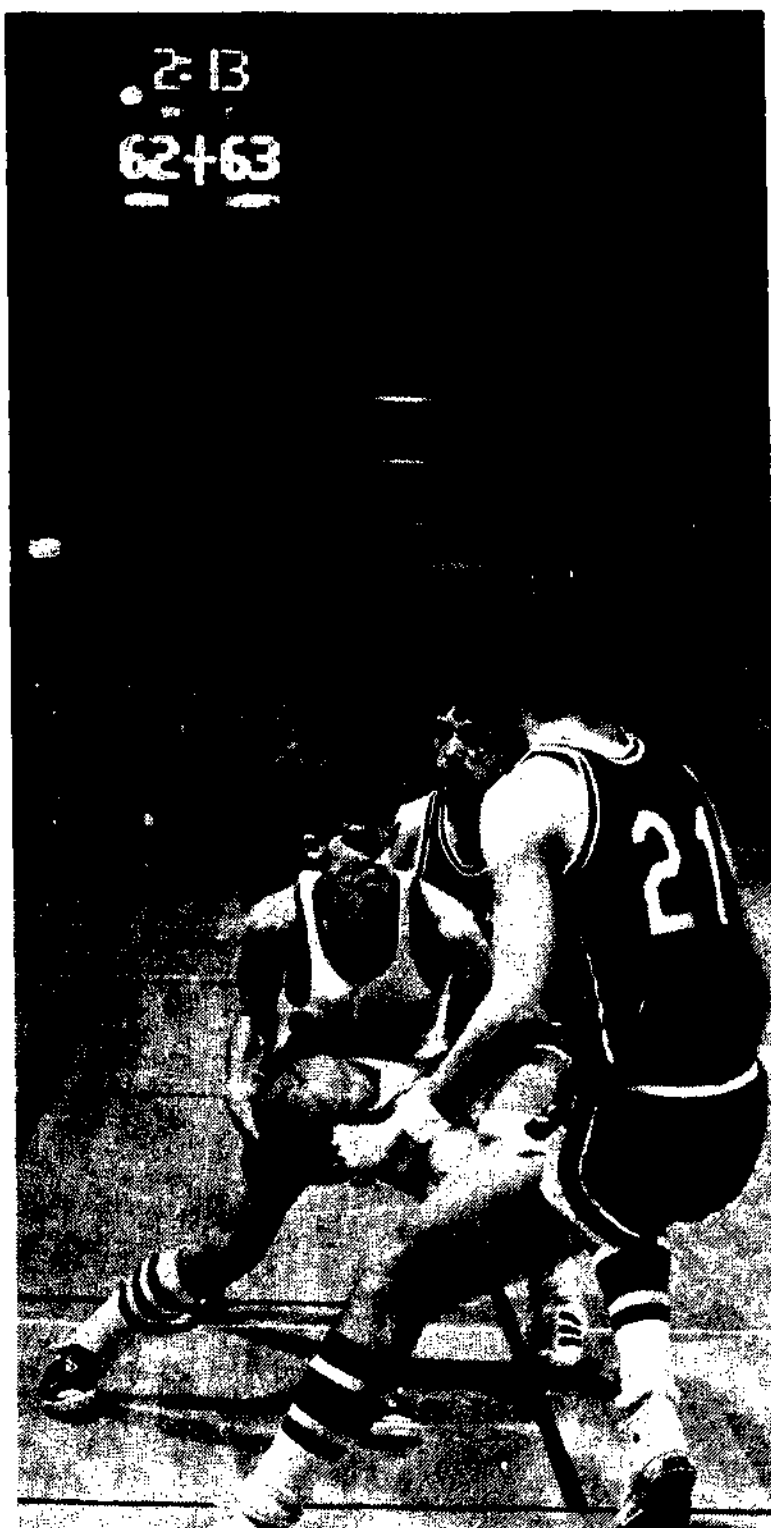

Maine East took a pair of fourth places

Forest View Swimmers Win Again; Now 5-0

Forest View's swim team, barring a change in attitude, should be in fine shape when the Mid-Suburban League season begins for it on Wednesday, Jan. 6 against Hersey.

The Falcons bolstered their self-confidence last weekend with still another lopsided victory. This time the victim was Lake Forest, 60-35, at Olympic Pool. Coach Gordon Aukerman's team is now 5-0.

Scott Patience paced the win with double wins. He took the 50-yard freestyle (23.7) and the 100 free (52.4).

These were the other first place winners:

Pete Lenkeit in the 200 (1:57.7), Fred Westdale in the individual medley

(2:20.9), Jim Johnson in diving (161.25), John Mate in the butterfly (1:01.8) and the 400 freestyle relay of Mark Bailey, Lenkeit, Mate and Patience with 3:35.9.

Taking the runners-up honors were these Falcons:

Norb Polacek in the individual medley (2:27.2), Don Tosby in diving (125.20), Bailey in the 100 freestyle (54.3), Lenkeit in the 400 freestyle (4:19.6), Kent Higgins in the backstroke (1:06.2) and Westdale in the breaststroke (1:10.7).

The sophomores improved their record to 2-3 with a 52-38 victory. Registering good times for the youngsters were Jim Davies with a 1:06.2 in the backstroke, Doug Schlak with a 1:11.0 in the 200 freestyle and Bob Arko with a 4:51.2 in the 400 freestyle.

Arlington Minor Hockey

by LEAGUE PUBLICATOR

The Arlington teams keep getting better week after week, as displayed in a Bantam division game.

Undefeated Dundee V.F.W. beat Prim Cleaners 4 to 1. This is the closest anyone has gotten to Dundee and certainly is a big improvement from their first game when Prim got beat 10 to 1. Wayne Johnson got the lone goal for Prim on assists from John Walsh and Jim Fredian. A strong game was turned in by Kevin Gorski, Pete Bowen, Brett Carlson, and goalkeeper Mike Mattox.

The second Bantam team McEnerney Insurance tied a fine team from Schaumburg 1 to 1. An unassisted 2nd period goal by Mike Retzer gave the Insurance Men the much deserved tie. It was a well played team effort with fine goaltending by Dave DeLeshe.

In an exciting PeeWee game, Franklin Glue defeated Arlington Country Club 2 to 1. It was a duel between goalies Matt Klemp of Franklin and Bob Fredian of Country Club. They handled all that was thrown at them until just six minutes showed on the clock. Brian Locker put Franklin in the lead with an assist by Geoff Smith. Country Club came right back and tied the score on a pass from Dick Herdrick. The winning goal was an excellent effort by Rick Palmer, scoring unassisted. Paul Kula of Franklin Glue and Mike Pickell of the Country Club played outstanding games.

In the Squirt Division it was Dundee V.F.W. 7 the Arlington "J's" 0. The game stayed scoreless for better than six minutes until Dundee got on the board and pulled away. It was a fine team effort by the "J's," who just couldn't keep up with the fine skating Dundee team.

In Midget action the Arlington Jaycees turned back Delta Tool 8 to 1. Steve Lear opened the scoring for Delta Tool and then the Jaycees got their offensive machine rolling. Terry McBride and Jeff Palmer scored unassisted goals. Vic Incinelli scored twice on passes from Dave Retzer. Craig Glander scored 2 goals with assists on both going to Incinelli. The fine defensive work was headed up by Jack Conway, Doug Everhart and Bill Filson in the nets.

In their second tied game of the year, the Arlington Jaycees battled the Arlington Heights Lattot's to a 2-all draw in a keenly-contested Squirt Division game.

Dan Schmidt opened the scoring for the Jaycees with an unassisted goal midway through the first period. In the opening minutes of the last period Allan Lattot evened the score on a play set up by Rusty Gould and Brad Schuman.

Schmidt put the Jaycees ahead once again scoring his 2nd unassisted goal of the game. At the 15 minute mark, Jeff Rozzwood passed to Allan Lattot, who evened the score at 2-2.

Ron Culpepper and Paul Barbaro shared the goal tending for the Lattot's with Paul Grasmann going all the way for the Jaycees. Shots on goal were 14 to 13 respectively. The outcome left both teams tied for fourth place in the standings.

Prospect Hits Season High With 72 Points

Prospect hit a season high of 72 points while visiting McHenry Tuesday in a non-conference swimming dual. The impressive victory was highlighted by 10 first place performances, including both ends of the relay competition.

Knight Tom Bennett coveted a pair of blue ribbons in the 200 and 400-yard freestyle events while also contributing toward a winning combination in the 400-yard freestyle relay event.

Other Prospect tankers entering the winners' circle were Rich Fox in the 200-yard individual medley, Jerry House in the 50-yard freestyle, Rich Cripe in the diving event, Jeff Larsen in the 100-yard butterfly, Dan Young in the 100-yard breaststroke and Karl Prinslow in the 100-yard freestyle.

The quartet of John Flynn, John Todd,

Larsen and House touched first in the opening 200-yard medley relay while Prinslow, Bennett, Fox and Jeff Young capped the successful evening with a gold medal performance in the 400-yard freestyle.

The Knights will hit a heavy practice schedule over the holidays before resuming conference action against Wheeling on Jan. 6.

The frosh-soph crew also came home victorious, having sunk their McHenry counterparts, 50-38. Diving specialist Lee Lobenhofer ran his streak to three dual meets by chalking up another first in the event.

Other outstanding performances came from George Medal and Greg Walshwell in the 100-yard freestyle.

IT'S SOMEWHERE. Chic Moran of Harper takes a tumble in the jam-up for the basketball in the Hawks' home game with McHenry Monday. Jim Hynes (background) looks over his shoulder for the ball as it sits below them. The Hawks had just as much trouble finding the range from the foul line in losing to the Scots, 69-62. Harper could only hit 50 per cent from the line. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Give us, O God, the vision which can see Thy love in the world in spite of human failure. Give us the faith to trust the goodness in spite of our ignorance and weakness. Give us the knowledge that we may

by DONALD LAMBRO

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cloistered within the winding recesses of Capitol Hill's sprawling congressional office buildings are two of the most exclusive athletic clubs in the nation—the House and Senate gymnasiums.

Secure from tourists, constituents and lobbyists, the gyms provide the lawmakers with a comfortable retreat where they can sweat, exercise and bathe away their political cares.

Here, a senator or representative can languish in blue-green swimming pools, relax under the skillful hands of a masseur, engage in a fast game of paddleball (a congressional version of handball), work out with an armada of gymnastic equipment, or just quietly perspire in a steam bath or sauna.

The two gyms are an effortless subway ride from the House and Senate floors via the underground mini-rail cars which whisk congressmen from their office buildings to the basement of the Capitol A daily visit to the gym apparently does wonders for a congressman.

"I FEEL AS if I could step over the dome," enthused 80-year-old Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., after a workout that would tire a man half his age.

"The Little," as Ellender is known, has faithfully used the gym Monday through Saturday for almost a quarter of a century.

"I'd go down on Sunday if it were open," he said. "I only wish other senators would use the gym Monday through Saturday for almost a quarter of a century."

Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md., estimates that about 70 per cent of the senators use the gym, mostly between the hours of 4 and 7 p.m.

"YOU CAN FEEL your efficiency going down when you've mused the gym," he said. Sen. Burch Bayh, D-Ind., admitted "I feel better and think more clearly" after a gym break. "It helps me relax and keeps me in shape," said Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga. "It's exhilarating," added Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Testimonials for the House gym are no less enthusiastic. "It's good for the country and good for society," declared Rep. George Brown, D-Calif.

"A great tension reliever," added Rep. Glenn Davis, R-Wis. "A fellow could go nuts here without it."

"It's better than a highball," said Rep. John Tunney, son of the former heavyweight boxing champion and Democratic senator-elect from California. "In a job like this you just don't get any exercise. The gym is invaluable."

Rep. George Goodling, R-Pa., who at 74 said he works 14 hours a day, claimed he "would go berserk if I didn't have the gym."

"A WATERHOLE of relief," agreed Rep. William Springer, R-Ill. "Everything doesn't seem so bad after a game of paddleball."

While not as modern as the newer House facility, which is located on two sub-basement levels of the gargantuan $100 million Rayburn Office building, the Senate gym does approach that chamber's richer tastes.

Actually, there are two Senate gyms: a large, regularly-used complex tucked inside the old Senate Office Building and a small exercise room in the new Senate Office Building. This contains a handball court, exercise and weight equipment, and light games of the ping-pong-shuffleboard variety. Here, for example, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., showers and changes after his daily five-mile morning jog from home to office.

It is the old gym, however, which has become The Hill's hidden health mecca for senators where exercise, relaxation and political compromise are sought among the steamrooms and massage tables.

DESIGNATED THE Senate bath —

"nude is the rule," as former Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky once said—it boasts hydrotherapy devices, heat and sunlamps, a small heated pool, a large swimming pool, punching bags, parallel bars, rope climbs and an assortment of weight reducing and muscle-building equipment.

It is in the steamrooms and sauna bath where a club-like atmosphere makes possible the kind of political compromise of which most legislation is made. Sometimes, though, meditations can leak through the steamy mists.

"I was quoted many a time by Drew Pearson on what I said in the steamroom," Ellender recalled.

"I've made my contacts in the steamroom," admitted Sen. Quentin N. Burdick, D-N.D. "This is where the tough committee chairmen are most susceptible," added another senator.

The rigidity of the seniority system apparently stops at the gym's swinging doors. "It's hard to be a senior anything with your clothes off," Bayh said.

JEALOUSLY GUARDED, the gym's privileges are restricted to senators only. "I brought my son into the pool one winter," Proxmire recalled, "and the furor over that was tremendous. I never did it again."

The House gym is far less clannish. House members are permitted to bring their sons on Saturdays to use the 20-foot by 60-foot pool, built at a cost of over half a million dollars.

Furthermore, congresswomen may use the pool each Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, although few besides Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., take advantage of the privilege.

Paddleball, the traditional congressional game, is played with a heavy, ping-pong-like paddle and an uncovered tennis ball hit against the gym wall, much like handball. The game is pursued with all of the aggressiveness of a heated floor debate.

REP. DAVIS once needed eight stitches across his chin and later lost a toenail after a blow from Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass.

"I sent it (the toenail) to him in the mail," Davis said.

Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., lost two teeth from a slicing forehead by an over-eager opponent, and in an even more spirited game suffered a broken leg. Despite such perils, members consider the game a "pressure valve." "You can be at each other's throats in the House and then team up as partners on the courts," said Rep. Sam Devine, R-Ohio.

Nonetheless, many members feel that "a lot of people look upon the gym as a luxury," said one Texas Democrat. "They don't realize that there is a need here to keep physically in shape."

But the sensitivity remains. Some congressmen instruct their aides to explain their absence at the gym by saying, "he's at a health committee meeting."

Picture-Taking Tips Given

by MURRAY J. BROWN

UPI Travel Editor

Whether you are heading for the ski or the swimsuit country on a winter vacation, chances are that you will pack along a camera.

For, judging from the number of camera-toting globe trotters one meets on their travels, one picture must be worth more than a thousand words when it comes to recalling vacation highlights.

So there probably could be nothing more disappointing than to come home with rolls of worthless film from that once-in-a-lifetime holiday because you failed to take a few precautions.

Here, then, are some tips on picture-taking from the experts at Eastman Kodak:

Whether the sun or snow is your vacation choice, protect your camera and film from the elements.

WHILE WINTER cold above zero may not affect your camera, a combination of moisture and cold can. A salient rule outdoors is to keep the lens clean and dry and use your camera case. Coming indoors, the sudden change in temperature causes condensation on the lens. Allow the moisture to evaporate and wipe off the lens with lens tissue before taking pictures.

In the tropics, heat and humidity are harmful to film and camera. Keep your camera as cool and dry as possible and replace finished rolls in metal containers.

When driving, don't carry camera or films in the trunk, glove compartment or on the rear deck. For safety and convenience, keep your camera on the seat besides you and the film on the floor away from the sun's rays.

If you plan a day at the beach, keep the camera in a plastic bag when not in use; a camera case alone won't keep out the tiny particles of sand which tend to find their way into every opening.

For taking pictures in the snow, a sunny day is best. While too much light can be subdued by both automatic and adjustable cameras, on an overcast day the snow in your pictures may come out a grayish drab.

WITH SCENIC shots of snow-covered landscapes, look for side or back lighting. With the sun at angles or behind the scene, shadows work to break the glare, give depth to the photo and bring out the texture of the snow.

When using such lighting, take care that the sun's rays do not fall directly on the lens. The shadow of your hand or a tree will do with simple automatic models such as the Instamatics. With more sophisticated cameras, use a lens shade. Shadows on snow under a blue sky are blue and will so appear in photographs. A skylight filter will help reduce this bluishness.

A skylight filter is also helpful at the beach where the sea is a mirror of light and each grain of sand a reflector. The filter's warm effect will help eliminate a distracting bluishness from color photos, and make the scene more natural since it absorbs excess ultraviolet light.

Sunlight can seem brighter and shadows darker in tropical climates. It is thus best to avoid taking pictures when the sun is directly overhead. Earlier or later in the day, there will be less contrast between light and dark.

BEFORE LEAVING on your vacation, check your camera. The easiest way is to shoot a test roll of film. If the pictures are satisfactory you can be reasonably sure the camera is working properly. If not, take it to a camera dealer and have him check it over.

If it is a new camera, familiarize yourself with its operation before taking off. The oft-told lament of the camera that didn't work or the pictures that didn't come out can easily be avoided with such precautions.

The experts also recommend you include a few rolls of high speed Ektachrome film (daylight), speed 160, if you are shooting in color. The sun won't always shine and some of your pictures are going to be taken in the late afternoon on overcast, or even rainy days, or not at all. Dark days require high-speed film.

And one last bit of advice: Take as many pictures as you want despite the weather. You may never get another opportunity to shoot that wonderful scene—and you might be lucky to catch it on film anyway.

If you have any special questions about taking pictures on your holidays, Kodak maintains a staff of specialists to answer them. Write Photo Information Department, Eastman Kodak Co., Rochester, N.Y. 14650.

Future Center Site Title Transferred

Ownership of a 40-acre parcel of land destined to house Schaumburg's cultural and civic center was formally transferred to the village this week.

During Tuesday night's meeting of the board of trustees, Village Atty. James Sobel presented Mayor Robert O. Atcher with the deed to properties in the vicinity of Schaumburg and Roselle roads. The land is being donated for construction of the complex by William Lambert, who owns extensive property throughout the village.

Estimating the value of the total complex, when completed, at between $10 and $12 million, Atcher stressed that the cultural center's development will be governed by a commission created exclusively for that purpose.

The commission is scheduled to meet in Chicago in the near future to elect a chairman and begin its work, he said.

Cultural commission members include Herman Silverstein, president of the Harding Museum and chairman of the board of Mid-America Bank and philanthropist Jack Pritzker.

ALSO ON THE commission is Martyl Langsdorf, a well-known mid-west artist who resides in Schaumburg. She is the wife of Alexander Langsdorf, Jr., a High School District 211 board member.

Two members of the original cultural committee organized in the village several years ago, Mrs. Gordon Mullins and Mrs. James Guthrie, both wives of present village trustees, have also been named to the commission.

Atcher said the commission was created to include the mayor and noted also that there is one remaining vacancy in the group.

"We are not proposing to fill this immediately but will wait a time and hope to find a leader in music or some other art form for the post," he said.

The cultural center, while it will be planned by the commission, is expected to include two theatres, one for legitimate productions and the second with facilities to accommodate a symphony, opera or ballet. A workshop area is also planned.

Exhibition space and classrooms for visual arts will be included too. Atcher hopes that formal announcement of inclusion of the Harding Museum will come in the next few weeks.

"WE HAVE BEEN told by Mr. Silverstein and others involved in the Harding Museum that they will bring it to Schaumburg if we can build a home for the collection," Atcher said.

The civic center portion of the complex will house the local governmental structure and will be built in phases correlated to continued development of the village, Atcher explained.

Trustees this week authorized him to hold preliminary discussions with architects in order to begin the project.

Financing for the complex will come from contributions being given the village by apartment developers. The contributions are placed in escrow as apartment units are occupied.

Presently, no timetable for either phase of the complex is available but planning is expected to escalate during the next several months, Atcher said.

Addams' Image-Builders?

by NANCY COWGER

Students at a new school always have a special opportunity to set the attitudes by which the public will view their building in the future. Their behavior can determine public goodwill or disfavor for years to come, and can draw the goals for pupils to come.

Art students at Jane Addams Junior High School, 700 Springguth Rd., Schaumburg, are working now to be sure that public view will be a kindly one. The school has embarked on its second year of operation, and is about to enter its first year of artistic competition.

Students taught by Miss Suzanne Noller, Miss Gloria Sebrank and Bill Elisek are preparing projects for Scholastic Art Awards competition, sponsored by Scholastic Magazines, Inc. The work is to be submitted Jan. 18 for judging by art professionals. Selected pieces will be exhibited in the Wieboldt's store in Randhurst Shopping Center the first two weeks of February.

WHILE OTHER schools in Dist. 54 have competed in the judging other years, and will again this year, 1971 will mark the first entry by Jane Addams, and the students are hoping to "do their school proud."

The teachers have selected entries from about 70 students, each an original classroom project. While there are numerous divisions for entries, the Jane Addams pupils will compete with opaque water and transparent water colors, pencil sketches, pastels, chalks, inks, sticheries, sculptures, pottery, jewelry and graphic designs.

The Jane Addams work will be judged in a class for seventh through ninth graders. Pieces selected for the exhibition will receive placement awards. Outstanding work will be recognized with blue ribbons and metal plaques mounted on wood. The outstanding selections then will be judged against work from around the nation in a New York City showing. The five best pieces there will receive a Hallmark Award of $100.

AMONG THE Jane Addams contestants are Bruce Christensen of 7474 Cumberland Dr., an eighth grader, and Eric Sell of 1327 West Concord Ln., a seventh grader.

Both students say they are slightly nervous about the contest, and expect their anticipation will heighten as the time approaches. But what is their overall reaction now?

Excitement, says Eric, and pride that their teachers judged their work as having sufficient quality for entry. Both plan to view the Randhurst exhibit whether their work is selected or not.

SELECTING PAINTINGS for submission in Scholastic Art Awards competition are Eric Sell, seventh grader; Miss Suzanne Noller, art teacher, and Bruce Christensen, eighth grader, who will represent Jane Addams School.

Two Die In Two Accidents

Two persons were killed Tuesday night in separate auto accidents in the area.

Mrs. Idelle L. Michaelson, 35, of 717 Highland Ave., Elgin, has been identified as the victim of a fatal accident at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hoffman Estates at Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Robert K. Boyd, 32, of 980 Parkview Ln., Des Plaines, died in Sherman Hospital, Elgin, shortly after an accident on Lake Street near Elgin.

Mrs. Michaelson was a passenger in an auto driven by Nancy K. Radeloff, 42, of 141 Washington, Carpentersville. Mrs. Radeloff is in fair condition in Sherman Hospital with fractured ribs she sustained in the accident. She has been charged with failure to yield the right-of-way after stopping at a stop sign, and is to appear Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court.

THE RADELOFF auto was struck on the right side by a car driven by Richard M. Mattes, 18, of 214 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates, Hoffman Estates Police reported. Mattes was treated for nose cuts and released the same night from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Police said Mattes was driving northbound on Barrington Road when Mrs. Radeloff's auto crossed in front of him, headed eastbound from Shoe Factory Road to the entrance of eastbound Northwest Tollway traffic. After impact, the Radeloff auto went over the entrance ramp guardrail and stopped in a grassy area northeast of the corner of the ramp and Barrington Road.

An inquest by the Cook County Coroner's office was to have been scheduled to determine the cause of Mrs. Michaelson's death.

Dist. 3 State Police investigating Mr. Boyd's accident near Elgin said he was driving eastbound on Lake Street at about 7:20 p.m., and apparently lost control of his car. It crossed the center line and moved into the westbound traffic lane, police said.

Boyd's auto struck a westbound auto carrier truck driven by Kenneth J. Worick, 1444 S. Oakhill, Janesville, Wis.

Bartlett police assisted in the investigation.

New Fire Station Complete In Summer

Completion of Schaumburg's third fire station, a $250,000 facility to be located on the west side of Meacham Road between Golf and Higgins roads, is expected late next summer.

At this week's village board meeting, Schaumburg officials publicly thanked Harold Anderson, of Anderson-Brandel Corp., for the donation of what they described as "extremely valuable" property.

On this site construction of the building, which will serve as headquarters for the village fire department, is slated to begin in early spring with the project going out to bid as soon as possible. Mayor Robert O. Atcher said.

Nearly $200,000 of equipment, ordered more than one year ago, will be ready for delivery on completion of the fire station, the mayor said.

The facility will be open and operating in conjunction with completion of Woodfield Mall and the department expects to begin work soon on another station to be located near Golf and Roselle roads.

Chemical To Be Dropped

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical, an Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent, Loft, will be discontinued next week, according to Sanford Arenberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers.

ARENBERG SAID that his firm had planned to discontinue the use of NTA before the announcement was made.

A natural soap and polyelectrolytes will be used as a substitute for the chemical, and production of Loft will continue on schedule, he said.

Loft has been on the market for two months as a phosphate-free detergent. Distribution of the product is through local dairies, including Modern Dairy Co., and Arlington Milk, Inc., as well as hardware stores and franchise operations.

Arenberg said that Loft has had more than 2,500 customers in the last two months from the two Arlington Heights dairies.

Holiday Brings Brothers Together

by JIM HOUL

After 47 years, two brothers were reunited in Palatine Monday. Gottfrid Wikman, 525 N. Mozart St., met his brother Edwin, who came from Sweden to visit his relatives for Christmas.

Wikman had not seen his brother since he immigrated to America in 1923. His brother, who remained in Sweden, was eight years old at the time.

"This is the best Christmas present I could have," Wikman said yesterday. "I have had no better gift in my entire life."

Wikman's brother is visiting America for two weeks to visit his relatives, most of whom he has never met. Wikman and his wife have five children, 22 grandchildren and are expecting great-grandchildren in a few years.

On Christmas Eve, Edwin and his wife Greta will have dinner at Wikman's daughter Ruth's home in Lake Mills, Wis.

EDWIN COMES FROM Alingsas, a town near Sweden's port city of Gottenburg. He is a civilian designer for a company related to the Volvo automobile company. He designs hoists, cranes, hydraulic lifts and half-track trucks.

Edwin was happy to meet his brother again too. He said he felt welcomed when he was greeted by Wikman and his wife at O'Hare Airport Monday.

Due to the Christmas holiday, Paddock Publications offices will be closed tomorrow, and will be open for business at 9 a.m. Monday. There will be no Friday paper.

The management and employees of Paddock Publications wish to all its readers and advertisers a safe and Merry Christmas.

Party Held For Children

Children of Herrick House, a home for dependent children in Bartlett, and members of the local Knights of Columbus chapter held a Christmas party in the home Saturday.

The members of Christopher Council 6227 came from Hanover Park, Streamwood, Schaumburg and Bartlett.

The council selected Herrick House as one of its philanthropies this year. The Christmas party was planned by children and members who played games, sang carols, and talked with Santa Claus.

Santa distributed gifts for the children and refreshments were served after caroling.

The Knights of Columbus brought Frank Pellico, Wrigley Field organist, to the Christmas Party with them and Pellico gave the children records of the Cub's ball team theme song.

A clown made balloon animals for the younger children and Knights and youngsters sat together for a dinner of hot dogs, hamburgers, and other foods.

Children of Herrick House showed off the Christmas Tree they decorated with handmade ornaments.

YWCA Schedules Conformation Class

When you say "heel" to your dog does he rush to the proper walking position or look for a shoe to chew on?

If the basic commands of stay, sit and heel are a foreign language to your dog, perhaps he could benefit from the dog obedience classes being offered by the Elgin YWCA adult department, beginning Jan. 6. Classes will meet weekly for six weeks from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Owners who plan to enter their dogs in American Kennel Club Show may enroll in the dog conformation classes meeting from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 6 for six weeks. The conformation classes which are open only to AKC registered or eligible animals, will include ring protocol, selection of leash and proper methods of posing a dog.

Both classes are conducted by Elgin kennel owner, Jack Schaffter. Registrations are now being accepted at the YWCA.

Burglary Reported

A break-in at a storage locker for an apartment in Schaumburg and the theft of about $700 in goods is being investigated by Schaumburg Village Police.

Deborah Thompson, a tenant at 1212 East Algonquin Rd., reported the burglary Tuesday evening. She told police she was missing a golf cart and clubs, valued at $300; a cookware set, valued at $200, and miscellaneous summer clothing, valued at about $100. Police said the burglar and lock of the locker apparently were pried off to gain entry.

Jaycees To 'Do Something'

Volunteers for the second annual clean-up campaign in Hoffman Estates and the posting of signs welcoming visitors to the village were two projects the Hoffman Estates Jaycees can promote as part of their "Do Something" campaign.

Trustee Bruce Lind reported to the village board this week that he made the two suggestions to the Jaycees at a meeting of community leaders held recently.

Lind also encouraged residents to call the village's street department when "chuck holes" develop in front of their homes.

Street department employees can give quicker service when chuck holes are reported than they can when left to find them in surveys of the village's arterial streets, Lind said.

Next spring, the village will need volunteers willing to remove debris from curbs in front of their homes and along major rights-of-way in the village.

A SREW OF teenagers were hired during the Easter break last spring to work on the clean-up project.

Lind also wants attractive signs posted in the village to let people know they are in Hoffman Estates. It's a project one of the community organizations attending the Jaycees' sponsored meeting might take on, he said.

The Jaycees held the meeting Dec. 16 at the Keller School to inform local service organization leaders of the Jaycee campaign to mobilize 10 per cent of the population for volunteer work.

Hoffman Estates' Jaycees are embarking on the project as part of a campaign including Jaycee chapters around the country.

The nationwide "Do Something" program will begin its promotions on Feb. 1, 1971. The local chapter is doing advance work by finding out what type of volunteers local organizations need prior to the promotion's starting date. Application forms for new volunteers will state a variety of services from which they can choose to give their time.

Teen Hurt In Crash

A St. Charles youth was held overnight at St. Joseph's Hospital, Elgin, with injuries he sustained Tuesday afternoon in a Hoffman Estates accident.

His twin brother, driver of the car in which the two youths rode, was charged with two traffic violations.

Treated at the hospital for facial cuts was Farrell J. Paigen, 17, of Fox River St., St. Charles. His brother Darrell was charged with negligent driving and improper lane usage, and is to answer the charges Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court.

Driver of a second car in the accident was Raymond F. Doppke, 35, of 140 Meyer Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Police said Doppke was northbound on Barrington Rd. When the southbound Paigen auto veered in front of him, and the two cars collided. The accident was just 300 feet from an intersection with the Northwest Tollway, where an Elgin woman died in another accident Tuesday evening.

Cal's Offers Free Coffee For Drivers

Free coffee will be available tonight at Cal's Roast Beef in Schaumburg, said Jim Sarris, manager.

Cal's is located at Golf and Higgins Roads.

All Cal's restaurants will be offering free coffee to drivers Christmas Eve between 4 p.m. and closing time, he added.

Officials of the Cal's chain of restaurants are making an effort to become more than just a business in the communities in which they operate by offering free coffee during the Christmas Eve peak traffic period.

They suggest that road weary motorists stop for free coffee, a change of environment and that motorists stretch their legs to offset fatigue, drowsiness and highway hypnosis.

The "drink for the road" should be a cup of free coffee rather than a more spirited beverage, they add.

Court Case Reset

Four charges against Donald J. Soderberg, 28, of 201 Patricia Dr., Schaumburg, were adjourned for court action until Feb. 9 when he appeared in circuit court in Niles Tuesday.

Soderberg was charged by Schaumburg police with aggravated battery, criminal damage to property, resisting arrest and public intoxication after an incident Nov. 29 in the Schaumburg Inn, 17 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

Forest Preserve Zoning Changed

The Planned Adult Community (PAC) zoning classification was removed from 3,000 acres of forest preserve land located in Hoffman Estates, in village board action this week.

The property is located west of Barrington Road between Bode Road and the Northwest Tollway.

The change was made to eliminate the zoning classification from the land and replace it with zoning for half-acre single family home sites. Officials had two purposes in mind when adopting the change.

The village hopes to eventually eliminate the PAC classification from its zoning ordinance; the map change is the first step in that direction.

The PAC classification was removed to assure single family development of the forest preserve land in case the land is not developed for public use. Officials emphasized the possibility of non-forest preserve development is "extremely remote."

THE BOARD ACTION, Monday was taken on the recommendation of the village's Plan Commission following a public hearing held recently by the advisory board.

Chairman Richard Regan told trustees the forest preserve land is the only property in Hoffman Estates zoned PAC.

The PAC concept was advanced by the land's prior owners to plan a community for mature adults, excluding children, he added.

Special zoning district text and map amendments followed to accomplish the developer's purpose, Regan said.

This property is not, nor is it in the future, planned for the originally intended purpose. The intent is for forest preserve and recreational use," he added.

The Plan Commission has determined upon legal advice, that a zoning district which seeks to segregate persons by age group, eliminating children as potential residents, is of questionable legal validity since it is discriminatory, he added.

Schools Enter Play Contest

"Summertime" by Ron Cowen is the one-act play which Ray Goettsch, drama coach at Elgin High School, will direct and enter in the Uptate Eight Play Contest Feb. 6 in the Hemmens Auditorium from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Goettsch, who is chairman of the contest, has sent letters to judges inviting them to select the first, second and third place winners of the plays entered by the Uptate Eight schools.

At stake is the traveling trophy which East Aurora has won twice. If the East Aurora actors take first again this year, the trophy is permanently theirs. The East Aurora entry, "The Irresistible Rise of Arturo Ur" by Brecht is the first entry notice Goettsch received.

The visiting contestants will lunch in the Elgin High School cafeteria, and at the end of the day they will convene in general session for the judges' decision.

TOM ISBELL is chairman of the Individual Events contest which will be held on the same day at Elgin High School. The Individual Events contestants will also hear the results at the final session. All contests are open to the public free.

The setting of "Summertime" requires a large tree in the middle of the stage, around which the life of the chief actor, a dying soldier, revolves in a series of memory flashbacks. The characters, which include four men and two women, were selected at tryouts Dec. 4 with 45 students reporting.

Goettsch cut the three-act play from its original length to 40 minutes, which is the contest time requirement.

Student In Play

Eileen Sullivan, 509 E. Schaumburg Rd., Streamwood, appeared with members of Larkin High School, Elgin, Little Theatre in a production of "How the Grinch Stole Christmas," a Dr. Seuss story. The play was performed for children in Dist. U-46 elementary schools.

In the story, the Grinch steals all holiday gifts and food from townspeople, because he does not like Christmas. When the people still enjoy their holiday without the gifts, the Grinch realizes there is more to Christmas than glitter.

The high school students hope to interest younger people in theater activities for future participation, said Sandra Buchheit, play director.

Students Participate In Programs

Elgin High School students from the area are participating in a number of school winter programs.

Mitch McDonald, a senior and the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McDonald, 631 Schuck Rd., Bartlett, was co-chairman of "The Five Days of Christmas" project. Special activities were planned for the last five class days before vacation, culminating in an informal Christmas dance.

Bill McDonald, Mitch's brother and a sophomore, is working on a set construction crew for a student production of the play, "Losers," by Brian Friel. The crew designed the interior of an Irish cottage for the play.

Dan Maloney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Maloney, 428 Rambler Ln., Streamwood, took a written test for his third class radio operator's license Dec. 10 in Chicago. Dan is a sophomore.

PLANS FOR the Future Teachers Club Christmas Party Dec. 15 were made by Carmen Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Taylor, Rt. 1, Bartlett. Carmen is club president.

Bob Fendler and Dennis Lamb competed in the national forensics program Dec. 19 in Dundee, speaking as members of the individual events team from the school. Bob, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fendler, 4 Edgewood Dr., Streamwood, competed in original oratory. Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lamb, 20 Big Oaks, Streamwood, entered radio speaking. They also will enter the district contest for state events.

Cheryl Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Schultz, 229 Chase, Bartlett, was chosen for membership in All-State Orchestra. She will take part in the All-State Festival concert closing a con-

Meeting Night Set

Schaumburg's police and fire commission will schedule regular monthly meetings beginning in February. Trustee Raymond Kessell, chairman of the commission, announced this week.

Kessell said that in February the commission will hold an open meeting the first Saturday of each month at 9:30 a.m. at Great Hall.

The meeting will be held in the conference room which adjoins the large chamber where village board meetings are held, if that space is available, Kessell said.

He said that proper notification will be sent to area newspapers in line with the Illinois Open Meetings Law.

In accordance with the statute, meetings are open to all interested residents of the community.

In related business, the village board, Tuesday, approved a $5,000 quarterly payment to the police pension fund.

ALTHOUGH THE fund payment was approved in total at the beginning of the present fiscal year, trustees formally approved this portion of the expenditure.

In other business trustees approved issuance of a Class A liquor license to Frank Radosta, owner of Paddock Restaurant located in Town Square Shopping Center.

Their action will enable Mayor Robert O. Atcher, who serves as liquor commissioner, to allow Radosta to establish a complete service bar in the restaurant.

Radosta now has a license permitting the sale of beer only, but plans to separate the bar from the food service area of the restaurant when hard liquor is served.

HAULING CHRISTMAS trees in the area has ended with the holiday coming tomorrow. Trees remaining at local sales spots will now have to be disposed of.

Citizens Groups To Study Dist. 21 Needs

Approximately 75 people have agreed to serve on citizens' committees to study various aspects of School Dist. 21 and to develop long range goals for the district.

The Rev. Noel Clark Holt, pastor of Kingswood United Methodist Church in Buffalo Grove, will serve as general chairman of the group, which is scheduled to gather data and make recommendations to the Dist. 21 school board in the spring. The group held its first organizational meeting last week.

Chairman of the various citizens subcommittees have also been selected.

Shirley Mueller of Wheeling will serve as chairman of the "Justice Under the Law" committee. Heading the "Vocational Education" committee will be James Graunke of Wheeling.

THE "DRUG USE AND Drug Abuse" committee will be headed by Gene Elmore of Buffalo Grove.

Leonard Presley, Dist. 21 art coordinator, will head the "Environmental Studies" committee and the "Extended School Year" committee will be headed by Kenneth Peterson of Arlington Heights.

Richard Heinrich of Buffalo Grove will be the chairman of the "Projection of School Facility Needs" committee.

A chairman has not yet been chosen for the committee which will study "Community-School Programming."

Included on the various committees are school district administrators, PTA members, school board members, members of community organizations, clergy and businessmen from the Dist. 21 attendance area.

FORMATION OF COMMITTEES to develop long-range goals for the school district was suggested earlier this fall by Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill.

Each subcommittee is scheduled to make a report on its progress periodically during the next four months, with a final report due from each subcommittee on May 6.

5-Year Employees To Get Bonuses

Wheeling village employees with more than five years service will begin receiving annual bonuses next month.

A longevity pay ordinance providing the bonuses was approved this week by the village board.

The new ordinance provides that on or before Jan. 15 of each year employees who have worked five years or longer for the village will receive a longevity bonus.

The bonuses will be two and a half percent of an employee's base salary for each five years he has worked. There is a maximum of a 10 percent bonus after 20 years with the village.

The agreement to have longevity pay for village employees grew out of a settlement of the Wheeling police strike last summer.

George Passolt, acting village manager, said the longevity pay was being distributed as a lump sum bonus rather than tacked on to each biweekly paycheck at the request of various village departments.

Chief Offers Holiday Advice

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher has issued a holiday message of good cheer and timely advice to local residents.

"Happiness is a holiday season spoiled by excessive use of alcoholic beverages, thefts and burglaries, and fires and accidents in the home," Horcher reminds local residents.

The chief explains that an unhappy holiday can be avoided. "Excessive use of alcoholic beverages results in accidents damaged property, people injured and sometimes killed."

Moreover, it can also result in "disturbances and family fights, particularly when the mother or father or other member of the family must be removed from the premises by police in view of their children," Horcher says.

RESIDENTS CAN avoid holiday-spoiling thefts and burglaries by not leaving gifts "in full view in motor vehicles," the chief notes.

Also, residents who are going to be away for the holidays should avoid making it obvious from the outside appearance of their homes that no one is at home, Horcher says.

The chief also suggests residents be especially careful to avoid fires and accidents.

"On behalf of all the members of the Police Department, I wish each and everyone a season of happiness," he said.

Board Hears CATV Plan

A second cable television firm presented a proposal for a franchise to Wheeling's village board this week.

Vue-Sonics Inc., a subsidiary of LVO Cable TV, is one of three firms which have applied for a franchise to run a cable television system in the village.

A presentation was given last fall by Tek Rep. Inc. A third firm's presentation is scheduled for Jan. 25.

Trustee Ira Bird said Monday that after the January presentation, the board would decide whether to grant a cable television franchise and how the recipient of the franchise, if any, would be chosen.

At Monday's meeting, representatives of Vue-Sonics Inc. told the village board they hoped to provide Wheeling customers with not only Chicago stations, but also with Rockford, Madison, Milwaukee and Aurora stations.

The representatives explained, however, that the firm would need special permission from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to bring stations other than those from Chicago into Wheeling because of the closeness of the village to Chicago.

THE VUE-SONICS representative told village officials that unlike other applicants for the franchise, their firm would have the research and programming facilities of LVO, the largest cable television firm in the country.

He pointed out that LVO had received awards for excellence in local programming.

The firm also has subsidiary cable television companies in other Illinois cities including LaSalle, Peru, Oglesby, Spring Valley, Granville, Mendota and Effingham.

The representatives said Vue-Sonics Inc. would install a studio in the village and would have a mobile unit capable of transmitting live events.

They talked about locally-oriented programs including such things as local sports casts, village board meetings, or debates.

Two channels would be available for use by local schools and a children's channel would feature shows aimed at preschool children.

A LOCAL NEWS channel and a sports channel are also proposed.

One channel would feature automated news by broadcasting wire service read-outs and stock market quotations.

Another would be a weather channel. An emergency alert system would allow all cable subscribers to be contacted regardless of what channel they were watching in an emergency.

Various antennas mounted on a tall tower would bring the signals into Wheeling. Cable subscribers would receive their service through a coaxial cable bringing signals into their homes.

The firm proposed to pay the village five per cent of its gross subscription receipts for the franchise.

Approximate costs of the service would be a $15 initial charge and a $5 per month subscription charge.

Name Director For Addolorata Villa

A Buffalo Grove man has been appointed assistant administrator for the Addolorata Villa Home for the Aged in Wheeling.

Sister Mary Lucey, director of the retirement home, announced the appointment of G. Arthur Applequist of 648 Elmwood Dr., Buffalo Grove last week.

Addolorata Villa is operated by the Servite Sisters, a religious order dedicated to work among the poor, sick, and aged.

Peace Decorations Take Jaycee Prize

An eight-foot high peace symbol is part of the decoration that took first place in the Wheeling Jaycees' annual home decoration contest.

The first-place winner is Donald De Napoli of 119 N. Chestnut. He received a plaque and a $100 savings bond for his decorations which include the huge peace symbol as part of a "Peace on Earth" theme.

The second place award went to Ethel Miller, 1242 Sarasota, who received a $50 savings bond for a display which includes a miniature church complete with miniature figures and piped in music.

Two honorable mention prizes of $25 each were awarded to Dorian Magers of 260 E. Wayne and Eugene Stanis of 146 W. Norman Ln.

Magers decorations includes a Santa on the house roof and a 10-foot candy cane. Stanis has a decorated garage.

Marathon Basketball Game Is 'All Set'

"Everything's set" for the marathon basketball game to start Saturday at Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling, according to Jeff Kohler.

Kohler, an eighth grader at Holmes and an organizer of the game, said 36 boys will play in the marathon, scheduled to start at 9 a.m. in the school gymnasium.

He added that community residents have pledged a total of $700 in support of the marathon.

"Most have pledged a set amount like $5 or $10, which we'll pick up after the game is over," Kohler explained.

The money will be given to charity. The boys participating in the marathon hope to break a record of 150 hours of playing basketball continuously by playing until the afternoon of Jan. 1. The game will be closed to spectators.

Each boy will rotate in shifts, playing basketball for four hours and then resting for eight hours.

The game will be supervised by parents and Dist. 21 personnel. It is being sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

Due to the Christmas holiday, Paddock Publications offices will be closed tomorrow, and will be open for business at 9 a.m. Monday. There will be no Friday paper.

The management and employees of Paddock Publications wish to all its readers and advertisers a safe and Merry Christmas.

HOLMES JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL students performed a special play "About Christmas Carols" this week for their parents. Debbie Stricker as a grandmother told the story of Christmas to Cheryl Radish, who played a little girl.

Village Will Share Costs Of 3 Sewers

The Wheeling Village Board has agreed to share the cost of a sewer and water system with the developers of the Cedar Run townhouse project on McHenry Road.

The developers, Tekton Corp., will spend about $80,000. The cost to the village will be about the same, according to Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

The agreement, approved by the village board Monday, covers the installation of a sewer and water system along McHenry Road to its $13 million development which lies about one-half mile west of Elmhurst Road.

The village will be obligated to pay the remainder of the cost that results from installing sewers large enough to service all other properties in the area as well as Cedar Run.

Hamer said the village board plans to enact a recapture ordinance which will enable the village to charge future developers of property in the area for part of the village's construction cost of the sewers. The village will thus be paid back for its contribution to the extension of the sewer and water system, Hamer said.

THE AGREEMENT does not specify how much the village will spend on the project, but says only that the village will pay the balance of the cost after the $80,000 Tekton payment is expended.

Wheeling has long avoided normal recapture agreements which allow one developer to install sewers and then assess another developer on adjacent property for part of the sewer cost.

The village-Tekton agreement continues this policy. It differs from the standard recapture agreement in that the village, not the developer, will recover the costs from other area property owners.

Two Die In Two Accidents

Two persons were killed Tuesday night in separate auto accidents in the area.

Mrs. Idelle L. Michaelson, 35, of 717 Highland Ave., Elgin, has been identified as the victim of a fatal accident at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hoffman Estates at Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Robert K. Boyd, 32, of 980 Parkview Ln., Des Plaines, died in Sherman Hospital, Elgin, shortly after an accident on Lake Street near Elgin.

Mrs. Michaelson was a passenger in an auto driven by Nancy K. Radeloff, 42, of 111 Washington, Carpentersville. Mrs. Radeloff is in fair condition in Sherman Hospital with fractured ribs she sustained in the accident. She has been charged with failure to yield the right-of-way after stopping at a stop sign, and is to appear Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court.

THE RADELOFF auto was struck on the right side by a car driven by Richard M. Mattes, 18, of 214 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates. Hoffman Estates Police reported Mattes was treated for nose cuts and released the same night from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Police said Mattes was driving northbound on Barrington Road when Mrs. Radeloff's auto crossed in front of him, headed eastbound from Shoe Factory Road to the entrance of eastbound Northwest Tollway traffic. After impact, the Radeloff auto went over the entrance ramp guardrail and stopped in a grassy area northeast of the corner of the ramp and Barrington Road.

An inquest by the Cook County Coroner's office was to have been scheduled to determine the cause of Mrs. Michaelson's death.

Dist. 3 State Police investigating Mr. Boyd's accident near Elgin said he was driving eastbound on Lake Street at about 7:20 p.m., and apparently lost control of his car. It crossed the center line and moved into the westbound traffic lane, police said.

Boyd's auto struck a westbound auto carrier truck driven by Kenneth J. Wonick, 1444 S. Oakhill, Janesville, Wis.

Board Delays Ordinance Plan

The Wheeling Village Board delayed a request from the village plan commission Monday that public hearings be held to clarify the village planned development ordinance.

The board directed Trustee Michael Valenza, who is also acting director of planning, to get specifics of what portions of the planned development ordinance the plan commission wishes to consider changing before granting the public hearings.

Any final changes in the ordinance must be made by the village board.

Chemical To Be Dropped

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical, on Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent, Loft, will be discontinued next week, according to Sanford Arenberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers. ARENBERG SAID that his firm had planned to discontinue the use of NTA before the announcement was made.

A natural soap and polyelectrolytes will be used as a substitute for the chemical, and production of Loft will continue on schedule, he said.

Loft has been on the market for two months as a phosphate-free detergent. Distribution of the product is through local dairies, including Modern Dairy Co., and Arlington Milk, Inc., as well as hardware stores and franchise operations.

Arenberg said that Loft has had more than 2,500 customers in the last two months from the two Arlington Heights dairies.

Rezoning In Works For Sandpebble

A recommendation for rezoning of property adjacent to the Sandpebble Walk development near Palatine Road and Wheeling Road was referred to Village Atty. Paul Hamer Monday by Wheeling's village board.

Hamer was to draw up an ordinance to rezone the property from single family zoning to planned development zoning. The property is for a proposed second addition to the Sandpebble Walk development.

Mobile Home Park Gets Initial Okay

The Wheeling Village Board Monday approved the preliminary plat of the village's first mobile home park, Whipple Tree Village, on McHenry Road.

Trustee Ira Bird, who has opposed the village allowing any trailer parks, cast the only "no" vote on the approval.

The park now needs final plat approval from the plan commission and the village board before construction of the park can begin.

Taking Yule Trip? Let Police Know

Buffalo Grove Police Chief Harold Smith has advised residents to notify the police department if they are planning to be away from home for an extended period of time during the holiday season.

"If the homeowner is going away, we should know about it so we can include the house on our vacation watch," Smith said.

Residents can call the police department at 537-4290 and give the exact dates when they plan to leave and return to town.

"This helps us when we are patrolling and we see activity in a house or a door open, we can check our watch list and see if anyone is supposed to be at that address," Smith said.

The chief also urged residents to make arrangements with neighbors to have the mail and newspapers picked up while they are gone.

"It also would be a good idea to have the sidewalks shoveled too," he said.

SMITH ALSO cautioned residents about excessive drinking during the holiday season. "Excessive use of alcoholic beverages can result in accidents, damaged property, personal injury and death," he said.

"An unfortunate situation can also result when disturbances or family fights occur and a member of the family has to be removed from the premises by police in front of the children," the chief added.

"But most of all the most dangerous situation during the holidays is the drunken driver. What he does with his life is his own business, but when he takes the lives of everyone else on the road and the passengers in his car into his hands, that's another matter."

"NEARLY READY FOR a busy night . . ." Santa Claus (See more photos and story on Page 9, Section 2.) and his helpers will visit many homes this Christmas Eve.

Progress On Block System Is Presented

A progress report on the implementation of a "block" type scheduling system at Adlai Stevenson High School next fall was given to the Dist. 125 school board Monday by Supt. Harold Banser.

Banser outlined the new flexible schedule, developed in the past two years by a joint school board-faculty committee.

In the plan, approximately 200 to 300 minutes will be devoted to a single course during one week. The course instructor, or team of instructors, will decide at each class session how to use this time — whether it will be in the form of small group instruction, large group instruction, individual instruction or whether the students will use the time to work on assignments by themselves.

The blocks of time devoted to a single course will vary from day to day, depending on the individual instructor.

Banser told the board the new system will give each instructor "complete flexibility within his block of time. He may wish to lecture, demonstrate or show a movie to a large group and then break that group into small groups for analysis and discussion, all during the same block of time."

The amount of time each student spends in each course will depend on his needs and interests, Banser said.

He explained some students, mainly upperclassmen, will have unstructured time during the day, when they can study or work on individual projects. Freshmen will not have any unscheduled time, he said.

The superintendent said the advantages of the program to the student will be that he can work at his own pace, be exposed to a variety of teaching methods and spend more time in resource centers, laboratories and small group seminars.

Banser said the new high school addition too will be completed next fall and will contain space that can be divided into various sizes to accommodate large or small groups. The addition will thus be more flexible than traditional classroom arrangement, he said.

Another feature of the new system will be that the cafeteria will become a "commons" area, where students may go at specified times to socialize.

Ten half-days will be devoted this year to preparing the faculty to teach under the "block" scheduling system next fall, Banser said.

'Minority' Plan Okayed

The Buffalo Grove Village Board has rejected a recommendation of seven members of the village plan commission and accepted the advice of a minority of one.

At issue was a plan commission recommendation that multiple family dwellings be required to have two parking places for each family dwelling unit. Currently such dwellings must have 1.5 parking spaces for each unit.

The recommendation of the plan commission came before the village board Monday night. Accompanying the recommendation was a minority report prepared by John Guidotti, the only commission member to oppose the recommendation.

DONALD THOMPSON, village president, said that he was impressed by Guidotti's detailed one-page report. Trustees Robert Gleeson and Henry Cimaglio also expressed approval. They joined Thompson in voting against the plan commission recommendation. Two trustees favored it.

In his report, Guidotti argued that while there may be a need for more parking spaces, the increase should be smaller than that recommended by the commission.

Guidotti pointed out that an increase in the amount of paved parking areas in the village would be accompanied by a decrease in the amount of "green area" for aesthetic reasons and for absorption of storm water.

Guidotti also said that the requirement of two parking spaces per unit is considerably higher than the requirements of surrounding villages.

Wallace E. Berth, plan commission chairman, was present at the meeting to defend his recommendation. He said the commission wanted Buffalo Grove to set a precedent for other villages to follow by demanding a high number of parking spaces per dwelling unit.

2nd CATV Group Presents Plan

A second cable television firm presented a proposal for a franchise to Wheeling's village board this week.

Vue-Sonics Inc., a subsidiary of LVO Cable TV, is one of three firms which have applied for a franchise to run a cable television system in the village.

A presentation was given last fall by Tek Rep. Inc. A third firm's presentation is scheduled for Jan. 25.

Trustee Ira Bird said Monday that after the January presentation, the board would decide whether to grant a cable television franchise and how the recipient of the franchise, if any, would be chosen.

At Monday's meeting, representatives of Vue-Sonics Inc. told the village board they hoped to provide Wheeling customers with not only Chicago stations, but also with Rockford, Madison, Milwaukee and Aurora stations.

The representatives explained, however, that the firm would need special permission from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to bring stations other than those from Chicago into Wheeling because of the closeness of the village to Chicago.

THE VUE-SONICS representative told village officials that unlike other applicants for the franchise, their firm would have the research and programming facilities of LVO, the largest cable television firm in the country.

He pointed out that LVO had received awards for excellence in local programming.

The firm also has subsidiary cable television companies in other Illinois cities including LaSalle, Peru, Oglesby, Spring Valley, Granville, Mendota and Elmhurst.

The representatives said Vue-Sonics Inc. would install a studio in the village and would have a mobile unit capable of transmitting live events.

They talked about locally-oriented programs including such things as local sports casts, village board meetings, or debates.

Two channels would be available for use by local schools and a children's channel would feature shows aimed at preschool children.

A LOCAL NEWS channel and a sports channel are also proposed.

One channel would feature automated news by broadcasting wire service read-outs and stock market quotations.

Another would be a weather channel.

An emergency alert system would allow all cable subscribers to be contacted regardless of what channel they were watching in an emergency.

Various antennas mounted on a tall tower would bring the signals into Wheeling. Cable subscribers would receive their service through a coaxial cable bringing signals into their homes.

The firm proposed to pay the village five per cent of its gross subscription receipts for the franchise.

Approximate costs of the service would be a $15 initial charge and a $5 per month subscription charge.

Firefighting Co-op OKd

The Buffalo Grove Fire Department has been given permission to join a cooperative firefighting plan that will include 32 fire departments.

The department had requested village board approval of the plan because the village owns the department's 85-foot aerial ladder truck. The rest of its equipment was purchased by the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District.

The board gave permission Monday night after a brief discussion that centered on whether Buffalo Grove equipment would be used to fight fires places as far away as Elk Grove Village and Park Ridge, two other members of the cooperative plan.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter assured the trustees that this will not happen. Instead, he said, equipment would "be funneled down toward the scene of a fire."

IN CASE OF A large fire in Elk Grove, Winter said, Arlington Heights firemen might aid Elk Grove firemen while Buffalo Grove firemen might move to a fire station in north Arlington Heights to cover both Arlington Heights and their own village.

Winter said that the mutual assistance plan is similar to the system used by the Chicago fire department, except that instead of moving fire equipment to different stations in a single city, the equipment will be shifted from village to village.

The mutual aid plan, now designed to include suburbs in the northwest section of Cook County, will go into effect soon, Winter said.

He said he hopes that it will be expanded later to include Lake County fire departments and, eventually, all fire departments in the state.

A CHRISTMAS VILLAGE fashioned in lace is part of the holiday celebration at the Addolorata Villa Home in Wheeling. Villa residents Mable Conley and Lyda Berkenkotter look at the village which is reflected in a mirror. Each year Sister Mary Sophia, a cook at the villa, makes a similar village using a different material. In past years the villages have been made of cookies, ribbon, cloth, plastic flowers and jewelry.

Due to the Christmas holiday, Paddock Publications offices will be closed tomorrow, and will be open for business at 9 a.m. Monday. There will be no Friday paper.

The management and employees of Paddock Publications wish to all its readers and advertisers a safe and Merry Christmas.

HOLMES JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL students performed a special play "About Christmas Carols" this week for their parents. Debbie Stricker as a grandmother told the story of Christmas to Cheryl Reddish, who played a little girl.

Village Will Share Costs Of 3 Sewers

The Wheeling Village Board has agreed to share the cost of a sewer and water system with the developers of the Cedar Run townhouse project on McHenry Road.

The developers, Tekton Corp., will spend about $80,000. The cost to the village will be about the same, according to Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

The agreement, approved by the village board Monday, covers the installation of a sewer and water system along McHenry Road to its $13 million development which lies about one-half mile west of Elmhurst Road.

The village will be obligated to pay the remainder of the cost that results from installing sewers large enough to service all other properties in the area as well as Cedar Run.

Hamer said the village board plans to enact a recapture ordinance which will enable the village to charge future developers of property in the area for part of the village's construction cost of the sewers. The village will thus be paid back for its contribution to the extension of the sewer and water system, Hamer said.

THE AGREEMENT does not specify how much the village will spend on the project, but says only that the village will pay the balance of the cost after the $80,000 Tekton payment is expended.

Wheeling has long avoided normal recapture agreements which allow one developer to install sewers and then assess another developer on adjacent property for part of the sewer cost.

The village-Tekton agreement continues this policy. It differs from the standard recapture agreement in that the village, not the developer, will recover the costs from other area property owners.

Two Die In Two Accidents

Two persons were killed Tuesday night in separate auto accidents in the area.

Mrs. Idelle L. Michaelson, 35, of 717 Highland Ave., Elgin, has been identified as the victim of a fatal accident at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hoffman Estates at Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Robert K. Boyd, 32, of 980 Parkview Ln., Des Plaines, died in Sherman Hospital, Elgin, shortly after an accident on Lake Street near Elgin.

Mrs. Michaelson was a passenger in an auto driven by Nancy K. Radeloff, 42, of 141 Washington, Carpentersville. Mrs. Radeloff is in fair condition in Sherman Hospital with fractured ribs she sustained in the accident. She has been charged with failure to yield the right-of-way after stopping at a stop sign, and is to appear Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court.

THE RADELOFF auto was struck on the right side by a car driven by Richard M. Mattes, 18, of 214 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates. Hoffman Estates Police reported Mattes was treated for nose cuts and released the same night from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Police said Mattes was driving northbound on Barrington Road when Mrs. Radeloff's auto crossed in front of him, headed eastbound from Shoe Factory Road to the entrance of eastbound Northwest Tollway traffic. After impact, the Radeloff auto went over the entrance ramp guardrail and stopped in a grassy area northeast of the corner of the ramp and Barrington Road.

An inquest by the Cook County Coroner's office was to have been scheduled to determine the cause of Mrs. Michaelson's death.

Dist. 3 State Police investigating Mr. Boyd's accident near Elgin said he was driving eastbound on Lake Street at about 7:20 p.m., and apparently lost control of his car. It crossed the center line and moved into the westbound traffic lane, police said.

Boyd's auto struck a westbound auto carrier truck driven by Kenneth J. Wonic, 1444 S. Oakhill, Janesville, Wis.

Board Delays Ordinance Plan

The Wheeling Village Board delayed a request from the village plan commission Monday that public hearings be held to clarify the village planned development ordinance.

The board directed Trustee Michael Valenza, who is also acting director of planning to get specifics of what portions of the planned development ordinance the plan commission wishes to consider changing before granting the public hearings.

Any final changes in the ordinance must be made by the village board.

Speak Out

Efforts For Peace: Sincere?

by JIM HODL

"Peace on earth and good will toward men."

Each Christmas, one hears this slogan many times. However, while it is repeated many times around Christmas, is it practiced the rest of the year?

This week, Speakout asked Palatine and Rolling Meadows residents if they thought world leaders have done enough to bring about peace on earth and good will toward men over the past year. Answers were split equally between yes and no.

MRS. PAT BECKER, 122 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, said, "I think the world leaders tried to bring peace this year. Bringing about peace is not something that can be done immediately. But I think they are trying."

She went on to say she thought President Richard Nixon and Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin have both worked toward the same goal during 1970, trying to bring about peace.

EDNA VERBA, 2159 W. Sunset Dr., Palatine, agreed.

"The world leaders all worked toward peace, but it won't come overnight," she said.

Palatine High School student Bill Jones, 140 N. Cady Dr., Palatine also thought world leaders are trying to bring about peace.

"NIXON HAS BEEN trying to stop the war in Vietnam," he said. "I'm sure Premier Kosygin is trying to bring the world peace too. I don't think he wants any wars."

Jones hedged on Middle East leaders. "This is a whole different thing," Jones said. "They probably want peace in the Middle East, but they want land and prestige first."

Other people did not think world leaders were doing enough to bring about peace. A Forest View High School student, John Talbot, 2801 School Dr., Rolling Meadows, said, "I don't think world leaders can do anything for world peace. There are a lot of wars going on with big ones in the Middle East and Vietnam. They have gotten out of hand and the leaders can't stop them."

Talbot said there is money involved in war and those who profit from them wouldn't want the wars to end.

He also said the representatives at various world peace talks just "tiddle around" and do nothing to end wars.

HARPER JR. COLLEGE student Jim Gallanis, 3502 Fremont St., Rolling Meadows, said, "World leaders haven't exactly done enough for world peace. They say a lot of things and point to few things they've done, but they haven't really done much."

"Those SALT talks are a farce," he said. "They say they will disarm, but they keep building up their arsenals. These talks are just for publicity and propaganda."

On the Russians, Gallanis said they are not trying very hard, probably as little as America is.

"They are only doing about half of what they can do for peace," he said.

ANOTHER PALATINE High School student, Gwen Guthrie, 347 N. Morris Dr., Palatine, said leaders supply a lot of talk about peace, but little in the way of action.

"Ted Kennedy was on TV Tuesday night," she said. "He gave us a big bit on humanitarianism, but I don't think he was very sincere."

She was also critical of Sen. George McGovern who, she said, was like Kennedy. McGovern was only applying lip service to peace for his own self interest rather than for the benefit of the people, Miss Guthrie said.

Sellergren High-Rise Plan Told

"NEARLY READY FOR a busy night . . ." Santa Claus (See more photos and story on Page 9, Section 2.) and his helpers will visit many homes this Christmas Eve.

Sellergren Inc. has presented a new plan for its high-rise apartment building and commercial district complex planned for Hicks and Baldwin Roads.

The presentation was made Tuesday night at a public hearing the Palatine Village Board held to hear pros and cons of annexing the 66-acre site to Palatine.

The new plan resulted from talks between Sellergren's attorney, John Duffy, and Palatine homeowner's attorney and village board candidate Donald M. Phares.

At a previous hearing Phares, speaking for representatives from five subdivisions near the Sellergren property, said his clients objected to the high density of the project and the proximity of the four, 12 story buildings to their homes.

UNDER THE OLD PLAN, the 66 acre tract would be divided into a 30-acre residential area, a 25 acre commercial district and a 11 acre public use sector.

Richard Stalzer, Sellergren's engineer prepared the new plan. It calls for the elimination of the public use sector and the creation of a buffer zone to separate the development from homes on three sides of the property, he said.

According to the plan presented Tuesday night, the commercial district would consist of 25.8 acres at the south end of the site. The north boundary of the commercial zone would be even with the north boundary of the K-Mart development planned for the east side of Hicks Road.

THE RESIDENTIAL sector would be 36.2 acres at the north end of the property which abuts the Commonwealth Edison right of way.

Both sectors would contain retention basins and be separated from nearby homes by a 240-foot wide green area buffer zone on the east, north and west.

The plan also calls for 1,000 living units — 480 of which will be one-bedroom apartments, and 520 two-bedroom dwelling.

This plan represents 33.9 acres of open space, 23.6 of which is green area. Each building will cover about two acres of land, and 1,500 parking spaces plus roadways account for the rest of the covered surface area.

The plan does not include a public use site which could be developed into a school site for Elementary school Dist. 15.

Duffy said a school site was not included in the plans at the wish of the homeowners. Donald M. Phares said the consensus of people from Reseda, Reseda West, Willow Wood, North View and Pebble Creek subdivisions was that they preferred using the public use sector as a buffer zone, instead of a school site.

(THE BUFFER zone consists of approximately 3.9 acres under this plan.)

Joseph Kiszka, assistant superintendent for Dist. 15 said, "It's interesting that greenery and privacy is so important to the same faces I see in this group who are up in arms when I tell them their children might have to be put on double shifts."

"It's surprising that the builder and the community have agreed to drop 10 or 12 acres of land, which could possibly have been a school site, without even consulting the school district."

Trustee John Hughes asked the developer if he would be willing to either offer a cash donation or 11 acres of land for a school site.

John Duffy replied, "That item is not negotiable."

BRIAN COUGHLIN, a member of the planning commission, said he was "Tired of hearing what's not negotiable," and that "it is time for the developer to tell us how this project is going to benefit Palatine."

Mayor John L. Moodie closed the hearing, despite a request from Phares that it be continued to a later date. Phares wanted time for architects and land planners he has retained to study the new plan in more detail.

Tuesday night Phares presented three witnesses who were qualified in the area of architecture, land planning and zoning. Each said Sellergren did not present enough exhibits to make a detailed study of the proposal, but agreed the density was too high for this area of Palatine.

Phares submitted seven points he wanted the board to consider in making their decision. They included a limit of 18 units per acre density, signalization of Hicks and Baldwin, and storm drainage protection, among other suggestions.

Moodie asked for Phares' points and Duffy's reactions to them in writing before closing the hearing.

Cracker Barrel

Egad! What was that smell in the Palatine Public Library Tuesday? Only three huge lye cakes deposited by an over-zealous custodian in the library bathrooms. Instead of improving the odor in the bathrooms, the cakes all but made living impossible in the library offices.

A FREMID HIGH SCHOOL student reports a few students are singing the following political Christmas carol around school: to the tune of "Santa Claus is Coming to Town":

You better watch out
You better not cry
You better not pout
I'm telling you why
The U.S. Army is spying on you!

CAROLLERS IN Rolling Meadows were reported to be singing "Joy To the World," "Silent Night," "Winter Wonderland" and "Hey, Hey, Holy Mackerel, No Doubt About It, The Cubs Are on Their Wya."

WHILE DISCUSSING the need for a theater sign nearer to Northwest Highway, Mayor John L. Moodie said, "Maybe they don't need a sign. Willow Creek keeps movies so long everyone in town knows what's playing sooner or later."

THE CHRISTMAS spirit had a hand in Tuesday night's proceedings on the Sellergren Inc., project — a real hot potato in the village. As an argument began to boil between Sellergren's attorney, John Duffy, and the opposing homeowner's attorney, Don Phares, the exchange was nipped in the bud by Duffy who said, "Now calm down. This is Christmas week so take off your boxing gloves." Phares had no reply.

3 Charged With Burglary

Palatine police arrested and charged three persons Tuesday night with theft and burglary of about $800 worth of merchandise from an abandoned house at 600 W. Colfax St.

Robert Centner, police chief, said Prezdes Quiles, 24, 562 W. Colfax, has been charged with allegedly entering the house and stealing a cadet tractor, a chain saw, tools and an electric space heater.

Quiles is being held on a $3,500 bond and no court date has been set.

Two juveniles, both living at the same address as Quiles, have also been charged by police. A 17-year-old girl and a 15-year-old boy are undergoing station adjustments with the Palatine police youth officer.

Centner said police obtained a search warrant and entered Quile's home Tuesday night, finding some of the stolen merchandise.

Police also found car accessories on the premises, including radiators and batteries. Two other juveniles have been implicated in the alleged theft of the latter merchandise, Centner said.

Before Thomas Lain, owner of the merchandise, filed a complaint on Nov. 30, the Lombard police notified police in Palatine that three persons were trying to sell what appeared to be stolen goods at a Lombard trading post.

Lombard police questioned the suspects and took the serial numbers from the merchandise they were selling before releasing them. The serial numbers were traced to the merchandise allegedly stolen in Palatine and police then made the arrest.

The tractor was recovered by police yesterday from a service station owner on Rand Road north of the village who claimed he purchased the vehicle from Quiles.

Due to the Christmas holiday, Paddock Publications offices will be closed tomorrow, and will be open for business at 9 a.m. Monday. There will be no Friday paper.

The management and employees of Paddock Publications wish to all its readers and advertisers a safe and Merry Christmas.

Churches Schedule Christmas Services

Palatine churches have scheduled many special services for tonight and tomorrow to commemorate Christmas.

A special family Christmas service has been planned for 7 p.m. tonight at the Presbyterian Church of Palatine, 800 E. Palatine Rd. The service will feature a pageant presented by the children in the first through fourth grades at the church school. A special children's sermon has been planned for the service.

Also, the church will have a candlelight Holy Communion service at 11 p.m. tonight. The senior choir will sing at this service and the sermon will be short.

No services have been planned for Christmas Day by the Presbyterian Church.

St. Theresa's Church, 24 W. Sherman St., will hold its annual midnight Mass tonight, beginning at 11:40 p.m. A musical cantata will be featured at the service and the Parish choir will sing carols. ANOTHER SERVICE will be held at 1:30 a.m. in the church. The Christmas Day schedule of Masses at St. Theresa's is 7, 8:15, 9:30 and 10:45 a.m. and at noon.

Bethel Lutheran Church, 2150 Frontage Rd., has three services scheduled for Christmas. Tonight, there will be a family worship service at 6:30 and a candlelight service at 11. On Christmas Day, a service will be held at 10 a.m.

Rev. Laverne Kampke, pastor of the church, will deliver a sermon titled "Low a Star" at the family service and another sermon titled "Shepherd's Christmas" at the Christmas Day service.

Christmas Brings Brothers Together

by JIM HODL

After 47 years, two brothers were reunited in Palatine Monday. Gottfrid Wikman, 325 N. Morton St., met his brother Edwin, who came from Sweden to visit his relatives for Christmas.

Wikman had not seen his brother since he immigrated to America in 1923. His brother, who remained in Sweden, was eight years old at the time.

"This is the best Christmas present I could have," Wikman said yesterday. "I have had no better gift in my entire life."

Wikman's brother is visiting America for two weeks to visit his relatives, most of whom he has never met. Wikman and his wife have five children, 22 grandchildren and are expecting great-grandchildren in a few years.

On Christmas Eve, Edwin and his wife Greta will have dinner at Wikman's daughter Ruth's home in Lake Mills, Wis.

EDWIN COMES FROM Alingsås, a town near Sweden's port city of Gottenburg. He is a civilian designer for a company related to the Volvo automobile company. He designs hoists, cranes, hydraulic lifts and half-track trucks.

Edwin was happy to meet his brother again too. He said he felt welcomed when he was greeted by Wikman and his wife at O'Hare Airport Monday.

Edwin's wife Greta said she was happy to meet Wikman and his wife too. This was the first time the Wikman's wives met each other or their brother-in-laws.

Edwin said he enjoyed Palatine because it was so quiet. He expressed a liking for America because of its traffic.

Traffic here is not like in Sweden. In Sweden, the traffic is crazy and goes very fast while American traffic goes at a much more moderate and orderly pace," he said.

Wikman is a builder and a decorator and has lived in Palatine for some time.

Pat Ahern

Juan Jeldres of Santiago, Chile has been staying with the Fred Zajonc (village trustee) family since October. He has found employment in a downtown bookstore. School children who are studying about Chile may find him to be an interesting resource person. His sister, Sylvia, an exchange student who has been living in Arcadia, Wisconsin, will visit him and the Zajonc family for the week starting Dec. 26. With the Zajonc college students home they should have a full house.

THE PALATINE LIBRARY can boast of not only providing its young readers with books as well as films but last week "Library Singers," Debbie McNamara, Vici Mack, Steve Regul and guitarist John Lilly, entertained the children with Christmas Carols and encouraged the children to participate in a Christmas "sing along."

The Illinois State Library is changing its philosophy of service and is starting to farm out some of the books to branch libraries. Palatine librarians journeyed to Springfield to arrange to get additional books.

The librarians report their shelves are full of books. However, the library will be closed this Saturday.

THE HOLY GHOST Council Knights of Columbus entertained the member's children with a magic show at the annual Christmas party. Children donated gifts to be given to the St. Joseph's Home for Mentally Retarded girls. Santa Claus' helper, Royce Johnston, gave each child a gift.

ST. THOMAS CHOIR under the direction of Mrs. Charles Falkenberg has been rehearsing with the choir weekly to sing at Midnight Mass Christmas Eve On Christmas Day the choir will sing at the 9 a.m. Mass at St. Joseph's Home for the aged.

This is the first year St. Thomas will have a 7 p.m. Mass on Christmas Eve in addition to Christmas Day Masses. Children will appreciate this change so that on Christmas morning they can stay home to play with their new toys.

Incidentally, St. Thomas parishioners voted to change the Saturday 7 p.m. Mass to 5 p.m. starting this Saturday.

PLAQUE WINNERS for the Jaycee Christmas Decoration contest were presented by Chairman Les Gurin to the Terrence Moore home, 526 N. Glenn for the most colorful decorations, Don Glawe home, 163 N. Bissell for the most original decoration, and the Thomas Ahern home, 1420 E. Palatine Rd. for the most Christmas spirit. If the Jaycees have another contest next year plan now to submit your decorations!

When the children get restless some evening be sure to treat them to a drive to see the decorations.

THE NOVEMBER paper drive held by the Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds resulted in $260 profit — thanks to local residents who saved the newspapers and took the time to tie them. One resident commented she never realized how many newspapers they received during a month until they started to pile up in the garage.

The Horizon Club (teen agers) used $50 of the money to donate for food baskets to Mexican American families. They donated $150 to the American Indian Center in Chicago for candy and fruit for 1000 children. Perhaps the profits from this ecology effort will encourage other groups to do likewise.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Two Die In Two Accidents

Two persons were killed Tuesday night in separate auto accidents in the area.

Mrs. Idelle L. Michaelson, 35, of 717 Highland Ave., Elgin, has been identified as the victim of a fatal accident at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hoffman Estates at Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Robert K. Boyd, 32, of 880 Parkway Ln., Des Plaines, died in Sherman Hospital, Elgin, shortly after an accident on Lake Street near Elgin.

Mrs. Michaelson was a passenger in an auto driven by Nancy K. Radloff, 42, of 141 Washington, Carpentersville. Mrs. Radloff is in fair condition in Sherman Hospital with fractured ribs she sustained in the accident. She has been charged with failure to yield the right-of-way after stopping at a stop sign, and is to appear Feb. 18 in Schaumburg Court.

THE RADELOFF auto was struck on the right side by a car driven by Richard M. Mattes, 18, of 214 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates. Hoffman Estates Police reported Mattes was treated for nose cuts and released the same night from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Police said Mattes was driving northbound on Barrington Road when Mrs. Radloff's auto crossed in front of him, headed eastbound from Shoe Factory Road to the entrance of eastbound Northwest Tollway traffic. After impact, the Radloff auto went over the entrance ramp guardrail and stopped in a grassy area northeast of the corner of the ramp and Barrington Road.

An inquest by the Cook County Coroner's office was to have been scheduled to determine the cause of Mrs. Michaelson's death.

Dist. 3 State Police investigating Mr. Boyd's accident near Elgin said he was driving eastbound on Lake Street at about 7:20 p.m., and apparently lost control of his car. It crossed the center line and moved into the westbound traffic lane, police said.

Boyd's auto struck a westbound auto carrier truck driven by Kenneth J. Wozick, 1444 S. Oakhill, Janesville, Wis.

Bartlett police assisted in the investigation.

She Likes Being 'Wife' Of Santa

Last year, students at Palatine High School struck a blow for Women's Lib. Now, Santa Claus is accompanied by his wife when he visits the school.

In reality, Mrs. Claus is Mrs. Margaret Smith, a business education teacher at Palatine High School. For the past two years, she has been dressing up as wife of jolly old Saint Nick for Palatine High School affairs.

This year, she appeared at the school's Christmas Ball to present a bouquet of flowers to the Christmas queen while her "husband" Santa crowned the queen.

"Last year was the first time I became Mrs. Claus," said Mrs. Smith. "The kids loved it, so we are having a Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus every year at Palatine."

Mrs. Smith chaperones dances held for students at Palatine. Each year, at the Christmas Ball, Santa Claus would make an appearance. Last year, some students suggested Santa's wife accompany him on his trip, so Mrs. Smith became Mrs. Claus.

"WHILE IT wasn't my idea, I had to come up with the idea of what Mrs. Santa Claus would wear," Mrs. Smith said.

"Together with some girls taking home economics courses, I came up with a costume consisting of a long red dress with white trim topped with a pancake hat."

Her costume was sewn together by the home economics students.

Last year, Mrs. Claus wore a long apron, but when she came in with Santa, she didn't appear to have been outside and just came in. This year, Mrs. Claus wore a white evening wrap when she entered with her husband Santa, played by Palatine supervisor of guidance Ray Mills.

Mrs. Smith said she really enjoys playing the wife of Santa and is already looking forward to next year.

MRS. SANTA CLAUS trims her tree in her Mount Prospect home. The wife of the jolly old saint is really Mrs. Margaret Smith, a business education teacher at Palatine High School.

Each year, she dresses up as Mrs. Santa Claus and appears with her "husband" at Palatine High School function.

Students Host Needy Children

Children from families on public assistance were the guests of Palatine High School students and faculty yesterday. They were given an all-day Christmas party as part of a Palatine student council project.

Arriving at the school around 11 a.m., the children were treated to activities in the school gymnasium. They were taken home by students to have lunch and brought back to see the movie, "Dog of Flanders." Near the end of the day, Santa Claus arrived and gave out presents.

Jim Sindelar, sponsor of Palatine's student council, said about 100 students were involved in the project. He said student interest will determine if this project is repeated next year.

"I will only consider this year's project successful if it is repeated next year,"

Sindelar said.

To get these children into another background was the purpose of the project, he said. Likewise, it is also aimed at getting students in contact with people from other backgrounds.

Children were picked up and taken to Palatine High School this morning from Chicago's Wicker Park District Office of the Cook County Dept. of Public Assistance.

Palatine's student council developed the idea of bringing the children to the school for a day at Christmas and members of Palatine's faculty assisted in the project.

Earlier this week, the student council collected $177.76 for the Neediest Children's Fund through collections in the school cafeteria, Sindelar said.

Speak Out

Efforts For Peace: Sincere?

by JIM HODL

"Peace on earth and good will toward men."

Each Christmas, one hears this slogan many times. However, while it is repeated many times around Christmas, is it practiced the rest of the year?

This week, Speakout asked Palatine and Rolling Meadows residents if they thought world leaders have done enough to bring about peace on earth and good will toward men over the past year. Answers were split equally between yes and no.

MRS. PAT BECKER, 122 S. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, said, "I think the world leaders tried to bring peace this year. Bringing about peace is not something that can be done immediately. But I think they are trying."

She went on to say she thought President Richard Nixon and Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin have both worked toward the same goal during 1970, trying to bring about peace.

EDNA VERBA, 2159 W. Sunset Dr., Palatine, agreed.

"The world leaders all worked toward peace, but it won't come overnight," she said.

Palatine High School student Bill Jones, 149 N. Cady Dr., Palatine also thought world leaders are trying to bring about peace.

"NIXON HAS BEEN trying to stop the war in Vietnam," he said. "I'm sure Premier Kosygin is trying to bring the world peace too. I don't think he wants any wars."

Jones hedged on Middle East leaders. "This is a whole different thing," Jones said. "They probably want peace in the Middle East, but they want land and prestige first."

Other people did not think world leaders were doing enough to bring about peace. A Forest View High School student, John Talbot, 2801 School Dr., Rolling Meadows, said, "I don't think world leaders can do anything for world peace. There are a lot of wars going on with big ones in the Middle East and Vietnam. They have gotten out of hand and the leaders can't stop them."

Talbot said there is money involved in war and those who profit from them wouldn't want the wars to end.

He also said the representatives at various world peace talks just "liddle around" and do nothing to end wars.

HARPER JR. COLLEGE student Jim Gallanis, 3502 Fremont St., Rolling Meadows, said, "World leaders haven't exactly done enough for world peace. They say a lot of things and point to few things they've done, but they haven't really done much."

"Those SALT talks are a farce," he said. "They say they will disarm, but they keep building up their arsenals. These talks are just for publicity and propaganda."

On the Russians, Gallanis said they are not trying very hard, probably as little as America is.

"They are only doing about half of what they can do for peace," he said.

ANOTHER PALATINE High School student, Gwen Guthrie, 347 N. Morris Dr., Palatine, said leaders supply a lot of talk about peace, but little in the way of action.

"Ted Kennedy was on TV Tuesday night," she said. "He gave us a big bit on humanitarianism, but I don't think he was very sincere."

She was also critical of Sen. George McGovern who, she said, was like Kennedy. McGovern was only applying lip service to peace for his own self interest rather than for the benefit of the people, Miss Guthrie said.

Council Redistricts Wards Three, Four

A recommendation to change the boundaries in wards three and four, made by the city's special redistricting committee, was approved by city council Tuesday.

About 150 registered voters, who were previously represented in ward four, will now be represented in ward three.

Voter representation in the two city wards had become unequal after many new residents registered in this year's election.

Wards one, two and five were not changed.

"NEARLY READY FOR a busy night . . ." Santa Claus (See more photos and story on Page 9, Section 2.) and his helpers will visit many homes this Christmas Eve.

OK Garbage Compactor Plan Fund

City council has approved funds for the city garbage compactor system.

City council unanimously approved three resolutions made by Ald. Thomas W. Scanlon at Tuesday's council meeting that allocate $103,000 for the garbage compacting system.

Work on the compactor station will begin this year, according to Scanlon, and the operation will be functioning in about four months.

The city now hauls all raw trash to dumps in Des Plaines and Elgin. The new process will compact the garbage into smaller units and will cut the number of trips made to the dumps in half.

BIDS RECEIVED by the city for the compactor building ranged from $49,000 to $68,000. The city awarded the contract for the structure to Bud Bailey Const. Co. for $57,000. Scanlon said the Bailey bid came closest to the city's specifications on the structure.

Approval was given for purchase of a special truck to be used in the new refuse compacting system. The truck will cost $19,563. The truck will be equipped with special refuse containers before it is received by the city.

The council also approved expenditures of $26,605 for equipment that is needed in the new garbage system. According to reports from Scanlon and Supt. of Public Works James F. McFeggan, the new system will save the city about $25,000 a year and can be paid for in about 5 years.

The compacting system will handle single-family dwellings, but it is expected that the system will include multi-family dwellings next year.

The compactor will be located on the south side of the Northwest Tollway, where the city owns land.

3 Charged With Burglary

Palatine police arrested and charged three persons Tuesday night with theft and burglary of about $800 worth of merchandise from an abandoned house at 600 W. Colfax St.

Robert Centner, police chief, said Prezdes Quiles, 24, 562 W. Colfax, has been charged with allegedly entering the house and stealing a cadet tractor, a chain saw, tools and an electric space heater.

Quiles is being held on a $3,500 bond and no court date has been set.

Two juveniles, both living at the same address as Quiles, have also been charged by police. A 17-year-old girl and a 15-year-old boy are undergoing station adjustments with the Palatine police youth officer.

Centner said police obtained a search warrant and entered Quile's home Tuesday night, finding some of the stolen merchandise.

Police also found car accessories on the premises, including radiators and batteries. Two other juveniles have been implicated in the alleged theft of the latter merchandise, Centner said.

Before Thomas Lain, owner of the merchandise, filed a complaint on Nov. 30, the Lombard police notified police in Palatine that three persons were trying to sell what appeared to be stolen goods at a Lombard trading post.

Lombard police questioned the suspects and took the serial numbers from the merchandise they were selling before releasing them. The serial numbers were traced to the merchandise allegedly stolen in Palatine and police then made the arrest.

The tractor was recovered by police yesterday from a service station owner on Rand Road north of the village who claimed he purchased the vehicle from Quiles.

4 Youths Arrested In Garage Thefts

Four local juveniles were arrested Tuesday night in connection with a series of garage thefts in Palatine.

Palatine police said three 13-year-old boys and a 15-year-old boy are scheduled to meet with the department's youth officer this Saturday to undergo station adjustments.

Two of the boys were arrested shortly after F. R. Onley, 917 E. Morris Dr., Palatine, reported that a burglary was in progress in his garage.

Police picked the boys up two blocks away from the Onley residence. The boys had beer and champagne in their possession, admitted to a series of other thefts, including Christmas decorations, and implicated two other companions who were picked up by police later.

Robert Centner, police chief, said there has been no estimation of how much the merchandise stolen is worth, but expect to know after police meet with the boys this weekend.

City Sued For $50,000

The city of Rolling Meadows is being sued for $50,000.

Raymond and Jacqueline Schmitz, 4345 Hoover Ave., have filed suit against the city for activities at the four-acre Plum Grove Countryside Park District playground near their home. The park district leases land from the city.

The suit alleges that Rolling Meadows is being held responsible for allowing a zoning irregularity to continue. The suit also alleges that no special use has been made by the city for a park area.

A tennis court in the park is also cited in the suit as a zoning ordinance violation. The Schmitz's claim that they have suffered mental anguish and the park has been a physical nuisance to them, according to their attorney Eugene F. Schlickman. The suit says that tennis balls that have landed in their yard have been a nuisance, and also eggs have been thrown at the Schmitz house by persons on the playground.

City Atty. Donald M. Rose said Schmitz has filed an injunction to stop activity at the playground.

Rose is preparing an answer to the charges.

Area Churches Slate Special Yule Services

Special services celebrating the Christmas holiday will be held at each of the area churches this week.

The voices of the children's and adult's choirs of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows, 2730 Kirchoff Rd., will be combined throughout the Christmas Eve service tonight at 11 p.m. Each of the choirs will sing "O, Holy Night," "Glory of the Lord" and "Noel, Noel" and together the choirs will sing the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

A candlelighting ceremony will be included in the church service. Rev. William Herman, pastor of the Community Church, will deliver the sermon entitled "Christmas Meditation."

Trinity Lutheran Church, 3201 Meadow Dr., began its celebration of the Christmas holiday last week with a special children's service held Sunday. A Christmas Eve service will be held at 11 p.m. today which will be highlighted by the music of the church senior choir. A candlelighting ceremony will also be part of the service.

THE REGULAR Christmas festive service of Trinity Lutheran will be held at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow. The senior choir will perform a cantata to narrate the Christmas gospel during the service. This cantata will mark the first time the choir has presented such a performance. The children's choir will also present "What Child Is This" and "Gentle Mary" at the Christmas Day service.

A concelebrated midnight Mass will be held at St. Colette Church in Rolling Meadows this evening. The special midnight Mass will be preceded by the traditional blessing of the crib and the singing of Christmas carols beginning at 11:30 p.m.

Following the midnight Mass, a separate Christmas morning Mass will be held at 1 a.m. Other Masses for the holy day at St. Colette's will be at 6:45, 8, 9:15, 10:30, 11:45 a.m. and at 1 p.m. There will be no 6 a.m. Mass Christmas day as is usually held on Sundays.

Meadows Baptist Church held a special Christmas communion service at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. No service will be held at the church Christmas Eve or Day.

Representatives of the St. Michael the Archangel Priory order of Catholic priests will offer a Latin Mass at 9 a.m. Christmas Day at the Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows.

Cracker Barrel

"THIRTY DAYS have September, April, June and November." But not according to the new Rolling Meadows city calendar. The 1971 Rolling Meadows calendar shows November with 31.

CAROLERS in Rolling Meadows were reported to be singing "Joy to the World," "Silent Night," "Winter Wonderland" and "Hey, Hey, Holy Mackerel, No Doubt About It, The Cubs Are On Their Way."

UPON HEARING that the city was being sued for, among other things, tennis balls in the yard of a resident, a city official said "maybe we should buy the man a tennis racket."

CITY POLICE would certainly have become "hot under the collar" if a change wasn't made on the three new patrol cars. City council approved air conditioning units for the cars, that had been left off the original specifications.

RUMOR HAS IT that a proposed name for the new garbage compactor system will be The Garbage Gobbler . . .

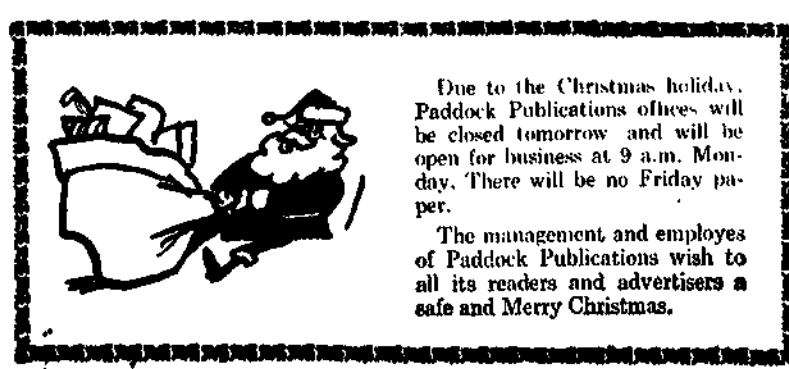

THERE'S NO MISTAKING the 17 school sites on the new aerial map of the district hanging up in the Dist. 15 administration building. Rather than simply using dots or markers to point out the schools, school officials had little square red school houses, complete with chimneys, glued on the map in the appropriate spots.

by JIM HODL

After 47 years, two brothers were reunited in Palatine Monday. Gottfrid Wikman, 325 N. Mozart St., met his brother Edwin, who came from Sweden to visit his relatives for Christmas.

Wikman had not seen his brother since he immigrated to America in 1923. His brother, who remained in Sweden, was eight years old at the time.

"This is the best Christmas present I could have," Wikman said yesterday. "I have had no better gift in my entire life."

Wikman's brother is visiting America for two weeks to visit his relatives, most of whom he has never met. Wikman and his wife have five children, 22 grandchildren and are expecting great-grandchildren in a few years.

On Christmas Eve, Edwin and his wife Greta will have dinner at Wikman's daughter Ruth's home in Lake Mills, Wis.

EDWIN COMES FROM Alingsas, a town near Sweden's port city of Gottenburg. He is a civilian designer for a company related to the Volvo automobile company. He designs hoists, cranes, hydraulic lifts and half-track trucks.

Edwin was happy to meet his brother again too. He said he felt welcomed when he was greeted by Wikman and his wife at O'Hare Airport Monday.

Edwin's wife Greta said she was happy to meet Wikman and his wife too. This was the first time the Wikman's wives met each other or their brother-in-laws. Edwin said he enjoyed Palatine because it was so quiet. He expressed a liking for America because of its traffic.

"Traffic here is not like in Sweden. In Sweden, the traffic is crazy and goes very fast while American traffic goes at a much more moderate and orderly pace," he said. Wikman is a builder and a decorator and has lived in Palatine for some time.

Pat Ahern

Juan Jeldres of Santiago, Chile has been staying with the Fred Zajonc (village trustee) family since October. He has found employment in a downtown bookstore. School children who are studying about Chile may find him to be an interesting resource person. His sister, Sylvia, an exchange student who has been living in Arcadia, Wisconsin, will visit him and the Zajonc family for the week starting Dec. 26. With the Zajonc college students home they should have a full house.

THE PALATINE LIBRARY can boast of not only providing its young readers with books as well as films but last week "Library Singers," Debbie McNamara, Vici Mack, Steve Regul and guitarist John Lilly, entertained the children with Christmas Carols and encouraged the children to participate in a Christmas "sing along."

The Illinois State Library is changing its philosophy of service and is starting to farm out some of the books to branch libraries. Palatine librarians journeyed to Springfield to arrange to get additional books.

The librarians report their shelves are full of books. However, the library will be closed this Saturday.

THE HOLY GHOST Council Knights of Columbus entertained the member's children with a magic show at the annual Christmas party. Children donated gifts to be given to the St. Joseph's Home for Mentally Retarded girls. Santa Claus' helper, Royce Johnston, gave each child a gift.

ST. THOMAS CHOIR under the direction of Mrs. Charles Falkenberg has been rehearsing with the choir weekly to sing at Midnight Mass Christmas Eve. On Christmas Day the choir will sing at the 9 a.m. Mass at St. Joseph's Home for the aged.

This is the first year St. Thomas will have a 7 p.m. Mass on Christmas Eve in addition to Christmas Day Masses. Children will appreciate this change so that on Christmas morning they can stay home to play with their new toys.

Incidentally, St. Thomas parishioners voted to change the Saturday 7 p.m. Mass to 5 p.m. starting this Saturday.

PLAQUE WINNERS for the Jaycee Christmas Decoration contest were presented by Chairman Les Gurin to the Terrence Moore home, 526 N. Glenn for the most colorful decorations; Don Glawe home, 163 N. Bissell for the most original decoration, and the Thomas Ahern home, 1420 E. Palatine Rd. for the most Christmas spirit. If the Jaycees have another contest next year plan now to submit your decorations!

When the children get restless some evening be sure to treat them to a drive to see the decorations.

THE NOVEMBER paper drive held by the Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds resulted in $260 profit — thanks to local residents who saved the newspapers and took the time to tie them. One resident commented she never realized how many newspapers they received during a month until they started to pile up in the garage.

The Horizon Club (teen agers) used $50 of the money to donate for food baskets to Mexican American families. They donated $150 to the American Indian Center in Chicago for candy and fruit for 1000 children. Perhaps the profits from this ecology effort will encourage other groups to do likewise.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Chemical NTA To Be Eliminated

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical, an Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent, Loft, will be discontinued next week, according to Sanford Arenberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers.

ARENBERG SAID that his firm had planned to discontinue the use of NTA before the announcement was made.

A natural soap and polyelectrolytes will be used as a substitute for the chemical, and production of Loft will continue on schedule, he said.

Loft has been on the market for two months as a phosphate-free detergent. Distribution of the product is through local dairies, including Modern Dairy Co., and Arlington Milk, Inc., as well as hardware stores and franchise operations.

Arenberg said that Loft has had more than 2,500 customers in the last two months from the two Arlington Heights dairies.

Two Die In Two Accidents

Two persons were killed Tuesday night in separate auto accidents in the area.

Mrs. Idelle L. Michaelson, 35, of 717 Highland Ave., Elgin, has been identified as the victim of a fatal accident at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hoffman Estates at Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Robert K. Boyd, 32, of 980 Parkway Ln., Des Plaines, died in Sherman Hospital, Elgin, shortly after an accident on Lake Street near Elgin.

Mrs. Michaelson was a passenger in an auto driven by Nancy K. Radloff, 42, of 111 Washington, Carpentersville. Mrs. Radloff, is in fair condition in Sherman Hospital with fractured ribs she sustained in the accident. She has been charged with failure to yield the right-of-way after stopping at a stop sign, and is to appear Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court.

THE RADELOFF auto was struck on the right side by a car driven by Richard M. Mattes, 18, of 214 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates. Hoffman Estates Police reported Mattes was treated for nose cuts and released the same night from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Police said Mattes was driving northbound on Barrington Road when Mrs. Radloff's auto crossed in front of him, headed eastbound from Shoe Factory Road to the entrance of eastbound Northwest Tollway traffic. After impact, the Radloff auto went over the entrance ramp guardrail and stopped in a grassy area northeast of the corner of the ramp and Barrington Road.

An inquest by the Cook County Coroner's office was to have been scheduled to determine the cause of Mrs. Michaelson's death.

Dist. 3 State Police investigating Mr. Boyd's accident near Elgin said he was driving eastbound on Lake Street at about 7:20 p.m., and apparently lost control of his car. It crossed the center line and moved into the westbound traffic lane, police said.

Boyd's auto struck a westbound auto carrier truck driven by Kenneth J. Wozick, 1444 S. Oakhill, Janesville, Wis.

Bartlett police assisted in the investigation.

She Likes Being 'Wife' Of Santa

Last year, students at Palatine High School struck a blow for Women's Lib. Now, Santa Claus is accompanied by his wife when he visits the school.

In reality, Mrs. Claus is Mrs. Margaret Smith, a business education teacher at Palatine High School. For the past two years, she has been dressing up as wife of jolly old Saint Nick for Palatine High School affairs.

This year, she appeared at the school's Christmas Ball to present a bouquet of flowers to the Christmas queen while her "husband," Santa crowned the queen.

"Last year was the first time I became Mrs. Claus," said Mrs. Smith. "The kids loved it, so we are having a Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus every year at Palatine."

Mrs. Smith chaperones dances held for students at Palatine. Each year, at the Christmas Ball, Santa Claus would make an appearance. Last year, some students suggested Santa's wife accompany him on his trip, so Mrs. Smith became Mrs. Claus.

"WHILE IT wasn't my idea, I had to come up with the idea of what Mrs. Santa Claus would wear," Mrs. Smith said.

"Together with some girls taking home economics courses, I came up with a costume consisting of a long red dress with white trim topped with a pancake hat."

Her costume was sewn together by the home economics students.

Last year, Mrs. Claus wore a long apron, but when she came in with Santa, she didn't appear to have been outside and just came in. This year, Mrs. Claus wore a white evening wrap when she entered with her husband Santa, played by Palatine supervisor of guidance Ray Mills.

Mrs. Smith said she really enjoys playing the wife of Santa and is already looking forward to next year.

MRS. SANTA CLAUS trims her tree in her Mount Prospect home. The wife of the jolly old saint is really Mrs. Margaret Smith, a business education teacher at Palatine High School. Each year, she dresses up as Mrs. Santa Claus and appears with her "husband" at Palatine High School function.

From the Library

Escape In Book

by JEAN TINDALL

We all like to escape once in a while and explore the life of another person. In a biography we can share the accomplishments of the main character as well as learn about different cultures and ways of life.

Children especially seem to enjoy biographies. They too identify with the hero, and therefore, are exposed to other ways of life. One other thing that is essential to a good biography is that it be a good adventure story.

The Rolling Meadows Public Library has a wide range of biographies in the children's section. Among the best of the new ones we have recently received are:

"Bart Starr: The Cool Quarterback" by George Sullivan, an author who has written several other books on football. Starr has led the Green Bay Packers to six Western Conference titles, five National Football League championships and two Super Bowl wins. Certainly the failures, frustrations and triumphs of his career will be of interest to many boys.

ALONG ANOTHER line, "Robert Scott: Antarctic Pioneer" by William Bixby, is the exciting story of the man who led the first British National Antarctic Expedition. His dream was to be the first person to reach the South Pole, but he was destined to fail. The hardships endured by Scott and his men, coupled with their gallant determination makes for good reading.

Marion Brown and Ruth Crone have written "Willa Cather: The Woman and Her Works." Here is a story of a woman who was determined to be a writer. The authors note the effect that her personal experiences had on her writing. Miss Cather also faced that dilemma of most writers of how to make a living before her works became known. Today she has a distinct place in American literature.

In this the one hundredth anniversary year of Charles Dickens' death, "Dickens and His World" by Ivor Brown is quite timely. Brown has skillfully summarized the changing world of this great novelist. Dickens' novels were designed not only to be entertaining reading, but also to comment on the effects of the Industrial Revolution in England. This well illustrated book will give children a good idea of what life was like in Nineteenth Century England.

FOR THE BOYS who like war stories, we have a new book that deals with one of the three five-star admirals in the history of the Navy. "William F. Halsey" by Wyatt Blassingame tells the story of the man who fought gallantly in the Pacific during World War II. From the "worst fullback" in Navy history to his tumultuous welcome in San Francisco at the end of the war, Halsey led an extremely active life.

For children in the primary grades, we have a biography of "Sitting Bull: Great Sioux Chief" by LaVerne Anderson. This tale of life among the Sioux Indians will give children a better idea of the cultures of all American Indians. As wild and free as the Dakota Plains which were his childhood playground, Sitting Bull was loved by his people, feared by his enemies, and respected by the white man who finally tamed and broke his fiery Sioux spirit.

Peace Is Popular Yule Wish

The Christmas wish of many Prospect Heights residents this year is age-old. It is the recurring theme of Christmas carols that will be sung throughout the world this week: "peace on earth and good will to men."

Half of the people called by the Herald couldn't narrow their wishes down to one. But those who did invariably asked for peace.

Thirteen-year-old Ken Becker, Walnut Street, asked for peace because he "doesn't like war."

When asked what her Christmas wish was Mrs. Robert Ernst, Maple Lane said, "everybody wishes for peace on earth."

Diane Lewis, a Hersey High School student, asked for peace so that her boy friend won't be drafted and have to fight in Vietnam.

NONE OF Mrs. Fred Kelly's, Elmhurst Road, relatives are involved in the Vietnam war but she said "a lot of my daughters' young friends are." She hopes, for their sake, that the war ends soon.

"Health and happiness for me and my family" is the Christmas wish of Mrs. Leslie Hammond, Kenilworth Avenue.

A 17-year-old high school boy said he wants a model rocket and a 19-year-old girl for Christmas, in that order.

Mrs. Ronald Andrae, Columbine Drive, wishes "love for everyone" this Christmas. She said, "if we all had that, we would all be happy."

A man who personally knows what war means, after serving in World War II, Donald McGowan, Glenbrook Drive, hopes that the Vietnam war will end soon and the young soldiers will be able to return home.

Harry Geen, Ridge Road, said he "just wishes for good health."

If Mrs. William Newman, Parkway Avenue, could have only one wish for Christmas, she would wish her son could be home for the holiday. Her son has been in the Air Force for the past two years and is now serving in Japan.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS were played by the School Dist. 23 band for residents of the Lutheran Home for The Aged in Arlington Heights this week.

Caucus Begins Candidate Hunt

The School Dist. 26 Caucus has begun its search for candidates to fill two seats on the school board which will be vacated in April.

The terms of both Ray Johnson and Hugh Stubbs will expire in April. Neither has announced reelection intentions.

Ray Inman, caucus chairman this year, requests all persons interested in serving a three year term on the school board contact him at 827-0375.

The caucus is composed of 32 members, selected by 16 local organizations. Each caucus member serves a two year term. It is the responsibility of the caucus to interview candidates and then make recommendations to the district voters.

Fire Extinguished

A car fire at 111 Dale Avenue in Prospect Heights was extinguished by the Prospect Heights Fire Department yesterday.

The car was parked on the street, out of service, when a neighbor noticed smoke escaping from under the hood. The neighbor contacted the fire department.

A spokesman for the department said the fire possibly was started by a short in the electrical wiring.

Dist. 21 Forms Citizens Group

Approximately 75 people have agreed to serve on citizens' committees to study various aspects of School Dist. 21 and to develop long range goals for the district.

The Rev. Noel Clark Holt, pastor of Kingswood United Methodist Church in Buffalo Grove, will serve as general chairman of the group, which is scheduled to gather data and make recommendations to the Dist. 21 school board in the spring. The group held its first organizational meeting last week.

Chairman of the various citizens subcommittees have also been selected.

Shirley Mueller of Wheeling will serve as chairman of the "Justice Under the Law" committee. Heading the "Vocational Education" committee will be James Graunke of Wheeling.

THE "DRUG USE AND Drug Abuse" committee will be headed by Gene Elmore of Buffalo Grove.

Leonard Presley, Dist. 21 art coordinator, will head the "Environmental Studies" committee and the "Extended School Year" committee will be headed by Kenneth Peterson of Arlington Heights.

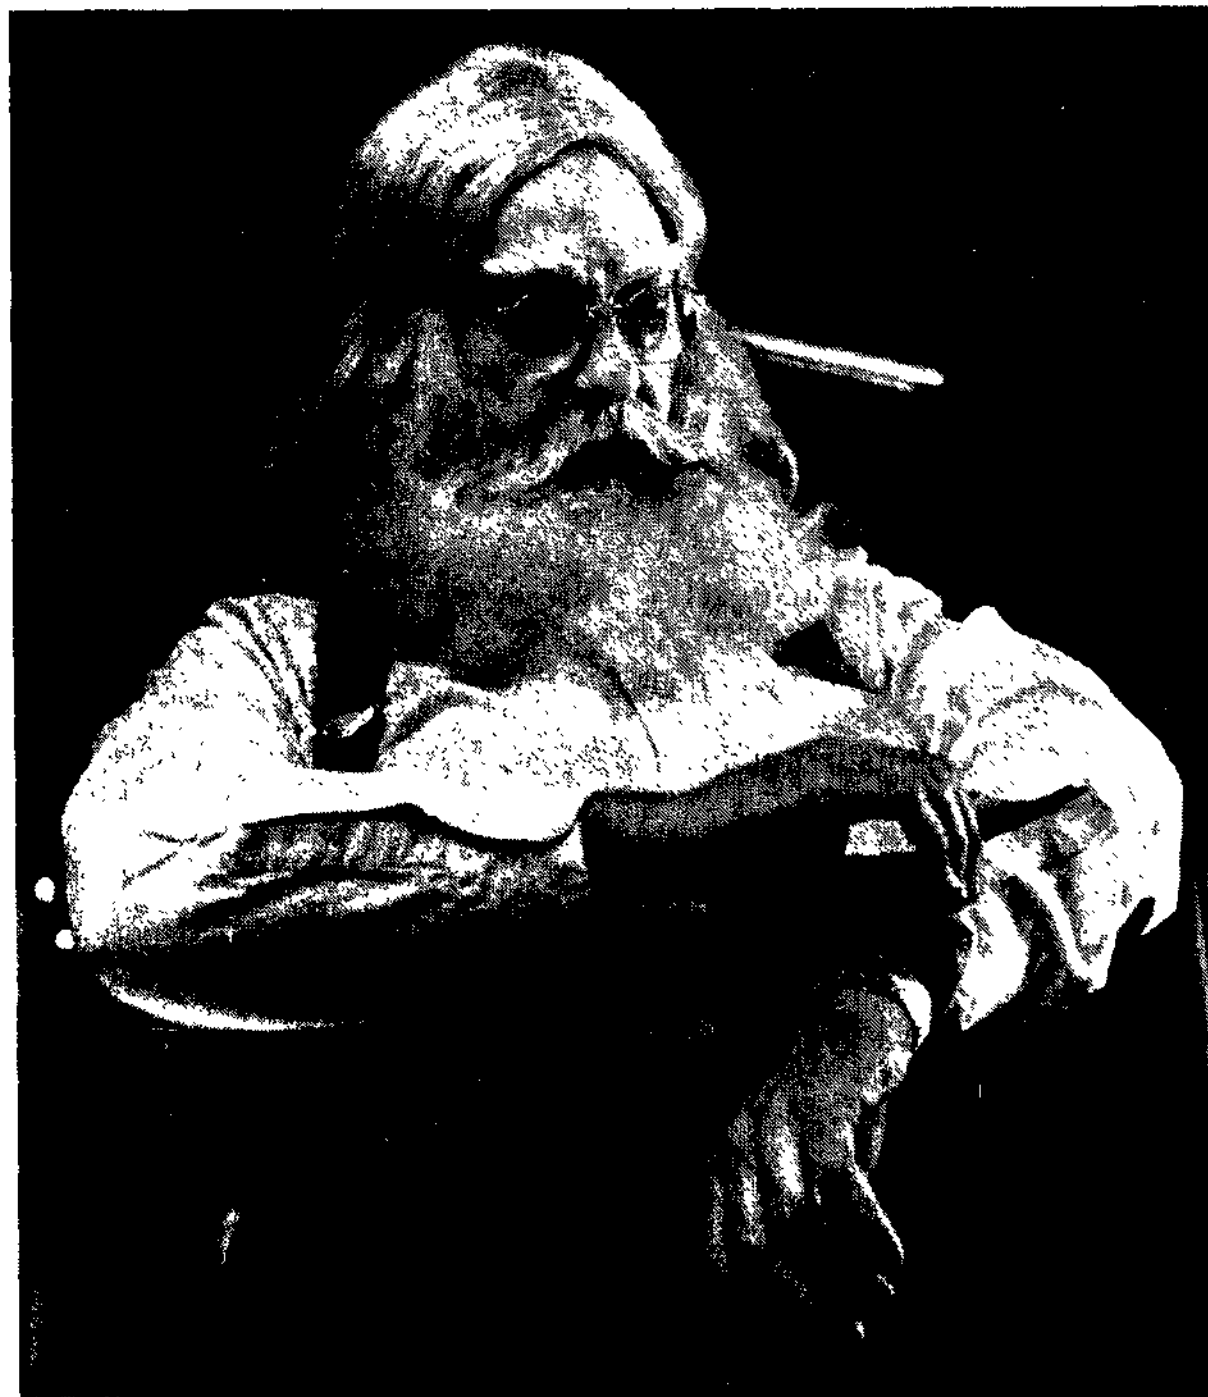

Richard Heinrich of Buffalo Grove will be the chairman of the "Projection of School Facility Needs" committee.

A chairman has not yet been chosen for the committee which will study "Community-School Programming."

Included on the various committees are school district administrators, PTA members, school board members, members of community organizations, clergymen and businessmen from the Dist. 21 attendance area.

FORMATION OF COMMITTEES to develop long-range goals for the school district was suggested earlier this fall by Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill.

Each subcommittee is scheduled to make a report on its progress periodically during the next four months, with a final report due from each subcommittee on May 6.

"NEARLY READY FOR a busy night . . ." Santa Claus (See more photos and story on Page 9, Section 2.) and his helpers will visit many homes this Christmas Eve.

Due to the Christmas holiday, Paddock Publications offices will be closed tomorrow, and will be open for business at 9 a.m. Monday. There will be no Friday paper.

The management and employees of Paddock Publications wish to all its readers and advertisers a safe and Merry Christmas.

Chemical NTA To Be Eliminated

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical, an Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent, Loft, will be discontinued next week, according to Sanford Arenberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers.

Runaway Bus Downs Pole, Cuts Power

About 5,000 homes in Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Mount Prospect went dark late Saturday night after a runaway bus knocked down a utility pole in Arlington Heights.

A spokesman for Commonwealth Edison said the power was lost at 10:07 p.m., for 43 minutes. He said the failure affected homes in the area bounded roughly by Arlington Heights, Palatine, Elmhurst (Rte. 83) and Kensington roads. Portions of the Randhurst area were also affected, the spokesman said.

Arlington Heights police said the power loss occurred after a bus, which was being towed, broke loose and knocked down a utility pole on Arlington Heights Road at Ivy Lane.

Marvin R. Widner, 31, of 407 W. Hackberry Dr., Arlington Heights, the driver of the towing vehicle, was charged in the incident. He is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Jan. 18.

Crossing Guard Gets Gifts From Children

Westbrook School crossing guard Elmer Reese had an early visit from Santa Claus yesterday afternoon.

Twenty-five children from the Central Woods area north of Central Road in Mount Prospect presented Reese with a light blue cardigan sweater, a blue sports shirt and a tie.

Instead of giving Reese the usual assortment of gifts, Mrs. Dorothy Pappas, 116 N. Waverly, organized a campaign to give one big gift from all the children.

According to a neighbor of Mrs. Pappas, Reese is a favorite with the children. He takes a personal interest in each child and makes sure they all get safely to and from school.

The children weren't the only ones giving gifts yesterday. Reese had a small bag of Christmas candy for each of the children.

Looking For A Special Kind Of Yule Gift?

by BHAD BREKKE

If you're looking for a special kind of gift, a Christmas puppy who won't be any bother.

Who won't chew on old socks and shoes.

Who won't need to be fed.

Who won't bark.

Who won't have an accident or two on your kitchen floor.

Who won't need attention.

Who won't need to be let outside on cold winter mornings...

BUY A STUFFED ONE!

But if you're ready for the responsibility of owning a dog, Christmas is a fine time to begin.

There are lots of cuddly, little fellows at this time of year just looking for a home. Warm, friendly pups with bright eyes, full bellies, wet noses, good appetites and waggly tails.

You just have to find them. But there are many places to look.

ONE SUCH PLACE is Kay's Animal Shelter in Arlington Heights.

The shelter, which is open from 1 to 5 p.m. on weekdays, usually has 35 to 40 dogs on hand to choose from. They are all types and all breeds: purebred, crossbred and mongrels.

If you select a Christmas puppy from the shelter, you must sign a contract in which you agree to take care of the animal for the rest of its life. If it is a female, you must agree to have her spayed. If she hasn't been already.

There is a nominal donation fee asked for sheltering the animal and it varies according to the breed, beginning at $10.

A spokesman for Kay's said their most popular dogs are medium-sized mixed breeds.

"THEY TEND TO be less nervous than purebreds and are more desirable for families that have small children and just want a dog," she said.

"Christmas isn't the best time of year for adoptions. Spring and summer are better for us, it seems, because the dogs can be out more and are easier to house-break then.

"We have everything here from pups to grown dogs, mixed breeds to setters, shepherds, boxers and beagles. The dogs come from local homes where they cannot stay, for one reason or another.

"Some people have allergies, some move to new homes out-of-state and some move to apartments where no pets are allowed.

"We have a good turnover in puppies here.

"One word of advice though; if you're giving a puppy for Christmas, it's best to give it a little before Christmas. There's so much excitement during the day anyway, that it may be too hard on the dog."

ANOTHER PLACE to look is in pet shops. There are several in the North-west suburbs that specialize in puppies.

Take Puppy Palace, for instance, located in the Northpoint Shopping Center on Rand Road in Arlington Heights.

They have a wide selection of breeds to choose from and the prices for AKC (American Kennel Club) registered pups range from $89 to $350. Dogs are sold with a 10-year guarantee and there are no mixed breeds for sale here.

Puppy Palace reports that this Christmas their most popular dogs have been Schnauzers, Poodles and Cocker Spaniels.

A spokesman for the shop said sales of puppies this Christmas have vastly improved over last year.

"People can buy dogs now and we'll hold them until Christmas Eve, if they like. We've had several persons come in early and order special breeds to be sure we had one for them at Christmas.

"PUPPIES AND KIDS play a lot and because most of our business is with families, it's important the buyer realizes that puppies need a lot of rest. If it's going to be a gift, it might be a little better if the pup could be given ahead of time, so he'll make the adjustment to his new home by Christmas Day."

He said Christmas is one of their busiest seasons, the other being spring.

"It's no harder to housetrain a dog in the winter than in the spring. You first have to paper train him and we have books and kits for that," he said.

Puppy Palace sells most of its dogs as pets, rather than as guard or gun dogs.

"WE WILL HELP a family make a choice regarding temperament, size, breed and color. Some of our customers have owned dogs before or have decided on a certain breed, though, and when they come in they have something specific in mind," he said.

Another pet shop specializing in puppies is the Docktor Pet Shop on Dempster Street in Park Ridge.

They have a large selection of puppies, all breeds, and report that this year their most popular animals have been Poodles, Basset Hounds, Huskies, Alaskan Malamutes and St. Bernards.

They said there was an even split in suburbanites between large dogs and medium-sized dogs.

Prices for their pups run from $49 to $400, all are AKC and sold with a guarantee.

They sell mostly to families and urge too that if the pup is to be a present, it is best to give it before Christmas.

"CHRISTMAS AND fall are our best seasons, although we do a good business all year. This is really a non-season business. If you buy a dog now, we'll hold it for you until the 24th," said the owner of the shop.

"Winter is a good time to buy a dog. The family operates a little closer because they are inside more of the time.

"We'll get a last minute rush from now until Christmas and then after Christmas too. Boys get money as presents and come here to buy a dog or a turtle or some kind of pet," he said.

This pet shop will sell you any kind of animal, within reason, even a baby elephant. Cost: $3,000 FOB. You must ship it home from Africa yourself.

They advertise it for the man who has everything.

"But we haven't had many calls for elephants lately," he said.

IF YOU'D rather, browse through the classified ad section of your local newspaper and you'll find a wide variety of pets and prices, perhaps just what you're looking for.

Most of the ads are from private breeders who are trying to sell a litter of pups they have raised from birth. They have both purebreds and mixed variety.

If you have already decided on what kind of dog you want, find out where the nearest kennel is that specializes in that type and go visit it. The dogs there are usually better than average specimens because the kennel owner's reputation depends on the quality of his dogs and the care he gives them. Also, you can choose from a litter and maybe even get to see the puppy's sire and dam, which will give you a pretty good idea how he will turn out.

THERE ARE, however, some simple rules to follow when buying a pooch.

—Buy from a reputable dealer, pet shop or kennel.

—Don't get pressured into buying a dog you don't want. A dog is an investment and will be around a good many years.

—Don't buy a dog out of sympathy because he looks sad or sick.

—Don't bargain with the dealer for a price. It's costing him money to care for and feed the animal.

—Don't buy a poor specimen. Get the best you can afford. You get what you pay for.

—Don't buy a puppy on impulse or you may regret it.

—If he has a pedigree, be sure you get papers to prove it. Find out if he has been wormed and has his puppy shots.

—If you can, have a veterinarian examine the dog before the final sale to be sure it is healthy.

Raid Home; 8 Jailed

by ROGER CAPETTINI

A daylight raid on the Arlington Heights home of a former Cook County Sheriff's policeman yesterday netted several thousand dollars worth of merchandise which police believe may be stolen goods.

More than a dozen Arlington Heights policemen, armed with a search warrant, staged the raid at the home of Arnold Dembinski, 29, of 1115 N. Dryden Ave., Arlington Heights.

During the raid police arrested Dembinski's wife, Gail, 28, and Stephen Melvin, 18, who lives at the same address.

Police confiscated a truckload of merchandise they found in the home during the search. Included among the merchandise were seven television sets, eight radios, wigs, tires, an outboard motor, assorted appliances, tear gas grenades and a large assortment of clothing.

ALSO CONFISCATED in the raid were a revolver, an automatic pistol, a shotgun and a quantity of marijuana, according to police.

Dembinski, who surrendered himself to police later in the afternoon, was charged with two counts of possession of stolen property, possession of marijuana, and illegal possession of firearms.

MRS. DEMBINSKI was charged with possession of stolen property and Melvin was charged with possession of stolen property and possession of marijuana. The three are scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 19.

The raid on the brick and stone split-level home followed the early morning arrest of three young men and a juvenile girl on charges of burglary.

Arlington Heights police said those four were first apprehended by Cook County Sheriff's police at the intersection of Rte. 83 and Willow Road in Prospect Heights at 2 a.m. yesterday.

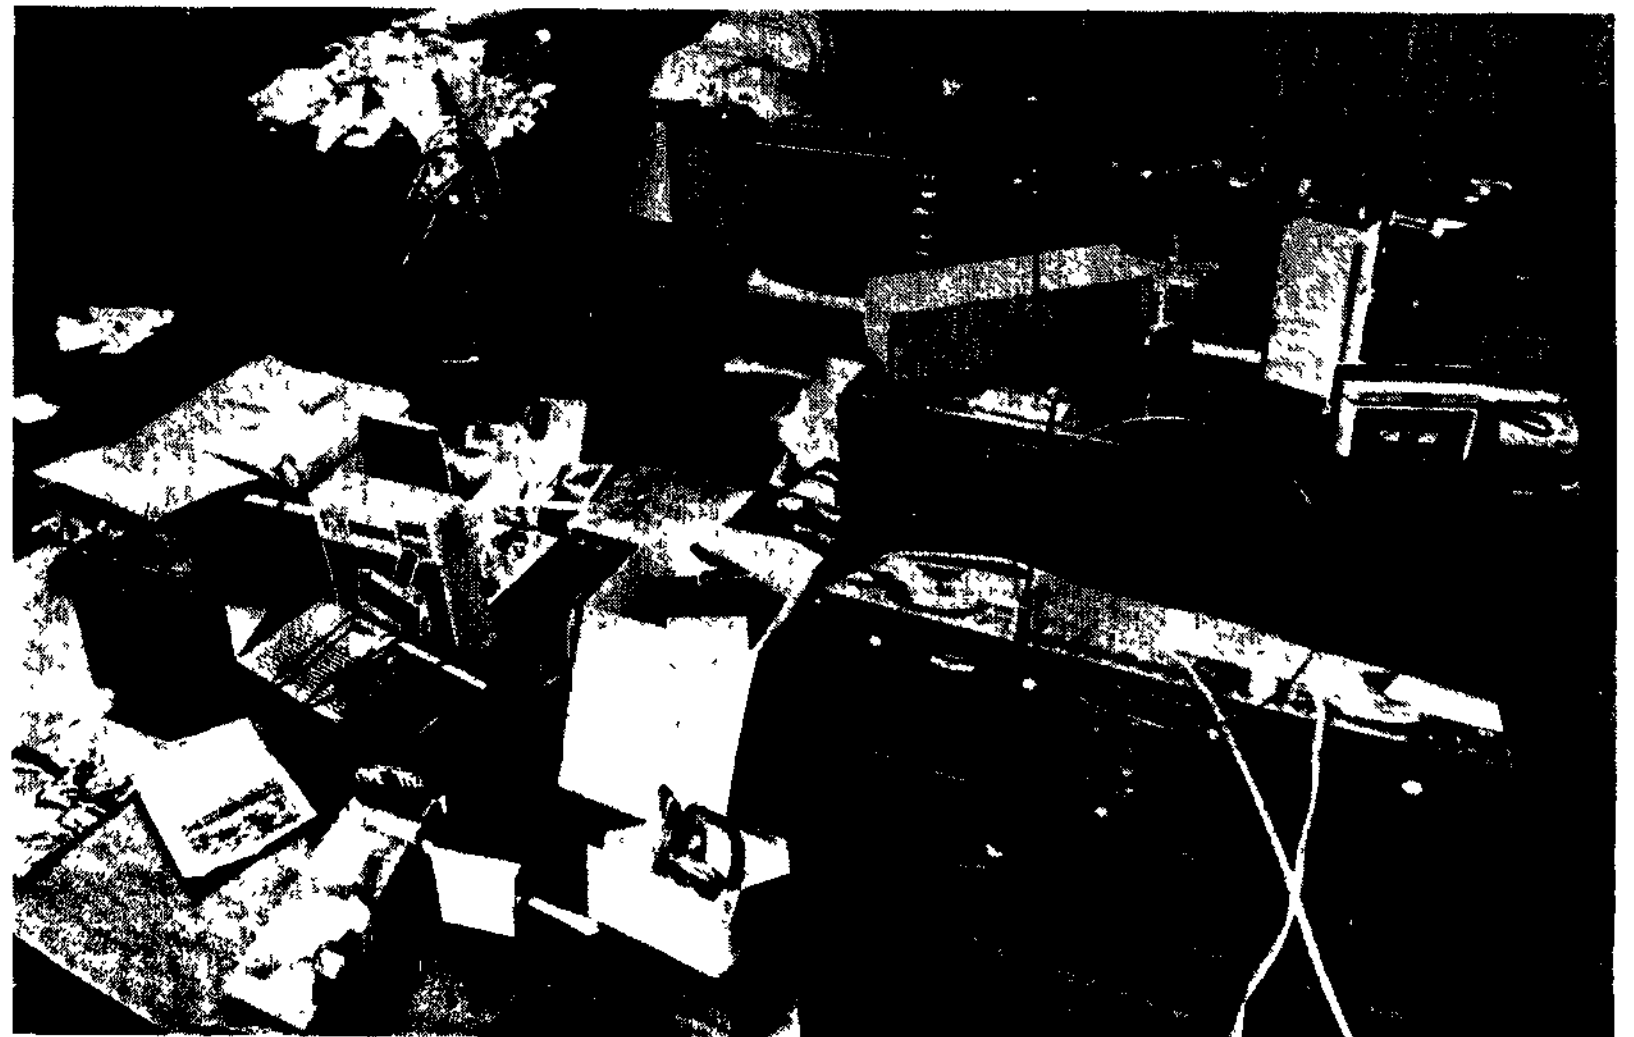

Arrested were: Allan Kruger, 21, of 2436 N. Surrey Ct., Chicago; Thomas Graham, 21, of the same address; Joe Gomes, 20, of 905 Alder, Mount Prospect; and the juvenile girl. They were charged with the burglary of the residence of Bruce Abdelhak, 1215 N. Waterman, Arlington Heights.

POLICE SAID they found a number of items in the car in which the four were riding that are believed to have been stolen from the apartment.

Kruger and Graham were transported to the Cook County jail after they were unable to post a $20,000 bond. Gomes was released on bond. They are also scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 19.

Police said a further investigation led them to the arrest of an eighth person, Daniel A. Endres, 19, of 2809 N. Elm St., Arlington Heights. Endres was charged with the burglary of a home in Half Day, Ill. He was being held late last night in lieu of $7,500 bond and is also scheduled to appear in court Feb. 19.

Police said their investigation into the incident is continuing.

SUSPECTED LOOT from thefts at Northwest suburban department stores cluttered the basement of the Arlington Heights Police Station yesterday, following a series of arrests in which detectives took at least six persons into custody. Most of the loot came from a raid on an Arlington Heights residence.

Mayor Asks $6,500 For Action Bill

Action Plan Gets Support

Mayor Robert Teichert asked the Mount Prospect Village Board Tuesday to pay a bill of $6,500 to Forest Hospital in Des Plaines for services provided by the hospital staff in connection with the Mayor's Plan for Action on drug use and abuse in the community.

Teichert's request will be reviewed by the board's judiciary committee next month. The committee will then submit its recommendation to the board.

The Mayor's Plan for Action is a 10-point program designed to cope with the problems of drug use and abuse in the village.

"This tab covers the cost of three all-day seminars held at Forest Hospital, seven months of work and planning sessions with Dr. Robert Willford of Forest Hospital and 12 months of meetings scheduled for the new year. Dr. Willford will serve as a consultant for the implementation of the program in the community," Teichert explained.

TEICHERT IS ASKING the board to approve this expenditure because the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (ILEC) turned down his request for funding of the project. Teichert told the board the grant was denied because the "ILEC is unable to fund the program because it is directed more toward prevention and public education than toward the training of a specific group for total responsibility in drug education."

Although the Cook County Law Enforcement Commission approved the grant, the ILEC denied it. The ILEC also turned down an application from the Village of Arlington Heights for funding of its drug program. Arlington Heights is also working with Willford and the staff at Forest Hospital.

"We had all thought we'd get funding from the state. The board's been following the progress of the plan for action program since its inception, and the trustees approved the thrust of the idea and the concept of the program then. So, I don't think there'll be any problem over the ratification of this expenditure," Teichert said.

He told the board the ILEC turned down the request because the project is not within the commission's scope of activities, the program is too expensive for the amount of personnel training involved in the project and the program was launched before the grant was submitted to the commission.

THE COMMISSION apparently doesn't fund projects already underway. This is the bugaboo in seeking state and

About 100 youths and adults attended a Mount Prospect Village Board meeting Tuesday night to indicate their support for Mayor Robert Teichert's Plan for Action on the problems of drug use and abuse in the community.

Many of them were members of the Plan for Action Committee, which drafted the 10-point program for the community. Some were residents interested enough in the program to lend support to the committee's presentation of the project to village trustees.

Kenneth Scholten, coordinator of the Plan for Action Committee, asked the village board to endorse the 10-point plan and its operation in the community. Village trustees will study the details of the program and then report out on the issue following additional study and a recommendation by the board's health and safety committee.

The Plan for Action Committee of more than 100 community leaders, representatives and students drafted the 10-point plan designed to cope with the problems of drug use and abuse in the village.

THE PLAN CALLS for the establishment of a telephone "hot line," youth association, community education program, a communications network, drug information center, police youth program, community newspaper and three school drug education programs.

"Although we're asking the village board to endorse the program and appropriate funds for the projects, the plan will be implemented in the community by the community. We want to enlist help from everyone in the village — such as the Lions Club, Rotary, Jaycees, the park district, women's clubs and school districts. We want these organizations to underwrite one of the 10 programs and then help implement it," Scholten explained.

federal funding because you can't keep postponing and delaying projects for one or two years until all the red tape is cleared. You can't postpone the project and you can't get funding if the project is underway," Teichert said.

Chemical NTA To Be Eliminated

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical, an Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent, Loft, will be discontinued next week, according to Sanford Arenberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers.

ARENBERG SAID that his firm had planned to discontinue the use of NTA before the announcement was made.

A natural soap and polyelectrolytes will be used as a substitute for the chemical, and production of Loft will continue on schedule, he said.

Loft has been on the market for two months as a phosphate-free detergent. Distribution of the product is through local dairies, including Modern Dairy Co., and Arlington Milk, Inc., as well as hardware stores and franchise operations.

Arenberg said that Loft has had more than 2,500 customers in the last two months from the two Arlington Heights dairies.

CHILDREN OF Maryville Academy in Des Plaines were treated to a Christmas party Tuesday afternoon by the teen fashion board of Montgomery Ward at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect. The party included a performance by "Disney On Parade," Santa Claus, gifts, games and refreshments.

Two Killed In Two Accidents

Two persons were killed Tuesday night in separate auto accidents in the area.

Mrs. Idelle L. Michaelson, 35, of 717 Highland Ave., Elgin, has been identified as the victim of a fatal accident at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hoffman Estates at Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Robert K. Boyd, 32, of 900 Parkview Ln., Des Plaines, died in Sherman Hospital, Elgin, shortly after an accident on Lake Street near Elgin.

Mrs. Michaelson was a passenger in an auto driven by Nancy K. Radeloff, 42, of 141 Washington, Carpentersville. Mrs. Radeloff is in fair condition in Sherman Hospital with fractured ribs she sustained in the accident. She has been charged with failure to yield the right-of-way after stopping at a stop sign, and is to appear Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court.

THE RADELLOFF auto was struck on the right side by a car driven by Richard M. Mattes, 18, of 214 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates, Hoffman Estates Police reported. Mattes was treated for nose cuts and released the same night from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Police said Mattes was driving northbound on Barrington Road when Mrs. Radeloff's auto crossed in front of him, headed eastbound from Shoe Factory Road to the entrance of eastbound Northwest Tollway traffic. After impact, the Radeloff auto went over the entrance ramp guardrail and stopped in a grassy area northeast of the corner of the ramp and Barrington Road.

An inquest by the Cook County Coroner's office was to have been scheduled to determine the cause of Mrs. Michaelson's death.

Dist. 3 State Police investigating Mr. Boyd's accident near Elgin said he was driving eastbound on Lake Street at about 7:20 p.m., and apparently lost control of his car. It crossed the center line and moved into the westbound traffic lane, police said.

Boyd's auto struck a westbound auto carrier truck driven by Kenneth J. Wonicke, 1444 S. Oakhill, Janesville, Wis.

Bartlett police assisted in the investigation.

Parks Winter Brochure Readied

The new winter brochure describing activities sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District will be sent home with school children when classes resume after Christmas vacation.

The park district will include a coupon in the brochures to allow residents to register by mail. Previously, residents were required to register in person at the park district's administration office.

The park district is issuing the updated brochure to publicize on-going programs and new programs which will be offered beginning in January and February, according to Christopher Edginton, recreation supervisor for the park district.

In previous years, the park district has issued only one brochure in early fall for the entire fall and winter programs.

THE NEW BROCHURE includes new activities such as a baton twirlers' club, a candle making class, cooking classes for boys, a home furnishings workshop, handicrafts for service organization leaders, and a program entitled "A Saturday Night Out on the Town."

The park district's own baton corps will be dubbed the "Young Sophis-

Mothers Get Yule Chuckles

Mothers of children in the third grade class of Mrs. Gertrude Ritchey, Dryden School, got chuckles for Christmas.

Each pint-sized Clement Moore brought home a construction-paper bound "volume" of original Christmas poetry as their gifts to their parents.

The following are three excerpts from these 8-year-olds' poetic repertoire.

Merry Christmas From . . .

IN THE SPIRIT of Christmas the Herald staff has compiled a list of gifts for the most deserving persons in the village, based on their accomplishments this year. The gifts are:

TO GEORGE BURLINGAME, village trustee who recommended reporting a member of the Concerned Metropolitan Citizens to the FBI, his own army intelligence agent.

TO MICHAEL MURRAY, defender of the Greater Eastwood homeowners against apartments on the Victorian land a single family low-income housing development.

TO HOWARD KAMAY, ally of Murray's and president of Arlington Estates homeowners association a key to a secret meeting room for Caucus business.

TO THE CONCERNED METROPOLITAN CITIZENS, a mimeograph machine for position statements on the Victorian issue.

TO JACK WALSH, village president, for his interest in the moderate-income development proposed by Kenroy, a street named "Walsh Way" in the new development.

TO HAROLD KLINGNER, chairman of BOLI and member of the Plan Commission exclusive control of a new village that has no sidewalks, unlimited special assessments and mute residents.

TO DAVE PATRISON, ALICE HARMS AND MARY SCHLOTT, politically active village residents, three seats on the village board.

TO JAMES T. RYAN, village trustee for reelection, his very own Caucus, so he will be sure to be slated.

TO CHUCK BENNETT, village trustee and Prospect High School rooster, a season pass to Arlington High School football games.

TO DWIGHT WALTON, the trustee who broke his leg when reportedly tackled by an irate citizen, a cozy sock to cover his bare toes.

TO THE PLAN COMMISSION, a calendar with six Wednesdays every month so they can catch up on the backlog of hearings.

TO THE SAFETY COMMISSION, four new members so one of them can be absent without losing a quorum.

TO CAPT. JACK ALDRICH of the Arlington Heights Police Department, name tags for his twelve kids.

TO CAPT. JOHN HAYDEN, called by Fire Chief Harvey Carruthers the ugliest fire inspector in Cook County, a Richard Nixon face mask — at least it will be some improvement.

TO THE PARK DISTRICT the same present as last year — annexation of Arlington Park.

TO DONALD STRONG, superintendent of School Dist. 25 who will lead the fight for a referendum next spring, a kidney transplant to prepare him for all the coffee he will drink with citizens through the campaign.

TO THE DIST. 25 SCHOOL BOARD, an industrial park within the district to generate a large amount of tax revenue.

TO THE HIGH SCHOOL DIST. 214 BOARD, a little impartiality for making decisions on school boundaries.

TO KENROY, developers of the proposed moderate-income housing project in north Arlington Heights, a railroad station and a school for the residents.

TO RESIDENTS OF SCARSDALE, inclusion in the Rolling Meadows High School boundaries so the kids can walk to school on their new sidewalks.

TO DOUGLAS DODDS, president of the First Arlington National Bank and a leading opponent to most changes in the downtown traffic pattern, one-way signs that lead only to his bank during banking hours.

TO AL LINDSEY, chairman of the candidate screening committee of the caucus, a definition of spot zoning.

TO THE VILLAGE, a new major north-south street that serves everyone and does not come near housing or schools.

TO JACK SIEGEL, village attorney who reported at the last meeting on election precincts, the missing precinct 28 he has been looking for.

TO EUGENIA CHAPMAN, the only Democratic state representative in the district, single-member election districts so the Republicans must challenge her directly.

TO ARLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL a short-haired homecoming king.

TO TOM HANLON, a former village board member, a mandate from the people.

TO PHIL LEVIN, whose financial affairs were investigated by the Illinois Racing Commission this year, appointment as chairman of the commission.

TO GENE SCHLICKMAN, state representative, some definite answers to questions.

TO BUFFALO GROVE, their own landfill and a large fan to blow garbage into Arlington Heights.

TO THE HERALD, an unlisted phone number for people who try to return these gifts.

Holiday Brings Brothers Together

by JIM HODL

After 47 years, two brothers were reunited in Palatine Monday. Gottfrid Wikman, 325 N. Mozart St., met his brother Edwin, who came from Sweden to visit his relatives for Christmas.

Wikman had not seen his brother since he immigrated to America in 1923. His brother, who remained in Sweden, was eight years old at the time.

"This is the best Christmas present I could have," Wikman said yesterday. "I have had no better gift in my entire life."

Wikman's brother is visiting America for two weeks to visit his relatives, most of whom he has never met. Wikman and his wife have five children, 22 grandchildren and are expecting great-grandchildren in a few years.

On Christmas Eve, Edwin and his wife Greta will have dinner at Wikman's daughter Ruth's home in Lake Mills, Wis.

EDWIN COMES FROM Alingsås, a town near Sweden's port city of Gothenburg. He is a civilian designer for a company related to the Volvo automobile company. He designs hoists, cranes, hydraulic lifts and half-track trucks.

Edwin was happy to meet his brother again too. He said he felt welcomed when he was greeted by Wikman and his wife at O'Hare Airport Monday.

Edwin's wife Greta said she was happy to meet Wikman and his wife too. This was the first time the Wikman's wives met each other or their brother-in-laws.

Edwin said he enjoyed Palatine because it was so quiet. He expressed a liking for America because of its traffic. "Traffic here is not like in Sweden. In Sweden, the traffic is crazy and goes very fast while American traffic goes at a much more moderate and orderly pace," he said.

Wikman is a builder and a decorator and has lived in Palatine for some time.

Two Killed In Two Accidents

Two persons were killed Tuesday night in separate auto accidents in the area.

Mrs. Idelle L. Michelson, 35, of 717 Highland Ave., Elgin, has been identified as the victim of a fatal accident at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Hoffman Estates at Barrington Road and the Northwest Tollway.

Robert K. Boyd, 32, of 980 Parkview Ln., Des Plaines, died in Sherman Hospital, Elgin, shortly after an accident on Lake Street near Elgin.

Mrs. Michelson was a passenger in an auto driven by Nancy K. Radeloff, 42, of 141 Washington, Carpentersville. Mrs. Radeloff is in fair condition in Sherman Hospital with fractured ribs she sustained in the accident. She has been charged with failure to yield the right-of-way after stopping at a stop sign, and is to appear Feb. 19 in Schaumburg Court.

THE RADELOFF auto was struck on the right side by a car driven by Richard M. Mattes, 18, of 214 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates, Hoffman Estates Police reported. Mattes was treated for nose cuts and released the same night from St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

Police said Mattes was driving northbound on Barrington Road when Mrs. Radeloff's auto crossed in front of him, headed eastbound from Shoe Factory Road to the entrance of eastbound Northwest Tollway traffic. After impact, the Radeloff auto went over the entrance ramp guardrail and stopped in a grassy area northeast of the corner of the ramp and Barrington Road.

An inquest by the Cook County Coroner's office was to have been scheduled to determine the cause of Mrs. Michelson's death.

Dist. 3 State Police investigating Mr. Boyd's accident near Elgin said he was driving eastbound on Lake Street at about 7:20 p.m., and apparently lost control of his car. It crossed the center line and moved into the westbound traffic lane, police said.

Boyd's auto struck a westbound auto carrier truck driven by Kenneth J. Wozick, 1444 S. Oakhill, Janesville, Wis.

Bartlett police assisted in the investigation.

Chemical NTA To Be Eliminated

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical, an Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent, Loft, will be discontinued next week, according to Sanford Arenberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers.

ARENBERG SAID that his firm had planned to discontinue the use of NTA before the announcement was made.

A natural soap and polyelectrolytes will be used as a substitute for the chemical, and production of Loft will continue on schedule, he said.

Loft has been on the market for two months as a phosphate-free detergent. Distribution of the product is through local dairies, including Modern Dairy Co., and Arlington Milk, Inc., as well as hardware stores and franchise operations.

Arenberg said that Loft has had more than 2,500 customers in the last two months from the two Arlington Heights dairies.

Young People Voice Voting Age Opinions

The recent U.S. Supreme Court decision to lower the voting age in Federal elections has drawn mixed reactions from Des Plaines young people, though most say they will register to vote, according to a Herald/Day poll.

The Supreme Court decided Monday by a 5-4 vote to uphold the constitutionality of some sections of the Voting Rights Act of 1970. The High Court ruled against extending the voting right in state and local elections.

The court decision came a week after defeat statewide of extension of the vote, as part of the new Illinois Constitution. In Maine Township, voters rejected the change by a narrow margin, 13,300 to 12,763, according to Nicolas Blase, Maine Twp. Democratic Committeeman.

Even before the recent court decision, Des Plaines 18 to 20-year-olds had responded to Cook County decisions to allow registration. About 1,000 Des Plaines young people had registered this summer, according to Mrs. Eleanor Rohrbach, Des Plaines city clerk.

BEFORE THEIR campaign to pass the new state charter, the League of Women Voters in Des Plaines debated the pros and cons of the 18-year-old vote, and a majority of the 80 member organization favored the vote extension, according to Mrs. Robert Gay, league president.

Mrs. Gay said that response to league speeches on the vote had been favorable. The league recently lowered its membership age requirements to 18, she said.

Though opinion varied among those Des Plaines young people interviewed, most said they would register to vote.

Kevin Hempel, 18, of 2025 Laura, Des Plaines, said he felt that lowering the voting age was "a good move." He said he would register.

Hempel, who is the chief editor of the Oakton Community College newspaper, said he didn't think lowering the voting age would have much of an impact on elections. The average voting age would only be reduced from 47 years to 43 years, he said.

ACCORDING TO Charles Powers, who teaches a current events course at Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, the majority of young people in his class favor the lowered voting age.

He thinks that young people today are better informed than the previous generation, because of the increased contact with news media. However, he said, this doesn't mean they would be able to make objective decisions.

He feels that the young people who get to vote will reflect the same voting patterns as their parents — with some taking an active interest and others not bothering to vote.

Chris DeVoney, 17, of 2709 Scott, Des Plaines has been in favor of the 18-year-old vote, and has supported it as president of the Maine Township Teenage Democrats.

He feels that 18-year-olds are as well educated today as were college students 10 years ago. They pay taxes and deserve representation, he said.

ANOTHER MAINE West student, Dan Doerschner, of 1440 Orchard, Des Plaines, president of the Teenage Republican Organization of Maine Township, disagrees with DeVoney.

He feels that 18-year-olds are not mature enough to vote. "They can be swayed too easily," he feels that young people don't understand that a politician can be untruthful.

The Rev. Richard Smith, director of the Place for People drop-in youth center in Des Plaines, feels the lowered voting age might have a favorable effect on national politics. But most of the teens who attend the center call themselves "longhairs" or "hippies" and have been working hard to raise money for the informal center.

"They don't see the vote as applying to their lives. They put it in the same bag with the system."

Most of the youths at the center are younger than 18, and they aren't too directly affected. The real focus will be on college-age students, he said.

BOB ROSCHKE, 17, of 372 Stratford Ln., Des Plaines, summed up what a participate in the center are "apolitical" and not enthusiastic about the change, he said.

Most of those contacted said about the lowered voting age.

Roschke, who has organized a student group to examine social issues, feels the lowered voting age is "basically an improvement."

"But I feel the way politics is working today, it won't make that much difference, unless a change is made in politics as a whole. The machine is hard to fight, no matter who's voting," he said.

"I'd like to see better candidates. It doesn't matter if you vote if there is no real choice in candidates."

"But I plan to register."

MRS. STEPHEN DUERKOP makes a last minute adjustment on her table centerpiece in preparation for a Christmas Home Walk. See Section 2, Page 1.

by KAREN RUGEN

It's "Peace On Earth Good Will Towards Men" time again.

People talk a lot about peace on earth, especially during the holidays but events indicate the world won't find peace this Christmas. Some Des Plaines residents polled at random by the Herald/Day think the situation will be the same every holiday season. Others were more optimistic and hope to see men eventually at peace with each other.

"Everybody hopes for peace on earth," said Mrs. Hyman Rosenberg of Twin Oaks Lane. "Maybe someday we will have it but probably not in our time."

Shrine Club Names Connell

The Maine Shrine Club has elected Timothy A. Connell, 10 W. Dover Drive, Des Plaines, as its president for 1971. Connell, who became a Master Mason in 1944 and a Shriner the same year has held numerous offices.

He is presently district deputy for the Order of DeMolay, was Cook County Commander of Amvets in 1956-57, President of the Devonshire PTA, Member of Loyal Lodge 1007, Scottish Rite, Member of Medinah De Molay Committee, Guardian Treasurer of Bethel 105 Des Plaines.

Connell has been employed since 1958 with the American Medical Assn. Connell's officers for 1971 will be: Carl Hartley, 1st vice president; Henry Hoover, Jr. of Des Plaines, 2nd vice president; John Nelson, financial director; Tom Carr, recording secretary; and Ed Rusin, treasurer.

Mrs. Rosenberg thinks each individual could help find peace "if everybody loved each other a little bit more and didn't always find wrong with each other."

MRS. JERALD STOKEN of Dee Road agrees. "I think we can find peace if we can all work together and learn how to get along with each other." She thinks peace is "on the uprise right now" and that it will exist in her lifetime.

According to Mrs. Stoken, "love and understanding in the home, school, church and in the everyday walk of life" will lead to peace. "If we can have peace in our own homes and show love to our children so they can learn what it is and how to cope with it, there is hope for peace," she said.

Mrs. Elmer Baker of Sprucewood Avenue said the world eventually has to have peace. "It has to go that way; it can't get any worse," she said. "There needs to be some earnest talk and a getting down to things. It will have to come from the heart instead of from bickering all the time around a table."

"I do a lot of praying," said Mrs. Baker and thinks praying would help the world find peace. "It should help because the good Lord listens to everybody," she said.

MRS. BURT WEISBERG of Hamlin Avenue is not as hopeful. "I'd love to see peace but I have a strange feeling there will always be a country at war sometime," she said. "Thinking way past my lifetime I would like to think there will be a peaceful situation."

To have peace, Mrs. Weisberg said people have to have "faith in whoever is running our country at the time. And maybe if you have peace with the neighbors around you, one peaceful situation will lead to the next."

"Peace sounds nice but I don't really ever think we will have it," said Mrs. Dennis Ferson of N. Cora Street. "We've had thousands and thousands of years and it hasn't come about yet. People just can't seem to settle their differences. They always have to war."

MRS. FERSON THINKS peace is the trend now. "Everybody is shouting peace! Peace!" she said. "Peace has always been around but has been emphasized more in the last few years."

Peace is "an impossible dream" to Mrs. George A. Hayes of Pearl Drive. "There are so many good, wonderful people but so many who just don't give a darn," she said. "It would take a terrible national tragedy to bring these people together but I would hate to see that happen."

Mrs. Hayes thinks individuals can help find peace by "practicing the golden rule and by teaching your children to love everyone regardless of color, creed or nationality. If each home could straighten themselves out it would certainly be a big step."

"Finding peace within ourselves and trying to spread it to family and friends in our own way" would help the cause for world peace, according to Mrs. Richard Palumbo of Parkwood Lane.

"WE CAN FIND PEACE only if man can find peace in his own heart," she said. "But this seems like an almost impossible task. Peace on earth would be too idealistic. There always has to be some challenge for man to overcome."

"We are progressing a little too fast to find peace," said Mrs. David Kerr of Locust Street. "Look at how long China has been fighting. I hope we will but I don't think we will ever have a complete peace on earth."

Mrs. Kerr said she didn't have a solution for finding peace but thinks "if everybody did their share" it would help. "If the government would give some sort of suggestion to us, then we could carry it out," she said. "And more people should go to church."

"People are just pushing peace at Christmas time," Mrs. Kerr said. "I think it should be practiced all year round."

The Winning Essay

This essay, "Turn On, Turn Off, Together," was written by Diane Gatsis, a Maine West High School student who received first prize in a contest sponsored by the City of Des Plaines and the Des Plaines Optimists. Diane participated in the Youth Appreciation week activities last month.

by DIANE GATSI

On Saturday, Nov. 7, I found myself in a room full of people. People of my own age, some older, some which I knew, but for the most part, ones which I never saw before. We were all brought together to participate in Youth Appreciation Week.

At first I was uncomfortable and even a little nervous. I did not know what to expect from the people on the program.

But, as each minute passed, I found myself relaxing while just being myself. It was surprising how we all hit it off together. We were a group of people learning things we never knew about and enjoying it as we learned.

As we visited the different city facilities, such as the fire and police departments, we learned how much we really did not know about the service the city has. We saw that each person had a responsibility to his job as well as to himself.

Whenever you wanted to know something, whether it was from another teenager or adult, he was always willing to explain, and answer questions, so you would understand it better. The city officials never hesitated to answer questions and always asked if we had any. In fact, they asked us as many questions as we asked them.

ONE OF THE UNIQUE experiences I had was the group itself. It was surprising how we related to each other. Everytime we were on the bus there were at least one or two discussions going on. We discussed everything from religion and school to politics. Even the adults added their feelings and opinions. If there is a generation gap it certainly was not felt then.

Another thing that impressed me was the city's attitude towards its youth. The officials were anxious, as we were of them, to learn our feelings, and opinions about anything and everything. That is why it was no surprise when they asked for volunteers to serve on a youth advisory committee.

At many times there is a generation gap. Each group has their own feelings and views on life, and sometimes you just cannot accept the other person's view. But, if you are willing to listen and learn from each other, as we did during Youth Appreciation Week, that gap grows smaller and smaller and soon disappears. That is when you look at a person for his views and not his age. Turn on, turn off together is the way it has to be.

Xerox Sponsors Party For Orphans

The O'Hare Branch of Xerox Corp., 3000 Des Plaines Ave., celebrated its first Christmas Saturday by sponsoring a party for 48 orphans from Angel of the Guardian Orphanage in Chicago.

According to Sue Hughes, who was in charge of the party, over $500 was donated to finance the party and each of the orphans received several gifts.

A soft drink distributor contributed cokes and a bus driver, who said he was a former orphan, donated his time to transport the youngsters.

A customer, learning of the party, contributed 50 electric toy sewing machines which were distributed to the older girls at the party.

Mrs. Hughes said the O'Hare branch hopes to do something for the orphans each month. "We'd like to contribute something all year round because orphans are bombarded at Christmas and then people forget them," she said.

No matter how hard we try to commercialize it, Christmas remains the celebration of the birth of Christ. The presents, the decorations, the feasting and the visit from Santa are all integral parts of this holiday celebration. But pause for a moment at some time to consider the true significance of Christmas.

No matter what your faith — or lack of it — the precepts set forth by Christ should rule our lives: Love, peace, brotherhood, forgiveness. How can anyone argue otherwise?

May peace come this year. Way back in those days of creative writing classes I was taught that there are only three types of conflict that exist: man against man, man against his environment, and man against himself. It is interesting that each conflict begins with a single man.

Maybe man can begin by making peace with himself. Each individual can take it upon himself to make peace with his enrichment and stop violating it with apathy. And with others' Love, brotherhood and forgiveness pave the road to peace.

"In Palestine, more than two thousand years ago," the Hanukkah story goes, "a band of religious freedom fighters triumphed over the mighty Syrian Roman empire's armies and won back their right to worship God in their own way, in their own temple."

"An edict had come down from the king," explained Rabbi Jay Karzen of the Maine Township Jewish Congregation in Des Plaines, "that the only place of worship the Jews in Palestine had was to be destroyed. So the temple was taken over and idols were placed inside and the House of God was desecrated."

But there was a group of zealots, according to Rabbi Karzen, who would not accept this religious genocide. "They formed an underground movement called the Macabees. Their leader was a man named Judah, who guided them in war and they won back their temple."

The Jews were then faced with rededicating their temple. "Hanukkah means rededication," the Rabbi explained on the first day of the holiday Tuesday night. "This holiday celebrates that rededication. Now, according to tradition there is an eternal light which must always be lit in the House of God. It's a symbol of God's everpresence — it reminds us that God is always home. This light was destroyed by the enemy and the Jews had to rekindle it in order to rededicate their temple."

But they had only one jug of undefiled oil. The oil could last only one day and it would take eight days for the rabbis to make new oil.

"THE QUESTION was," Rabbi Karzen continued, "whether to immediately kindle the oil knowing it wouldn't last long enough to insure the continual burning of the lamp or to wait until they made new oil. They wanted to show God they were anxious to rededicate their temple so they chose to burn the oil."

A great miracle happened then and the oil lasted for eight days and the light became eternal. "Now we celebrate that miracle by lighting one candle each night for eight nights to show an additional miracle was added each night the oil lasted."

"The miracle which is often overlooked," the Rabbi continued, "is that this little group of Macabees defeated a huge and powerful army. But we don't celebrate this because the Jewish concept is not to glorify war. Death and killing are repugnant to us so we never celebrate it."

Hanukkah is the Feast of Light — a holiday of religious freedom. Proof that a minority — like the Macabees — could be right.

And tonight once again as they have done for thousands of years, Jews all over the world will light a candle in commemoration of the miracles of Hanukkah.

HANUKKAH — The Feast of Lights — is now being celebrated by Jews all over the world. Candles are lit every night for eight nights to commemorate a miracle which happened over 2,000 years ago in Palestine.

Rabbi Jay Karzen of Maine Township Jewish Congregation in Des Plaines lights the traditional eight branch Menorah. Paul Frankel, 12, and Richard Berk, 12, both of Des Plaines, look on.

'Special' Turkeys Will Be Served

Christmas has always been a time for celebrating with one's family at home and most Des Plaines families will be fortunate enough to spend many hours together Christmas Day.

But even on Christmas there will be patients in hospitals and people working to take care of them. There will be policemen on the streets and firemen on duty.

Patients at Holy Family Hospital will be served special holiday dinners tomorrow. They will also get candy canes and favors on their dinner trays.

Special Christmas church services will be held at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge and the traditional holiday turkey dinner will be served to patients and employees. Patients will also have specially decorated place mats and napkins. Santa Claus will visit with children in the hospital's pediatric ward. Both hospitals have had carolers all week.

RESIDENTS OF Brookwood Convalescent Center will have a Christmas party tomorrow and they will receive special gifts donated by All State Insurance Co. and the administration of the center. They will also have a special Christmas dinner.

Forest Hospital will hold a Christmas eve social tonight for patients and their families. The social will include a discussion on the meaning of Christmas.

Forest Hospital staff and patients will go caroling through the hospital on Christmas Day, and there will be a family dinner for staff and patients.

On Christmas night patients with passes and their families will be guests of the Old Orchard Country Club and will see their evening performance of "The Little Hut."

Christmas Eve is traditionally one of the busiest days of the year for Des Plaines police according to Capt. Dale Mensching, but Christmas Day is very quiet and department will operate with a minimal number of men.

Firemen will also be on regular duty but their Christmas treat will come with their dinners specially prepared by themselves.

Maine West Student Wins Essay Contest

A Maine West High School student has won a portable typewriter for her essay on Youth Appreciation Week.

Diane Gatus, of 2424 Plainfield, was one of four winners of an essay contest sponsored by the City of Des Plaines and the Des Plaines Optimists.

The winners participated in activities last November in which they attended city council meetings, inspected city health and safety facilities, and toured the state capitol.

Other winners were Suzanne Bednarz, 1031 Greenview, Frances Tierney, 930 Warrington, and Frances Kuecker, 1405 Oxford. All three received unabridged dictionaries.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH in Des Plaines is ready for tonight's Midnight Mass and Christmas services. The church, at 800 Pearson St., was finished just in time for the holidays after 13 months of construction. The modern, 11,000 square foot structure which has a seating capacity of 900 persons, was built at a cost of $600,000. Rev. Martin W. Farrell is pastor.

Crisis Center Top Project

A 24-hour emergency referral service for Maine Township residents in crisis was listed as his top-priority project by Dr. Edward Baranowski, new executive director of the Maine Township Mental Health Center, 1032 Lee St. Des Plaines.

Baranowski discussed his plan with the board of directors of the Maine Township Mental Health Association which operates the center.

He did not predict when the service would begin but indicated it was badly needed and would be implemented as soon as it could be done so properly.

For after-hours calls, he said, the center would engage an answering service. Those manning the telephone would be carefully trained in dealing with callers who may be emotionally disturbed.

The answering service would be equipped with listings of appropriate professionals who had agreed to be on call during scheduled times.

A volunteer at the center or the center's own staff would handle calls during regular daytime hours.

An immediate referral could be made, or an appointment could be set, depending on the urgency of the problem, he said.

"This 24-hour emergency service would be offered to those of all ages with a variety of problems," Baranowski stated.

"I anticipate we can begin seeking professional cooperation and setting up the mechanics as soon as we can arrange with some local hospital to provide a bed whenever needed. We cannot go ahead without such an arrangement. We do not want to start without being able to offer complete service from the beginning."

The executive director presented the plan as a part of his first report after assuming full-time duties Dec. 1. Board members were enthusiastic and urged Baranowski to proceed as rapidly as possible.

He said the mental health center's emergency referral service would not be a duplication of the township "Hotline" recently initiated by a cooperative effort of the coordinating councils on Youth of Des Plaines and Park Ridge, a program completely autonomous from the mental health agency.

"The Hotline's emphasis recently has been strictly on youth and seems to focus on drug abuse and related problems," he said. "We would urge any local person — regardless of age — to call our service. We do not plan to stress any one problem related to mental health."

"But the most significant distinction is our referral purpose. We would have a professional support team ready to give service. This is not the function Hotline fills; it is more in the nature of a 'friendly ear,' which, by the way, is a valuable function, especially in the drug field."

The new executive director also reported he is in the process of recruiting a medical director for the center and that he will soon begin advertising for a psychiatric social worker and a psychiatric nurse.

The new positions are a part of an expansion program at the center in completing the association's move to a comprehensive program. When the center opened in 1968, its function was strictly as a child guidance clinic.

Golden Agers

by JUNE LANDMEIER

This December has been an exciting and interesting month for Golden Agers. More than 250 members plus staff and board members attended the annual Christmas Banquet held in Maine West High School. They also enjoyed the Christmas concert later in the auditorium.

On Dec. 27, the Des Plaines Historical Society will have "A Salute to the Golden Agers" at the Des Plaines Historical Museum on Lee Street. This is the society's way of showing appreciation for the many hours given by Golden Agers who serve as volunteer guides. Those who have served for 25 hours received membership cards from the historical society. They are: Mrs. A. Eggert, Mrs. H. Loewe, Mrs. D. Kehm, Mrs. Westhouse, Mrs. B. Borsch and Mrs. E. Ball. The Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts and their families will also be honored on this day. Several groups helped decorate the Christmas tree. Refreshments will be served from 1:30 until 4:30 p.m.

ON JAN. 5 the pot luck luncheon and card party will be held at West Park from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Anyone interested in Chinese checkers might like to practice until 2 p.m. and then enter the tournament at that time.

On Jan. 6 members will see the movie "The Song of Norway" at Eden's Two theaters in Northbrook. The United Motor Coach charter bus will leave from the Des Plaines Theater at 1:15 p.m. Total expenses are $2.65. Phone 296-6106 for further information. Payment will be due on Dec. 30.

Dist. 59 Rejects Human Ecology Program

School Dist. 59 participation in a $1,200,000 proposed human ecological educational program was rejected unanimously by the board of education Monday.

The proposal would be a four-year planning project to develop educational and community action programs.

Dr. Joseph Ellis of Northern Illinois University designed the proposal for federal funds under the Environmental Quality Education Act of 1970. He is seeking support from area school districts through the Northwest Educational Cooperative.

The board rejected the offer for several reasons.

Board member Judy Zanca of Des Plaines, said the personnel would not be available to help in the project at this time.

Although the funds of $300,000 a year for the next four years, if approved, would be available to cooperating schools and agencies, it is possible that participants may have to make in-kind contributions such as space or administrative time.

The district, if it had approved participation, would have been represented on the advisory council which would guide the program's development and operation.

BOARD PRESIDENT Richard Hess said he did not see the value of such a program to the elementary area. "My objection is that it would be four to six years at best before it would filter down to the schools," Sharrie Hildebrandt, board member, said.

Mrs. Zanca said, "I don't think our district has ignored the subject."

Supt. James Erviti reported that the schools were involved in ecology study through the science departments and termed the junior high outdoor education program the single biggest ecological event in the district.

He was requested by the board to provide more information on how much ecology is taught in the schools.

In another area, the board approved the second phase of a contract with Skokie Valley Electric Co. for security lighting on the 20 district schools. The contract was for $61,821 and is to be combined with parking lot lighting from an earlier contract for $66,250.

The board also approved the retaining of Wesley Wildman as negotiation consultant for the calendar year beginning Jan. 1 at $4,000.

THE POLICY READS: "Personal business new addition is not yet known."

ness days are granted to teachers for the specific purpose of conducting business which cannot reasonably be accomplished outside school hours and which requires that the teacher be present."

This would include religious observances, court appearance, legal hearings, appointments requested by civil authorities and completion of important contracts.

Personal business days may not be used to extend holidays or vacations and when a request precedes or follows either, the reason for the request must be stated.

Attendance at conferences, professional meetings and other similar activities are not considered personal business under the accepted policy.

After an hour of discussion, the board accepted 4 to 3 a modification on carpeting installed in the Lively Junior High School addition.

The carpet as installed shows a "pleasing color change every 12 feet across the room," according to the administration. The board's vote will allow the contractor to cut out the last inches from the edge of each strip and install a strip of the proper color. This will reduce the problem and permit educational usage in the least time, the administration report said.

The board accepted a refund of $1.10 on the job and also requested that a guarantee of the work be written into the present contract.

Discuss Moynihan Report

Mrs. Margo Crawford, a representative of the Illinois Commission on Human Relations, recently spoke to the Afro-American History classes at Maine West High School about the black family and the Moynihan Report.

The Moynihan Report states that the black family has been destroyed as a social unit in the United States, and Mrs. Crawford discussed how blacks feel about this report.

Afro-American History is a pilot course which is being tested this year at Maine West under the instruction of Charles Powers, social studies instructor. The course was organized by Arch Wood, an instructor at Maine East High School, Miss Darlene Erickson, an instructor at Maine South High School, Mrs. B. Young, a representative of the Illinois Commission on Human Relations, and Powers.

The course is offered for one semester as a senior elective. Approximately fifty students are enrolled in the two classes. The students study Afro-American history, black leadership and also black humanities. Although Maine West is the only school in the district which offers the course if adopted, the other three schools will also offer the program next year.

"So far, the feedback on the course has been positive. We are planning two guest speakers for this semester and more in the future," said Powers.

Snowmobile Tab $5 In Preserves

Use of designated forest preserve areas by snowmobile enthusiasts will require a $5 registration fee, the Cook County Forest Preserve District has announced.

Registrants will be issued a district sticker for display on their snowmobiles. Northwest suburban residents may register at the district's division headquarters, 3500 S. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine.

The district announcement also specified 10 areas, scattered throughout the county-wide forest preserve system as available for snowmobiling.

Areas designated in the Northwest suburbs were Model Airplane Field, Higgins Road, East of Rte. 53 in Elk Grove, and Hintz Tract Golf and Rand Roads, Des Plaines.

MRS. JOSEPH SOMMER pours for Mrs. Herbert Larsen using an authentic Danish coffee service. The ladies wore Norwegian outfits as they acted as hostesses for the Christmas Home Walk earlier this month.

THIS KNITTED SANTA was passed down from the Fred Duerkops to their grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Duerkop. It is among many old-fashioned decorations in their home.

by DOROTHY OLIVER

When Santa comes barreling down chimneys tonight he will be greeted by glowing pines and balsams hand-crafted and store-bought creations, candles, lights, snowmen replicas of his jolly old self and empty stockings of all sizes. As he enters two homes in particular in Des Plaines, he will find himself back in the early 1900s for a warm old-fashioned Christmas or across the ocean for a Scandinavian Jul.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Duerkop, 431 Alles St., have decorated the 65-year-old Duerkop family home for an old-fashioned Christmas. A red milk can filled with balsam boughs and wreaths welcome you at the front porch.

Enter the large two-story, yellow and gold frame house and Christmas is everywhere. A mistletoe garland tied with gold ribbon runs down the banister from the second floor. Poinsettias, pomander balls (apples rolled in spices and studded with cloves) and a wrought iron Santa and sleigh on red and green felt runners decorate the living room.

THE DINING room holds the big attraction — the huge full balsam Home-made ornaments, gingerbread cookies, candy canes and Italian lights cover the tree. Many of the ornaments have been in the family for many years, originating with the Fred Duerkops who built the house.

Red ball fringe trims the tree adding color and another touch of hominess.

Beside the tree is a 65-year-old dark wood cradle overflowing with gaily wrapped packages. The Duerkops found the cradle while attending an auction in Iowa, and it has become their "pride and joy."

Across the room is the white mantel shelf with four little stockings — one each for mom, dad, 4½-year-old Stephen and 13-month-old Daniel. The centerpiece for the dining room table is made of dried seed pods, dried flowers and cones and rests on a red table runner.

MRS. DUERKOP showed her home during a Christmas Home Walk earlier this month. The walk was sponsored by the First United Methodist Church of Des Plaines Women's Society of Christian Service.

For the showing, she had set her kitchen table in the holiday colors. Red runners criss-crossed on a green tablecloth. A platter of gingerbread cookies was ready for the eating.

In the family room was another reminder of a Christmas past — though not too far past. A small tree was decorated by the Duerkop children with the ornaments their parents made (from toilet paper rolls and yarn) the first Christmas they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Larsen opened their home at 964 Jeanette St. to the home walk. Mrs. Larsen's extensive collection of Scandinavian art set the mood for her Christmas decor.

THE FIREPLACE was decorated with poinsettia garland and a bold lettered "Merry Christmas" sign. Over the mantel was her display of Royal Danish China plates.

The low round coffee table was draped with a floor length green felt tablecloth which Mrs. Larsen had appliqued with Christmas figures and trimmed with sequins. For her centerpiece, Mrs. Larsen made a candleholder of artificial fruit and greens.

Fruit wreaths, again hand-made, decorated the walls in the living room and basement.

Her dining room table was set for after dinner coffee with Danish china of the full lace pattern. At the base of each candle on a Danish candelabrum, was a small fruit wreath with colored ribbon streamers.

The artificial balsam tree was covered with very old ornaments — some more than 100 years — from Germany and Czechoslovakia. Colored bead garlands went round and round. There were white doves with soft fan tails, a bird and nest, carousels and little houses made of glass beads, bells and glass ornaments with Scandinavian decals.

THE BASEMENT-FAMILY room was decorated from end to end. Balsam boughs gave off the pine scent in the large room, and balsam wreaths decorated the walls.

Mrs. Larsen had created a topiary tree which flashed with twinkling Italian lights. On one side of the room, a two-tiered candleholder was festooned with fruits and greens. A small tree on the ball held bubble lights and Swedish ornaments.

Mrs. Larsen was dressed in an authentic Norwegian outfit. Assisting her as hostess was Mrs. Joseph Sommer, also in the mid-length Norwegian Hollidohl print dress.

Mrs. Duerkop was assisted by Mrs. William Rice. Both women had made floor length red print quilted hostess gowns with matching gold trimmed bolero vests.

Whatever the decor, whatever the mood being presented the Duerkop and Larsen homes, as many others in Des Plaines, sent out one simple message — Merry Christmas.

HOLIDAY DECORATIONS surround Mrs. Herbert Larsen's collection of Royal Danish China plates. The Larsen home is decorated entirely with Scandinavian accents.

ONE MORE ORNAMENT is put in place by Mrs. Duerkop. She was dressed in a red print hostess gown with matching vest for the home walk.

Key Club For Men

The formation of a club to be known as the "Executives Key Club," has been announced by Sam Maglares, owner of the Navarone Restaurant in Elk Grove Village.

Members of the Key Club will be able to enjoy buffet luncheons for $2, purchase meats at cost, participate in golf outings, and be eligible for special tours at reduced rates.

An unusual aspect of the key club is a weekly fashion show for men.

Membership in the Executives Key Club is by application only, said Maglares. Additional information is available through 439-5740.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

Each New Year's Eve, sentimental disc jockeys spin the best song platters from the year's offerings. Movie critics rerun in print the best flicks. Who says the Potting Shed can't offer a last round-up of gardening tips before the old year is put out to pasture? (Everybody wants to get into the act.)

My favorite tips lifted from these inches of type have been culled from many of the year's adventures. It was a very good year for fungus gardens, wild gardens, dish gardens, for sprouting beans, picking cranberries and wild rice.

It was a buggy year — with bagworm, webworm, cottony maple scale invading our trees. And how can we forget the year of the praying mantis?

It was a bumper year for advocates of the orchid, peony and trillium.

It was a year that spawned not only mushrooms but the following tips:

A SERRATED GRAPEFRUIT spoon makes a good hand tool for digging stray dandelions in the lawn (in season).

A good way to repel hornets or bees swarming around the patio in search of a nesting spot is to light the charcoal grill.

Best way to store dahlias for the winter, the showfolk tell, is to dip them in melted paraffin.

To avoid water dripping down your arms when trying to water a hanging basket or high-level house plant, drop ice cubes into the pot instead of using a sprinkling can.

Oldie but goodie: You can tell a plant in a clay pot needs water when you tap it with a metal spoon. If it makes a hollow sound, it's dry — a flat sound and it's satisfied.

To keep neighbors neighborly if you're a compost man, set two plastic trash cans in the ground sans bottoms. Cover with accompanying lid. Keep one can for curing compost, the other for ready-to-use.

TO KEEP MOSQUITOES away on evenings just begging for yardwork, rub garlic juice on exposed parts of the skin. Keep the bottle handy and repeat as it wears off. (Take my word, it keeps people away too!)

White fly may be a sign of phosphorus deficiency in the soil. Suck them up with a garden vacuum if you have one and remove dandelion heads in season which attract white fly.

Want to keep birds away from strawberries and raspberries? Plant sour fruit too. Birds eat sweet fruit only when the sours (chokeberry, serviceberry, mulberry, hackberry, their favorites) are unavailable.

Crabgrass detests shade. To control it, keep Merion blue grass mowed high (three inches). If you get crabgrass then, I'll eat it!

A VENERABLE OLD gardener said, "If you want to grow really good cucumbers, sprinkle them at noon with warm water." (Cucumbers reel at the shock of cold water splashed on their leaves.)

A rusted-out wheelbarrow makes a splendid seedbed. Use the same treatment as for flats but give more frequent waterings. Wheel to planting site when seedlings are ready for transplanting in the spring.

For growers of rhododendron and azaleas out of their native soils, give these acid-loving plants an occasional boost with a solution of two tablespoons of vinegar to a quart of water, in addition to a soil additive of oak leaf mold, pine needles and peat moss at planting time.

If grass stains are a problem, rubbing alcohol removes them from cotton and colorfast material.

A PINCH OF DRY Sevin the size of a corsage pin head mixed in the soil will kiss goodbye aphids and springtails on house plants.

Look for night light as a possible culprit if mums did not set buds in the fall. Mums are sensitive to yard lights, street lights, neon or nearby window lights. Next year avoid planting where mums will receive night light.

Good makeshift terrarium tools: fondue forks, dowel rods, barbecue forks, skewers, turkey basters, long cotton swabs (for cleaning glass), tongs, dandelion diggers, plastic ice cream spoons, eyelash curlers, Windex bottles, shrimp-pers.

My gardening wish for the New Year is to find a really effective (and safe) ant control. Chlordane, dieldrin, DDT are out, cucumber peels, don't work, salt is ineffective, spiders don't get them all, and selling your home seems extreme. Let's hear some suggestions from the readers!

GUESS MY NUMBER

by Marilyn Hallman

Fool your friends with your number know-how! Ask someone to write a three-digit number, then reverse it, and finally to subtract the smaller number from the larger. For example:

297

Ask him the last digit of his answer. You can then tell him the whole answer! (Trick: The middle digit will always be 9. The first and last digits always total 9. So, if you know the last one you can figure out the first one.)

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Do you know what English peas are? They are on my bland diet and I can't find them in the grocery. —Elsie Chalmers.

Fairly large peas are called English peas.

Dear Dorothy: On cold nights, I tumble the children's pajamas in the warm dryer for a few minutes. It not only suggests bedtime, but they seem to enjoy putting on toasty-warm night clothes. —Mrs. Wm. A.

Served a cup of hot tea at my daughter's home. I was surprised by the unusual but most pleasant taste. All she had done was to pour the hot tea over a piece of fresh orange peel.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Shades Are Handy

Fixing up your bedroom? Window shades have great decorative potential.

A plain shade makes a handy bulletin board that will expand to keep up with a growing collection of memos, photos and souvenirs.

Distribute Fact Sheet

A fact sheet examining the pros and cons of annexation and incorporation will be delivered door-to-door in Prospect Heights soon after Jan. 1.

The fact sheet is being prepared by the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, which includes all of the home owner organizations in Prospect Heights and a portion of unincorporated Mount Prospect.

The fact sheet will be distributed by each homeowner association. Later the homeowner association's officers will poll their members' reactions to the annexation incorporation issue. Council members say they will then begin to take steps toward achieving the community's preference.

IN BOTH CASES, these steps will probably include circulating a petition and later holding a referendum. If 100 per cent of the voters involved sign a petition requesting either annexation or incorporation, a referendum would not be necessary.

If a majority of Prospect Heights residents prefer annexation, they cannot proceed past the petition stage without the approval of the village they plan to annex to.

In the case of incorporation, state statutes require that the unincorporated area must first secure the consent of any municipality within one and a half miles of the proposed boundaries. Prospect Heights is contiguous to Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Des Plaines and Arlington Heights.

However, some specialists in municipal law claim it may be possible for Prospect Heights to incorporate as a city without this consent because of a contradiction in state statutes.

Before the council takes any action in either direction, residents must decide what course they prefer.

TO AID RESIDENTS in this decision council members are now compiling the fact sheet which will include a two page discussion of each issue.

According to Mrs. Marie Caylor, secretary of the council, these sheets will be an expansion of information already presented to residents at a public meeting in November.

At that time a panel of homeowners discussed annexation and incorporation before an audience of more than 500 people. Ronald Burton, vice chairman of the council, advocated annexation because, "it will give us an opportunity to join an established, functioning, well organized and well financed municipality."

On the other hand, Jack Gilligan, a member of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, favors incorporation because, "it insures local control by a government we elect and thus the government is more nearly in line with our objectives."

FOLLOWING GILLIGAN'S and Burton's presentations some of the residents in the audience said they were confused by the issue and needed more information.

The council members hope the fact sheets will clear up this confusion and enable residents to choose either in corporation or annexation.

The council has taken a stand against maintaining Prospect Heights' unincorporated status. Members say some form of government is necessary to alleviate problems such as undesirable rezoning, involuntary annexation and flood control.

"We can't look our heads in the sand and hope these problems will go away," said Mrs. Caylor. "If we do we will be come an island with no place to go at the mercy of disintegrated county services."

Chemical NTA To Be Eliminated

A phosphate-free detergent which formerly contained harmful chemical will continue to be manufactured but with a substitute for the chemical an Elk Grove Village manufacturer said Wednesday.

Use of the harmful chemical (NTA) in the manufacture of the detergent Loft will be discontinued next week according to Sanford Aronberg, president of Sanford Chemical Co., 1945 Touhy Ave., Elk Grove Village.

Last week the U.S. Public Health Service and Environment Protection Agency reported experiments in laboratory animals indicating that NTA may cause death and birth defects. At the same time a joint statement announced the voluntary discontinuance of phosphate-free detergents containing the chemical by major manufacturers.

ARONBERG SAID that his firm had planned to discontinue the use of NTA before the announcement was made.

A natural soap and polyelectrolytes will be used as a substitute for the chemical and production of Loft will continue on schedule, he said.

Loft has been on the market for two months as a phosphate-free detergent. Distribution of the product is through local dairies including Modern Dairy Co. and Arlington Milk Inc. as well as hardware stores and franchise operations.

Aronberg said that Loft has had more than 2,500 customers in the last two months from the two Arlington Heights dairies.

Christmas Brings Brothers Together

by JIM HODL

After 47 years, two brothers were reunited in Palatine Monday. Gottfrid Wikman, 125 N. Mozart St., met his brother Edwin, who came from Sweden to visit his relatives for Christmas.

Wikman had not seen his brother since he immigrated to America in 1923. His brother, who remained in Sweden, was eight years old at the time.

"This is the best Christmas present I could have," Wikman said yesterday. "I have had no better gift in my entire life."

Wikman's brother is visiting America for two weeks to visit his relatives, most of whom he has never met. Wikman and his wife have five children, 22 grandchildren and are expecting great-grandchildren in a few years.

On Christmas Eve, Edwin and his wife Greta will have dinner at Wikman's daughter Ruth's home in Lake Mills, Wis.

EDWIN COMES FROM Alingsås, a town near Sweden's port city of Gothenburg. He is a civilian designer for a company related to the Volvo automobile company. He designs hoists, cranes, hydraulic lifts and half-track trucks.

Edwin was happy to meet his brother again too. He said he felt welcomed when he was greeted by Wikman and his wife at O'Hare Airport Monday.

Edwin's wife Greta said she was happy to meet Wikman and his wife too. This was the first time the Wikman's wives met each other or their brother in laws.

Edwin said he enjoyed Palatine because it was so quiet. He expressed a liking for America because of its traffic.

Traffic here is not like in Sweden. In Sweden the traffic is crazy and goes very fast while American traffic goes at a much more moderate and orderly pace, he said.

Wikman is a builder and a decorator and has lived in Palatine for some time.

Prime Rate Is Dropped

The suburban consumer may not feel the effects of the latest drop in the prime interest rate for several weeks, but the move does confirm a general softening in the cost of money.

Major Chicago banks and others across the country dropped their prime interest rates Tuesday from 7 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent. This is the rate charged by a bank to its most credit worthy customers, usually large corporations.

The reaction of Northwest suburban bankers to prime rate cuts is generally mixed, since the "country banks" may not have enough borrowers qualified for the prime interest rate to justify a change. Two Arlington Heights bankers expressed this view.

"WE DROPPED OUR prime interest rate from 7 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent," but without too much fanfare," said Fritz Wolf, president of the Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights and Northwest Trust and Savings Bank. "This has a limited effect for suburban and Chicago banks because there are just a few borrowers who are immediately affected. It affects other interest rates it will take several weeks."

Harold C. Harvey, president of the new North Point State Bank in Arlington Heights, said his institution is not affected by the prime interest cuts. He expects other interest rates to drop as a result of prime interest rate slashes this week.

"There is a time lag on other interest rates being affected by the prime rate," said Harvey. "Probably commercial rates will drop but it's doubtful that consumer and mortgage rates will drop for some time. It's obvious that the cost of money is going down, but it will be after the first of the year or in the spring before other rates are dropped."

Tuesday's lowering in the prime rate was led off by Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, followed by the Bank of America in San Francisco and other large banks. Slack demand for business loans was the reason generally given for the rate cuts.

Seek Homes For Teachers

Mr. and Mrs. David Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine, are helping a Chicago organization secure housing on New Year's Day for teachers from several foreign countries.

Mrs. Janet Bone said she and her husband are members of International Visitors Center which programs home hospitality for foreign businessmen and teachers.

She is asking residents of the Northwest suburbs to help the center in this effort.

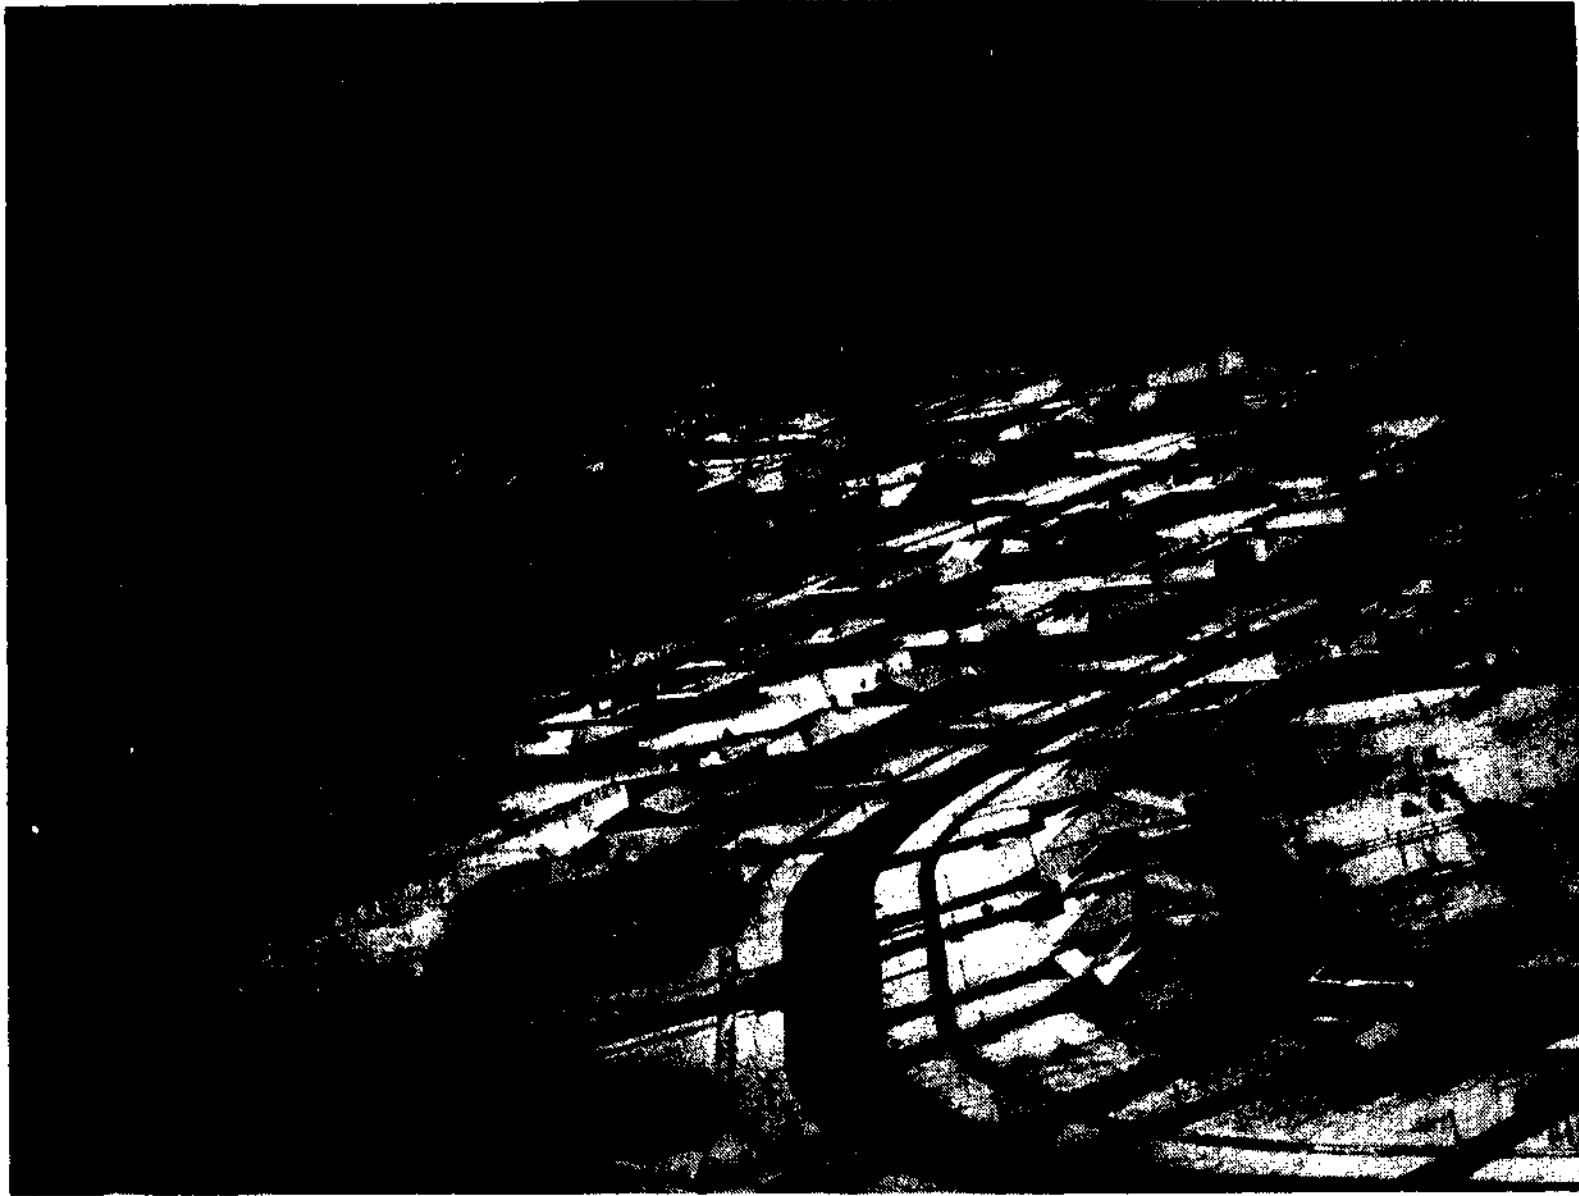

The center is located in Chicago and sponsored by the federal Health, Education and Welfare Dept.

This New Year's, math, science and vocational education teachers will be in need of holiday housing.

The teachers are from India, Italy, Liberia, Nepal, Hong Kong, Thailand, Costa Rica and Brazil, Mrs. Bone said. All the visitors speak fluent English.

"We are looking to place them in area homes on Jan. 1 only, and would appreciate any volunteers wishing to offer their hospitality," she added.

The center is headed by Mrs. Marie Goldstein who can be contacted at DE 2-5875. Her office is located at 116 S. Michigan Ave.

SANTA'S DILEMMA — One might guess that Santa would have a problem finding little Johnny's house as his sleigh hovers over the sub-division clusters in the Northwest suburban area. How can one man in a sleigh, at night, flying without headlights, find one chimney? And what if there is a snow storm?

mented; and he was emphatic about counter-measures his department is taking.

"We're out with all the manpower we can muster to protect everyone from the dangerous thinking that anyone can over-indulge and then slide behind the wheel of a car.

Research information circulated by the International Association of Chiefs of Police indicates that alcohol is a factor in as many as half of our traffic accidents. "The Driver's Guide to Drinking," published by the National Safety Council, states:

"THE OCCASIONS for drinking are endless. So are the chances for accidents on the highway. You can help solve the No. 1 highway problem if you:

—Understand alcohol and what it does.
—Understand what alcohol does to you.
—Know your limitations and stay within them."

"Contrary to popular belief, alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant," it was pointed out.

The NSC report supports this view of the effects of alcohol:

"Alcohol slows reflexes, impairs coordination, reduces visual acuity. It dulls normal caution. Concentration becomes difficult. You can't think as clearly, as quickly or as rationally as you usually do. And you can't act as fast."

Put a person in this condition behind the wheel of a car, add winter's poor visibility and inadequate traction, and you multiply beyond all reason the chances of a tragic crash, it was pointed out.

HOW MUCH A person can drink varies, according to experts. Alcohol build-up in the blood depends on: (1) the amount of alcohol (number and strength of drinks); (2) time elapsed since drinking began; (3) body weight; and (4) quantity and kind of food in the stomach.

The chief's noted that black coffee, cold showers, fresh air or other folklore remedies won't help. Time is the only answer — time for your body to dispose of the alcohol.

"And after several drinks, that time may be several hours before it's safe to drive again," the chiefs said.

Hustle... Hustle, Coach Tells Kids

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

It was supposed to be a basketball clinic.

It was — and a lot more. Maine West basketball coach Gaston Freeman held a basketball clinic for Des Plaines boys at Algonquin Junior High School Saturday afternoon. More than 75 boys turned out to get coaching tips from the Warrior mentor who has been coaching the game for nearly a quarter century.

Gaston Freeman held a basketball clinic all right, but it was also a think clinic. And a motivation clinic.

"I only want boys who will put out and hustle — all the time," Freeman said.

"I ask you — would you rather have a new Cadillac with no gas or an old Ford with gas?"

"The Cadillac certainly has all the beauty and all the potential," Freeman went on. "But what good is it without any gas in it?"

"The old Ford isn't as pretty and it isn't as flashy but at least it has gas in it and you can get something out of it."

"As far as I'm concerned, I'll take the boy who has some gas — the boy who will put out and move and hustle. I'll pass up the flashy Cadillac and take the old Ford every time."

Freeman brought 10 of his Warrior cagers with him to the clinic and the Warrior demonstrated to the boys man-to-man and zone defenses, the fast break, patterned offenses and other fundamentals.

While on the subject of defense Freeman said, "Basketball is far behind football in the defensive game. Basketball has not nearly been as scientific about defense like football has."

"But basketball is catching up and defenses are getting more complex. Great strides have been made in the last few years in defensive basketball."

After the clinic was completed, the boys went out on the court and practiced some of the new techniques which they had learned.

And, judging by the way some of them looked, there are many fine potential Maine West Warriors coming up for the future — with gas for hustle in them, of course.

TWO IN ONE. Two instructional techniques were demonstrated at the same time by Maine West's Dennis Willison and Tom Kummer. Willison is demonstrating his dribbling skills while Kummer shows the proper defensive techniques during a basketball clinic for area youngsters at Algonquin Junior High School. Judging by the picture, it seemed like everyone was enjoying themselves at the same time.

IT IS DIFFICULT to defense someone such as Maine West's Bruce Kerr, who stands 6-9, when you're only four and a half feet tall. But this youngster from Des Plaines gives it a try as Kerr demonstrates his moves to the basket during coach Gaston Freeman's coaching clinic at Algonquin Junior High School on Saturday.

Cagers Launch Play In Holiday Tournaments

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

The coming of the Christmas Holidays brings the barrage of basketball tournaments throughout the state.

The area's three cage teams will be in tourney action this weekend. But instead of the usual conglomeration of teams involved in the tournaments, some of the class squads in the state will be competing against the locals.

Maine West will compete in the Proviso West Holiday Tournament in which three teams are ranked in the top 16 in the state.

Maine East will be in the DeKalb Holiday Tournament where four teams have been mentioned in state rankings.

Notre Dame will once again host its own Christmas Classic where the state's sixth ranked teams and a couple of area powers will compete.

Here is a rundown of the weekend's tournaments:

PROVISO WEST TOURNEY

More ranked teams in the state will compete in this tournament than in any other in the state. Top ranked LaGrange, fourth ranked Proviso East, 15th ranked Elgin and rated Maine West and York will be among the contestants.

Saturday's schedule will have York against East Leyden at 8:45 a.m., Elgin against Morton East at 10:30 a.m., Maine West against Lake Forest at 12:30 p.m., Proviso East against Joliet West at 2:15 p.m., Downers Grove North against St. Joseph at 4 p.m., LaGrange against Hinsdale South at 6 p.m., Proviso West against Addison Trail at 7:45 p.m., Willowbrook against Riverside-Brookfield at 9:30 p.m.

If Maine West defeats Lake Forest the Warriors will go against the winner of the Proviso East-Joliet West game on Monday at 6 p.m.

If the Warriors lose to Lake Forest they will go into the losers' bracket to play the loser of the Proviso East-Joliet West game on Monday at 10:30 a.m.

First round favorites are York, Elgin, Maine West, Proviso East, Downers Grove North, LaGrange, Proviso West and Willowbrook. If all eight teams should win, the semi-final round should prove to be extremely interesting with matchups including York-Elgin, Maine West-Proviso East, Downers Grove North-LaGrange and Proviso West-Willowbrook.

DEKALB TOURNEY

Four teams in this tournament have been given honorable mention in most rankings — Calumet of Chicago, Evanston, Lincoln-Way and St. Charles. Lincoln-Way is the defending champion.

Maine East will not be in action until Monday.

Saturday's schedule has Evanston against Calumet at 1:30 p.m., St. Charles against Rock Falls at 3 p.m., Lincoln Way against Crystal Lake at 7 p.m. and DeKalb against Libertyville at 8:30 p.m.

Monday's slate has Hinsdale Central against Sycamore at 1:30 p.m., Belvidere against Morton West at 3 p.m., Maine East against Kaneland at 7 p.m. and Glenbard East against Rochelle at 8:30 p.m.

If Maine East wins on Monday the Demons will play against the winner of the Glenbard East-Rochelle game at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday. If the Demons lose their opening game they will play at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday against the loser of the Glenbard East-Rochelle game.

Kaneland only has one starter back from last year, 6-3 center Gus Harbell. Kaneland is a small team but is well disciplined and can run with the ball. Harbell is the squad's leading scorer, averaging 16 points per game.

NOTRE DAME TOURNEY

Marian Catholic, the sixth ranked team in the state, has been listed as the favorite in this tournament.

Saturday's schedule has Luther South against St. Viator at 7 p.m. and Lane Tech against Marian Central at 8:30 p.m.

Monday's slate has Immaculate Conception against West Leyden at 7:30 p.m. and St. Francis De Sales against Notre Dame at 9 p.m.

If Notre Dame wins on Monday the Dons will play Tuesday against the winner of the Immaculate Conception-West Leyden game at 9 p.m. If the Dons lose they will play the loser of the Immaculate Conception-West Leyden game on Tuesday at 6 p.m.

Last weekend Notre Dame split a pair of Suburban Catholic Conference games, losing to Carmel 60-58 on Friday while beating Marist 85-53 on Saturday.

Carmel took a 60-58 lead with 1:03 left in the game and Notre Dame had three chances to tie up the score but turnovers prevented the Dons from taking a shot.

Carmel outrebounded the Dons by a wide margin and took 14 more shots than the Dons. Tom Les had 18 points, Bill Faber 14 and Greg Stratton 11 for Notre Dame.

The Dons led all the way against Marist while shooting at a 56 per cent clip. Les had 18 points, John Hillinger 11 and Stratton 14 for the Dons. Stratton and Hillinger had 10 rebounds each.

Travelers, Grand Rapids Collide

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

So much for the losing streak. That's just painful history.

It's time to start making up for those frustrating weekends.

Bolstered by the addition of two players, optimistic after a thrilling victory, the Northwest Travelers now await, with confidence, their most demanding weekend of the 1970-71 season.

A trip to Grand Rapids, Mich., Saturday and a home game with these same Tackers on Sunday face the Travelers as they continue their swing through the arduous Continental Basketball Association schedule.

Prior to that 123-122 heart-stopper over Peoria last Sunday, a victory that checked a six-game losing streak, this weekend doubleheader with Grand Rapids was looked upon as a king-sized headache in the schedule.

It's a four-hour trip — one way — and the trip seems so much longer when you're bouncing around at the bottom of the league ladder with no apparent chance to initiate a climb.

That all changed Sunday evening in one half of basketball.

Today, the Travelers are optimistic. They're confident about the schedule ahead. They know what faces them but they feel they can play with anybody in this league — and beat anybody.

Northwest has needed some maneuverability in its lineup, a stronger bench, eight or nine players who could move in and out without altering the effectiveness of the attack.

The addition of 6-foot-10 Paul Ruffner and 6-foot-7 A. W. Holt from the Chicago Bulls supplied that vital depth. Both performers looked good Sunday against Peoria. Both should start this Saturday and Sunday against Grand Rapids.

The acquisition of these two basketball standouts comes at just the right time because Northwest will be without the services of 6-foot-8 Mel Bell until Jan. 1. Bell, who is in Houston, Tex., is averaging 25 a game and will be missed.

Holt will move into that forward slot this weekend, and this jumping-jack who played at Jackson (Miss.) State has all the tools. He can score, rebound, and he pulled off some defensive moves ala Bill Russell in that win over Peoria.

Holt was an honorable mention All-American at Jackson State. He tried out with the Dallas Chapparrals of the ABA and then played with the Scranton Miners of the Eastern League last season.

A. W. joined the Bulls as a free agent for rookie camp and was invited back to the veteran camp where he earned a spot on the roster with his strong rebounding, leaping ability and overall desire and hustle. He popped in 18 in his debut with the Travelers last Sunday.

Ruffner, a fine shooter and strong board man, fired in 32 points for Northwest in his first appearance. Paul was the No. 2 draftee of the Bulls behind guard Jimmy Collins after a spectacular career at Brigham Young University.

The 22-year-old native of Downey, Calif., led the Provo, Utah based Cougars in rebounding during his junior and senior seasons and averaged 17.7 in scoring. He had a career high of 43 points.

Ruffner enrolled at Brigham Young as a transfer from Cerritos Jr. College in California, where he paced the team to a state JC title and earned a berth on the JC team in the Olympic trials.

Holt and Ruffner both live in Rolling Meadows.

With these additions, and some consistent play from Bell, Sey Brown, Eddie Modestas, Dennis Dickens, Charley Tucker and the rest of the Northwest cast, the Travelers will be a team to watch over the final 13 games in the CBA season.

They're expecting a rugged assignment Saturday in Grand Rapids. "It's a tough place to play in, and win in," says Tucker, the flashy Traveler guard who is working on an advanced degree at Michigan State University.

"You don't get much of a break there. You have to play a tremendous game, get out in front and just hold on."

Grand Rapids, off-and-on this winter, closed fast in the 1969-70 season and finished with a 13-7 record for second place.

Don Edwards, a 6-1 guard and No. 2 scorer in the CBA last season with a 27.7 mark, is averaging better than 30 a game this time around. He's quick, with all the moves.

The Tackers also feature player-coach Willie Jones (6-3) at guard, a former star at Northwestern University who was with the Detroit Pistons for five years, and 6-foot-5 Willie Bond, a 23.1 scorer in CBA play last winter.

Added from that 1969-70 club were 6-3 Tom Dykstra, Little All-American from Wheaton (Ill.) College; Roy Haywood (6-4), older brother of ABA star Spencer; and Floyd McMillon (6-9), all-conference three years at Missouri State and brother to Shelly McMillon, ex-DuSable High and NBA cager.

Others on the Grand Rapids roster are Al Vandermeer (6-5), a fierce rebounder who played at Alma (Mich.) College; Dave Nelson (6-7), all-conference four years at Central Michigan with all the school scoring records; Clifford Williams (6-3), who has NBA experience with the Detroit Pistons; Joe Johnson (6-4) from Parsons College; and Ted Hillary (6-3), most valuable player in NCAA regional play while performing for St. Joseph (Ind.) College.

Travelers Set Merchants Night

Sunday will be Merchants Night at the Northwest Travelers professional basketball game with Grand Rapids, Mich. Prizes will be presented to several youngsters as a part of the special evening. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. Sunday and the tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Prospect High School gymnasium.

Hinsdale Shows Strength

Ten of the better gymnastics teams in the state entered in the Maine East Invitational meet and all observers were asking the same question — does Hinsdale Central have the quality to successfully defend the state championship it won a year ago?

The Maine East Invitational proved that Hinsdale Central will have to be favored once again.

The defending champions won the meet with 47.25 points while Evanston took second with 45.35.

Elk Grove was third, Waukegan fourth, Arlington fifth, Prospect sixth, Wheeling seventh, Niles West eighth, Maine South ninth and Maine East 10th.

Each team entered just one gymnast in each event. Therefore, depth did not come into the scoring picture.

Hinsdale Central and Evanston dominated most of the first places except two. Al Mitsos of Elk Grove captured first place on the trampoline while teammate James Malmehall was first on the still rings.

Arlington's top performer was Bobby Wilson who took second place on the horizontal bar.

Prospect's top performer was Guy Courtney who finished third in free floor exercise.

Maine East took a pair of fourth places — Steve Siegler on the parallel bars and Neil Ropski on the side horse.

Siebold, Byrne Triumph

Elk Grove, making their fourth appearance at the eight-team Ridgewood Wrestling tournament, crowned a pair of class champions while making their most impressive appearance to date.

Both Ken Siebold and Dennis Byrne battered their way through three straight matches to win divisional crowns as the Grenadiers nailed down fourth place in the standings, their best yet.

Leading the parade was Homewood-Flossmoor with 86 points, Elmwood Park with 71, Niles North with 66 and Elk Grove with 42. Fenton was a close fifth with 38 points while host Ridgewood gathered 29 and Holy Cross 21. Maine South failed to arrive on time.

Although the Grenadiers only pushed South failed to arrive on time, two of their grapplers into the finals, there were other impressive performances against the tough competition.

Bob Gleff, Bob Webb and Rick Moss all landed third place honors by winning in the opening round, losing in the semifinals and then coming back for a victory in the consolation round.

Notre Dame Swimmers Post 64-31 Win Over Prospect

The Prospect swim team stepped out of Mid Suburban League action in traveling to Notre Dame, but the dons walked on water, and the Knights, 64-31.

Prospect came up with a victory in the opening 200-yard medley relay and the 100-yard butterfly, but Notre Dame swam off with the rest of the blue ribbons.

Don gold medalists were John Stoesser in the 200-yard freestyle, Tom Orr in the 160-yard individual medley, Terry Kelly in the 60-yard free, Rich Schweiss in diving, Dennis Wieszcholek in the 100-yard free, Gabe Zarnoti in the 400-yard free, Ron Lauf in the backstroke and Jim Maurer in the breaststroke.

The Knights' other top-notch performance came in the butterfly event as Jeff Larsen conquered his opposition. Prospect's quartet of John Flynn, John Todd, Larsen and Jerry House thrust the Knights in front after one event, but the Dons dominated after that.

Notre Dame was also the victor on the sophomore level while ringing up a near duplicate 65-30 triumph.

Regional Cage Sites Revealed

Centers for district, regional, sectional and state final basketball tournaments in the 1971 state high school championship series were announced this week.

In the Paddock area, regional tournaments will be held at Wheeling, Prospect and Maine East. There will be 60 regionals and 43 districts in all. All except 17 regionals will include one district winner.

For the second straight year, the sectional tourney in this area will be held at Fremd in Palatine. It will bring together regional champions from Prospect, Wheeling, Niles West and Waukegan. The Maine East regional winner will advance to the Hinsdale sectional.

The sectional champs from Fremd and Hinsdale will clash in a super-sectional, or first-round state final game, at McGraw Hall in Evanston.

This will be the final season in which Illinois will crown one state champion in basketball. A new two-class system according to enrollment size has been adopted and will begin next season.

District play will be held the week of Feb. 22. All regional and sectional tournaments will follow at one-week intervals. Super-sectionals will be March 16, quarterfinals in Champaign March 19 and semi-finals and championship game March 20.

The work of assigning 700 Illinois high schools to district and regional tournaments is now under way. Assignments will be announced about Jan. 8.

LaGrange and East Moline had the champion and runner-up teams, respectively, in last year's tourney.

Christmas, War 'Mixed'

For 52 years George F. Sindelar has carried in his heart a Christmas memory which gives him both joy and sadness. Sindelar, of 1905 N. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights, was a member of the 19th Division which remained in Germany following the World War I Armistice in November 1918. The occupation force was on the march through the Christmas season moving from Stenay, France, to Trier, Germany.

"When we stopped for a night's rest there would be one or two or three of us placed in one home, according to how much room there was," Sindelar wrote recently.

It was in these homes, among those who had been enemies weeks before that Sindelar encountered "real heartbreaks and also the humility and the love of people."

The first home in Germany where Sindelar and his companions stayed was occupied only by an elderly lady who had lost her husband, two sons and a brother in four years of fighting.

SHE TOLD THE soldiers her diet consisted of potatoes once a day and a few ounces of meat on Sunday. For three years, she had used burned wheat for coffee.

However, hanging in the kitchen was a small ham — which the woman offered to Sindelar and the others.

In a village called Waxweiler, four of the men were placed in a home with an elderly couple and two daughters. The family had lost three of its four sons in the war, yet they gave up their beds for the American soldiers and slept on the kitchen floor.

The men were in the home six days. On a Sunday morning Sindelar looked out the window and saw a priest approaching carrying something which looked like a diploma.

"WHEN HE ENTERED the home both father and mother fell on their knees and their eyes filled with tears," said Sindelar. The priest unrolled the "diploma," a picture of an angel placing a wreath on a soldier's grave.

It was a notice that the family's fourth son had been killed.

On Christmas Eve Sindelar and nine companions were billeted in the home of an elderly woman. She had lost her husband and son.

"The weather was cold and dreary," Sindelar recalled. "It did not seem like Christmas Eve — everything so barren, so lost, so sad — no sign of a Christmas tree or gifts."

But when they awoke on Christmas

"There in the middle of the room was a small decorated tree with ten apples hanging on it — one for each of us."

That Christmas day, the ten soldiers — four Catholics and six Protestants — attended the only available service. Christmas in a Catholic church about two miles away.

The church was in a valley and Sindelar said it was "a wonderful sight. People from all directions walking over the hills to church."

But when the men entered the church, they found the congregation was almost all women, dressed in black. We saw only about four men and they were crippled," he said.

Name County Police Chief

A 41-year-old Chicago police captain has been named by Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod as Chief of the Sheriff's Police.

The post, formerly held by John E. Kistner, an appointee of former Sheriff Joseph F. Woods, went to Edmund F. Dobbs of Chicago. Elrod announced Friday Dobbs will begin duties immediately.

In announcing the appointment, Elrod described Dobbs as "a professional law enforcement officer who has the quality and ability that is needed to fill the sensitive position of Chief of the Sheriff's Police."

A NATIVE CHICAGOAN, Dobbs was educated in city public schools and holds a master's degree in public administration from the Illinois Institute of Technology.

His law enforcement career began in 1951 with his appointment to the Chicago Police Department. During his 17 years on the department, he served in a variety of assignments ranging from loop traffic control to the intelligence division. Dobbs was promoted to detective in 1961 and subsequently was assigned to the 4th area homicide division.

Later assignments in his career included supervisor of the 10th district patrol division, an area supervisor in the detective division and commanding officer of the intelligence division's criminal unit. Since September he has been assigned to the patrol division's task force.

Resident Attends

Robert Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Wilson of 1628 Sycamore St., Des Plaines, was one of the 27 students invited to attend the President's Conference on Student Life at Centenary College, Shreveport, La.

The annual meeting, held in a quiet atmosphere away from the campus, brings together students, faculty, and staff in an open and frank discussion of all facets of college life. In the past both students and administrative officials have indicated the meetings are useful in establishing good lines of communication.

Illinois Laws Are Tough On Drinking Drivers

The number of Illinois motorists convicted on charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol or dangerous drugs promises to become the highest in Illinois history, the Illinois State Bar Assn. (ISBA) reported. The previous high was set in 1969 when 13,963 persons were convicted.

The association said the number of drivers convicted each year of having had "one too many for the road" has climbed steadily during the past decade, according to records kept by the Secretary of State's office in Springfield. There have been only a few convictions for driving under the influence of dangerous drugs.

Under state law, conviction on a "D.W.I." (driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or dangerous drugs) results in the automatic revocation of the person's license by the Secretary of State. Normally, the bar group stated, the person whose license is revoked must wait one year before applying for another driver's license.

The number of "D.W.I." convictions has steadily risen each year since 1963 when there were 5,595 convictions. In 1964 there was a sharp increase to 6,094 and the trend continues.

In hardship cases, the ISBA said, the person whose license is revoked may qualify for a restricted permit which would allow him to operate a motor vehicle between his residence and place of employment.

THE ISBA ADDED there is no guarantee that a new license will be issued upon application after the one-year waiting period, since the applicant may be rejected if his trustworthiness in the driver's seat is still a matter of doubt.

By law, a person is presumed to be under the influence of alcohol if he has 0.10 per cent or more by weight of alcohol in his blood. A person of average weight will normally reach that level after consuming two strong alcoholic drinks or three not-so-strong drinks during a one-hour period. A thin person will reach the "influence" level sooner.

The percentage of alcohol in a person's blood can be determined by chemical analysis of his blood, breath, urine or saliva.

Under current law, a test for blood alcohol content may not be given without a person's consent. If a driver refuses to take the test, neither the fact of his refusal nor results of any test taken over his objection can be used as evidence against him in court.

If a person consents to a chemical test, the results must be made available to him or his attorney. If a test shows that a person had less than 0.05 per cent by weight of alcohol in his blood, he is presumed to be sober. If the level is between 0.05 and 0.10 per cent, there is no presumption one way or the other. However, this fact may be considered with other competent evidence in determining whether the person was under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The Lighter Side

Talk Show A Defense Against Revolution?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Perhaps you have noticed that violence by campus radicals and other militants appears to have diminished this fall. And perhaps you have been wondering why.

If so, I invite your attention to the steady proliferation of television "talk" shows.

Television news coverage has occasionally been accused of causing violence, the theory being that demonstrators tend to become more frenetic when the cameras are turned their way.

This may be true, but any violence attributable to network newsmen certainly is more than offset by the talk shows, which have become America's first line of defense against revolution.

IN ILLUSTRATION of this point, let us say that a terrorist group called the "Meteorologists" plans to bomb a plant that makes frozen onion rings served in military mess halls.

The blasting party assembles at the appointed hour and awaits the arrival of their leader, Sam Boombang. After they have been standing around for 30 minutes or so, a runner arrives with a message.

"The operation has been scrubbed for tonight," he reports.

"What's the matter?" someone asks.

"Did somebody tip off the pigs?"

"No," the runner replies. "Boombang is appearing on the David Susskind Show."

This does not mean, of course, that a certain amount of terrorism doesn't take place. But think how much greater it would be if television didn't keep most of the radical leaders tied up on talk shows.

If you check the dates on recent bombings, I think you will find that all of them occurred on nights when David Frost failed to interview the leader of some extremist group.

THE NUMBER of radical activists who are inactivated by Dick Cavett and Johnny Carson is far greater than the sum of their radical guests.

If a revolutionist is hooked for the Merv Griffin show, his loyal followers naturally watch the program. As do the leaders and members of other militant factions.

Consequently, a single guest shot on a network talk show can effectively neutralize the entire terrorist apparatus in this country.

Putting this situation in historical perspective, we can see that if David Susskind had been Cuban, Fidel Castro would never have gotten out of the Maestra Mountains.

Withholding Not A Must

This column, answering questions on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

Q—A FELLOW at the place where I work after school says I can stop income tax withholding on my pay if I want to. Is that right?

A—Yes, you may stop income tax withholding on your earnings if you owed no Federal income tax last year and expect to owe none this year. This is done by completing Form W-4-E and giving it to your employer. If you earn less than $1725 this year you won't have to pay tax.

Q—THE $70 payment I sent in several weeks ago was not deducted from the tax bill you sent me. What should I do?

A—Reduce the bill by the amount of your last payment and pay the difference. Return the bill with your payment and note on it the amount of your previous payment, the date paid and where it was sent. What might have happened is that the bill was issued before your payment had been processed and credited to your account.

Sometimes, however, payments are received that cannot be credited because there is insufficient information to identify the payment. This happens when the payment is received without an accompanying bill or notice and the payment is not identified by the taxpayer's social security number.

If the payment carries a social security number then it can be readily identified and credited to the taxpayer's account.

Q—MY NEIGHBORS tell me I can sell my house and not pay any tax on the profit since I'm over 65. Can I really do that?

A—Yes, all or part of the profits from the sale of the home may be tax free if you are 65 or over before the date of the sale and owned and used the house as your principal residence for at least five of the last eight years.

When these conditions are met, all the profit is tax free when the adjusted sales price is $30,000 or less. When the price is above that, only a proportionate part of the profit is taxable.

For details in this and other benefits for taxpayers 65 and over, send a post card to your district office and ask for a free copy of Publication 554, Tax Benefits for Older Americans.

Q—I'M THINKING of buying some shares of stock. Is there any advantage of putting the account in my wife's name as well as my own?

A—There are many considerations to be taken into account. From a Federal tax standpoint, the owner of stock is entitled to exclude up to $100 in ordinary dividends from his income. If the stock is jointly owned, then each could receive up to $100 in dividends tax free.
